Nixon Counter Rejected

U.S. Braces For Protest

From UPI, AP

WASHINGTON — The U.S. braced Tuesday for today's Vietnam Moratorium Day after the Nixon administration urged its leaders to repudiate Hanoi's support for their demonstration against the war, but got a curt refusal.

•

Vice-President Spiro Agnew, speaking with President Nixon's blessing, described as "incredible" an open letter to the American people by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong. Argew said demonstration leaders should repudiate the letter, which expressed hope that the protest would force Nixon to withdraw from the war.

But the moratorium leaders quickly issued this statement:

"Oct. 15 is an appeal to the consoience of the American people. It is regrettable that the administration would seize this straw in an attempt to discredit the patriotism of those millions of Americans who sincerely desire peace."

Agnew called the Dong letter "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy power." He said Dong tried to make it appear the American people would demonstrate in support of Hanoi, and Dong showed "a gross lack of understanding" of the meaning of free expression and open dissent in a free country.

The organizers predicted Nixon would respond to the protest by stepping up U.S. withdrawals from the war zone.

But Nothing Illegal

Provinces Late In Welfare Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario and Quebec, and probably several other provinces, have failed to keep their agreement with the federal government under which more than $700,000,000 has been paid for welfare programs, informants said Tuesday.

While the provincial defaults do not appear to be illegal, the auditor-general's office has instructed field representatives in the provinces to report on how widespread they may be.

VICTORIA TOPIC

Informants said the situation was discussed at a recent meeting of federal and provincial welfare ministers, held behind closed doors in Victoria.

Several provinces were criticized in a report to the conference for dragging their feet on written undertakings given to Ottawa when they joined the Canada Assistance Plan.

They also were reported to have been attacked for enacting legislation making provincial welfare departments the judge and jury on complaints by welfare recipients about their treatment by provincial agencies.

When they signed agreements with Ottawa at various times in 1967, all provinces agreed in writing that within one year they would enact laws providing for appeals by welfare recipients and would let welfare recipients or applicants know about the step.

Quebec, which should have complied by Aug. 21, 1968, still has the necessary appeals legislation before its National Assembly. Ontario, which should have complied by March 28, 1968, did not comply until last January.

Nevertheless, Quebec collected a total of $222,156,793

Amazing Agee Amazes

Russian Blast Biggest?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union Tuesday may have set off the most powerful underground nuclear test in history.

The Stockholm Technical Institute said the explosion, in the Novaya Zemlya test area, registered 7.2 on the open Richter scale, indicating a record yield of five megatons.

But Sweden's Uppsala Seismological Institute called the five-megaton estimate "rather exaggerated" and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission here said its monitors showed a test of about one megaton.

'Can't Ignore People'

They said the people "will be saying we want out and we don't think it's possible for the president to ignore the voice of the people."

Nixon, who said Monday he would not allow the moratorium to influence his policy, made a brief statement that he was trying to end the war as soon as possible.

"The debate is about how we achieve peace," he said. "Honest men can disagree about the means but let the world understand the American people want peace."

Nixon also said Monday he will go on nationwide TV Nov. 3 to speak on the course of the war.

Mass rallies, parades and similar events are planned across the U.S. in streets and churches, on campuses and at state and federal buildings. Other Americans are expected to fly flags in support of the U.S. Vietnam policy and may parade as well.

The organizers have urged a "moratorium on business as usual," but insist it must be non-violent. Police in Washington and other large U.S. cities expressed no great outward concern about the chance of riots.

In Congress, members of the House supporting the protest led a lively debate on Vietnam most of Tuesday but were blocked in their efforts to keep the session going all night.

After several hours of sometimes heated but never bitter discussion, the debate ended abruptly at 7:05 p.m. PDT when Rep. G. V. Montgomery (D-Miss.) noted the absence of a quorum. A roll call vote of 112 to 110 then approved adjournament.

Power Under Attack

In the Senate, two members of the foreign relations committee introduced a resolution proposing repeal of the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave the president authority to take whatever steps he deemed necessary to resist aggression in Vietnam.

New York Republican Jacob Javits and Rhode Island Democrat Claiborne Pell included in the resolution a call for withdrawal of all U.S. combat troops by the end of 1970.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Thieu attacked the idea behind the protest, saying he would like to have about 100 demonstrators in Vietnam to see the situation for themselves.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, a U.S.-wide organization, urged flag-flying as a "silent counteraction" to the protest. The Jewish War Veterans and the rightwing John Birch Society said in separate statements they will not take part in any observances.

Officials in Pittsburgh said any students demonstrating in public school buildings there will face suspension for up to three days, as will students attempting to organize on behalf of the moratorium.

Pope Listens

Liberals Attack Primacy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul listened silently Tuesday as one leading liberal cardinal described the papacy as an "absolute monarchy" and another called for the pontiff to consult more with his bishops.

BISHOPS' 'COURTIERS'

Joseph Leo Cardinal Suenens of Belgium, one of the church's leading liberal spokesmen, said the synod agenda, prepared under the Pope's direction, "extols the primacy of the Roman pontiff in such a way as to make bishops look like courtiers."

"Some insist so much on the aspect of primacy," the cardinal said, "that they end up by describing the church as absolute monarchy of the kind which

Canada's Colombo Plan Idea

Streamlining Wins Favor

By IAN STREET

The 20th meeting of the Colombo Plan consultative committee began here Tuesday with technical experts from 24 countries considering a Canadian proposal to streamline proceedings in future conferences.

The Canadian secretary-general of the conference, J. G. Hadwen, said following the opening working session that the streamlining proposals were generally well received by the 70 delegates participating in the first week.

The conference proper doesn't open until next Monday, when Premier Bennett will give the opening address. Then, after another week of meetings by senior civil servants, the ministerial section of the consultative committee will put the final stamp upon the conference decisions.

* * *

It won't be until about Oct. 31, therefore, that the decisions will be made on the changes suggested by Canada, which include cutting the length of the conference from its present three weeks to two weeks.

Meanwhile, the new look is already apparent. The formal opening statements, which are normally presented by representatives of all 24 member countries, were reduced to two, with Mr. Hadwen welcoming delegates and one response on behalf of the other member countries.

Mr. Hadwen warned that this meeting would determine whether the Colombo Plan could and would remain a relevant institution.

* * *

The Colombo Plan is a self-help organization involving 24 countries ranging from Afghanistan, Bhutan and the Maldives to Korea, Pakistan, India and Thailand. The membership includes six donor nations — Canada, Britain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the United States — which have provided a total of $22,600,000 in aid.

The secretary-general told delegates Tuesday that all Colombo Plan members shared the pride of the countries of South and South-east Asia in their achievements since 1950, and "we all share their determination to make still further efforts to improve the lot of their people."

While much remains to be done within the broad framework of economic development, Mr. Hadwen reminded delegates that "we must use our imaginations and all our

Laughing Youngsters End Veterans' Day

CIRENCESTER, England (Reuters) — Youngsters who laugh at elderly war veterans on the march have caused the cancellation of a Remembrance Day parade.

This town's British Legion has called off the traditional parade, due to take place Nov. 9, because the inability of some of the older members to keep in step has brought laughter from the spectators.

Capt. A. V. May, British Legion country secretary, said: "It is a very great shame that younger people laugh when the old soldiers get out of step, but it happens."

Hippies Bite Hand That Helps Them

LONDON (Reuters) — Squatters Tuesday occupied the offices of Britain's main underground newspaper, ironically the only paper that has consistenly supported their takeover of unused buildings.

The occupation came after hippies ransacked the offices of The International Times so they could start their own anti-establishment newspaper.

Latest Russian Unmanned

Four Ships Orbit

MOSCOW (CP) — An unmanned earth satellite was put into space by the Soviet Union Tuesday while two of three manned spaceships already in orbit manoeuvred toward a rendezvous.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the unmanned satellite, named Intercosmos I, was functioning as expected. It did not say whether Intercosmos I was directly connected with the mission of the three Soyuz spaceships in which a total of seven Soviet cosmonauts were riding.

* * *

There had been speculation that the Russians would launch an unmanned satellite to serve as the basis of an orbiting space station to be put together by cosmonauts from the three Soyuz spacecraft.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the unmanned satellite contained scientific instruments from East Germany, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union—the first such internationally-equipped Soviet Sputnik.

* * *

Reuter news agency said the unmanned craft appeared to have nothing to do with the manned Soyuz craft.

It was officially reported that the instruments aboard Intercosmos I are for measuring the sun's effect on the earth's atmosphere.

Representatives from all seven Warsaw pact countries attended the launching, exact site of which was not disclosed.

The four members not represented by instruments aboard the ship are participating in the experiment by making radio-astronomic, ionospheric and optical observations from observatories on their own territories.

Tass said Intercosmos I was launched "under a co-operation program of socialist (Communist) countries."

* * *

The news agency said the craft was circling the earth once every 93.3 minutes at a maximum distance of 400 miles and a minimum of 162 miles. Its orbit angle is 48.4 degrees.

The Soyuz craft are orbiting considerably nearer the earth, all at an angle of 51.7 degrees.

Tass announced the unmanned launching shortly after reporting that the energies to work toward useful changes in the Colombo Plan."

Dr. R. M. Honavar, economic adviser to the Indian finance ministry, replying on behalf of delegates, said one of the chief characteristics of the Colombo Plan had been the mutual trust and faith in shared objectives among the donor and recipient countries.

"This is something valuable that deserves to be preserved," sail Dr. Honavar.

"But success itself throws up problems because it brings change, and change means the need for adjustment. This perhaps has always been the spirit of the Colombo Plan and it should not be impossible to refashion so valuable an institution to suit the somewhat changed situation of today."

Mr. Hadwen said the Canadian paper presented to the first working session contained the "very clear possibility" that future conferences would eliminate the first week's meetings of technical experts. Six working groups will meet in private every day this week to discuss the chapters in the annual report which identify the main aid issues and economic problems faced by each of the 24 member countries.

This task in future might be undertaken in advance by the conference secretariate or by the Colombo Plan Bureau which has its headquarters in Ceylon.

A seventh working group is dealing this week with a special project, proposed initially by Canada at the 1968 meeting in Seoul, Korea, in which each member country will present papers dealing with problems in administering aid programs.

under the violated agreement up to last April 1. Ontario got $25,522,681 during the same period.

Informants said similar situations exist in several other provinces which continued to collect substantial sums from the federal treasury during their period of non-compliance.

Federal payments under the Canada Assistance Plan to the other provinces in the same period:

Newfoundland $38,963,681; Prince Edward Island $4,288,115; Nova Scotia $21,735,385; New Brunswick $17,091,006; Manitoba $29,553,717; Saskatchewan $30,649,182; Alberta $55,173,219; British Columbia $69,935,680.

The Canada Assistance Plan came into force in 1966, grouping a number of existing welfare plans under one broad program, if the province wanted, or continuing existing plans separately. Ottawa was to pay half the provincial and municipal welfare bills in several areas.

In an assessment last spring, a provincial welfare conference concluded that much of the money spent under the plan went to other provincial programs with a higher provincial priority than social welfare services.

Bootleg Silicone Only Way

By G. T. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Much has been said about methods of increasing breast size. Is it true that this can be done by injections? Is it safe? What would the later consequences be?—Mrs. L. V. W.

I wouldn't belabor this subject, except that letters from readers continue to belabor me. There has, indeed, been a lot of talk about increasing breast size by injections, the words having been much encumbered by mistaken ideas.

At the present moment, the United States government no longer licenses the use of silicone for such injections, even under experimental conditions, which was the most it ever did. If any such treatments are now being given, they are with bootleg silicone.

Efforts are still being made to find some satisfactory method, but none has been devised.

A physician who keeps track of this field of work tells me that the go-go girls, whose attempts with this method seem to have inspired much of the talk about silicone, have to wear brassieres night and day, except for their professional appearances.

The problem is that no other way has been found to insure that the silicone will stay in position, without sagging or changing shape.

This in itself would seem to be adequate reason not to want to fool with this method at present. What further problems may have to be solved, years after such injections have been made, is an interesting and important question.

For the present, all I can say, and repeat, is that such injections have not proved their usefulness yet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 49 and have had eight lumps removed from my breasts. It has been diagnosed as fibrocystic disease. Would these lumps or cysts be elsewhere in my body, too? And do you think this will get better after menopause?—Mrs. J.J.

Such cysts in the breast do not imply that there will be cysts elsewhere. And yes, this trouble usually subsides with menopause.

No Snap Decision on Cable Relay

Both Sides Argued on TV Import

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission heard Tuesday from both sides in the current debate over the importation of United States TV programs for distribution by cable in Canada, but indicated there will be no quick decision on the matter.

The CRTC — successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors —invited applications and presentations from various cable and broadcasting interests at the opening of a four-day hearing.

Strongest opposition to microwave usage and wide cable distribution came from the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, an affiliation of 299 private radio stations and 65 TV stations.

ONE RELAY

A. R. Crepault of Montreal, president of the association, urged the commission to limit the use of microwave to one relay—roughly 100 miles—north of the border.

He also called for a strict limitation of the number of channels carried on cable systems in Canada to six.

These measures were necessary, he said, if the CRTC is to ensure compliance with a section of the Broadcasting Act that calls for broadcasting to strengthen the cultural and political ties of the country.

OPINIONS VARY

Crepault said there are divisions within the CAB over the microwave issue but all members agreed the CRTC's major concern must be to prevent any alterations in the broadcasting field that make it more difficult to implement the Broadcasting Act.

For example, he said, beer and wine commercials carried on U.S. channels and shown in areas of Canada served by cable do not follow the same regulations as those set out for Canadian channels.

Many companies in Canada were subsidiaries of U.S. firms and could rely on ads placed on U.S. stations by the parent firm since they "know it will be received by their Canadian companies through cable pickups."

Further importation of U.S. programming would thus greatly reduce the advertising revenues of small Canadian stations, possibly forcing them out of business.

Ranged against these arguments was a brief by the Canadian Cable Television Association, which said it has never been shown that wider channel selection made possible by cable hurts existing broadcasting interests.

Ray Reierson, Alberta telephones minister, told the commission it is unjust to tolerate a situation where U.S. programs are available only to those in large centres close to the border where signals can be picked up by cable.

"Everyone should have the same right as those close to the border," he said.

Reierson said the Alberta government already has microwave facilities which could be adapted easily to carry TV signals to cable operators in all 10 cities in the province.

The government was preparing a submission to the CRTC to establish a centralized microwave service which would be presented in the near future.

Under this plan, the initial additional wholesale cost to cable operators for a three-channel service would be about 60 cents a household in Calgary and Edmonton, and $1 or less a household in the other cities.

CRTC Chairman Pierre Juneau told Reierson the commission is still wrestling with the over-all question of microwave and will neither make a snap decision nor consider the allocation of licences.

No mention was made of any linkup between the craft in the announcement of the manoeuvre, described as intended to effect close-range observations of the orbiting ships and the photographs.

Despite rumors throughout the day that a link-up of the craft was imminent—or had even taken place—there was no reliable indication that the cosmonauts had started their widely forecast task of putting together an orbiting space station.

Leonidas Sedov, called the "father of the Sputnik," said Tuesday in Santiago, Chile, that the space venture was aimed at "carrying out experiments and studies in order to build a space station." Sedov was in South America attending a scientific conference.

★ ★ ★

The seven, blasted into orbit at 24-hour intervals starting Saturday and hailed in Soviet press headlines Tuesday as "Knights of the Cosmos," were all reported feeling well.

Their tasks Tuesday, as listed by the official news agency Tass, appeared mainly routine and involved manual manoeuvring in space and photography.

Unofficial sources persisted in their prophesies about construction of a permanent laboratory in space, but were hazy about timing and details. They also warned that the slightest doubt about the efficiency of even one tiny instrument could cause cancellation of any plans.

Western observers believed that if any dramatic attempt had been made and had failed, it would be some time—if at all—before the news leaked out.

One of the officially stated tasks of Lt.-Col. Georgy Shonin and Dr. Valeyry Kabasov, both into their fourth day in space aboard Soyuz 6, is to test a new system of welding in conditions of weightlessness and deep vacuum. But there still was no word about whether this had been tried.

Pope Criticized

existed in nations before the French Revolution. . . ."

Justin Cardinal Darmajuwono of Indonesia warned that if the Pope does not consult intimately with his bishops, "I am afraid what happened after the encyclical Humanae Vitae will happen again."

He was referring to the dispute and, in some cases, open disobedience in the church last year after the Pope banned the use of artificial birth control.

But Archbishop Raymond Tchidimbo of Guinea said that "only the lack of information or bad faith" could lead one to say that the pontiff issues encyclicals without consulting bishops and priests.

Echoing African prelates who spoke Monday, the archbishop said only a strong papacy can protect bishops in underdeveloped countries from what would be "spiritual imperialism" of national hierarchies in industrialized countries.

Sybia-based Patriarch Maximos Cardinal Hakim of Antioch said the Church should revert to the early times of Christianity when "only the most important decisions were taken by the Roman pontiff." The general rule was to leave decisions up to bishops, he said.

Half a mile from where the prelates spoke, a "shadow synod" of 200 rebel European priests proposed replacing the Pope-appointed Curia—the Vatican's administrative organ—with an organization patterned after the United Nations.

Cardinals should be abolished, the rebel priests said, and all bishops should elect the Pope for fixed terms.

South Koreans Sink Red Ship

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean destroyer and dive-bombers sank a heavily armed North Korean gunboat early Tuesday in a sea battle that killed all 25 crewmen on the communist vessel.

It was the second North Korean ship sunk off South Korea in a month.

The South Korean counter-espionage command said the 75-ton North Korean boat—the largest ever sighted in South Korean waters—was spotted cruising off Korea's west coast 330 miles southwest of Seoul.

RUNNING BATTLE

The 3,000-ton South Korean destroyer Chungmu-Ham called in air force F5A jets and attacked. The communist ship was armed with recoilless rifle, two rocket launchers, two anti-aircraft guns and 15 machine-guns.

Military spokesmen said the gunboat fled after the Chungmu-Ham spotted it and a running battle developed. The gunboat sank 60 miles southwest of Schuksando island.

LANDINGS BY SEA

On Sept. 20, a South Korean navy patrol boat sank a 50-ton north Korean infiltration boat manned by a crew of 15. There were no survivors.

Military authorities in Seoul have predicted recently that North Korea is in the process of changing its methods of trying to infiltrate South Korea from overland to attempts to land guerrillas by sea.

U.S. Cutback In Korea Under Study

TOKYO (UPI)—A cutback of the 50,000 U.S. troops in South Korea following an aid program of more than $1,000,000,000 to the Korean armed forces is being considered by U.S. defence officials, informed American sources said today.

Under the plan, the South Korean army and navy would be furnished with large quantities of military equipment by the United States, before taking over full responsibility for the conventional defence of their country.

The United States would maintain its commitment to defend South Korea in event of outside attack, and would keep South Korea under its "nuclear shield," the sources told UPI.

Reforms Spark New Riots

'On the Brink of Civil War'

BELFAST (Reuters) — Pressure mounted against the shaky Northern Ireland government Tuesday night from hard-line Protestant politicians angered at reforms designed to please the Roman Catholic minority.

Several members of the Unionist party, the governing group in the Northern Ireland Parliament, voiced anger at a decision last week to disarm the police force here and do away with the B Specials—a police reserve often regarded as champions of Protestant supremacy.

The threat to Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark did not appear immediate. Only about 12 of the 35 Unionist members of Parliament turned up for a protest meeting.

But because Chichester-Clark scraped into the prime minister's office by only one vote in April, any defections would be dangerous.

After the meeting William Craig, militant Protestant and former home affairs minister, said the country is on the brink of civil war.

Craig said the government would have to modify the police reforms or "carry responsibility for a lot of unpleasant things."

Other signs of opposition to the reforms came from the police themselves. One of the changes ordered was for Northern Irish police to adopt English-style blue uniforms instead of the dark-green ones they now have.

Police sources said a number of officers declared their intention not to accept the new uniforms because "we have done nothing to disgrace the old ones."

While searching an abandoned store in this area, frequent scene of religious rioting, British soldiers Tuesday found about 100 gasoline bombs and supplies of empty bottles. They destroyed the equipment.

From NATO To Ulster?

LONDON (AP)—Britain has told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization formally it might request the temporary withdrawal of units from the 45,000-man British Rhine Army for service in Northern Ireland.

Royal Armored Corps and Royal Artillery units already have been alerted for a possible switch to Ireland, where Britain has 8,000 troops on peacekeeping duties. The Rhine Army units have begun riot drill and internal security exercises in preparation for a possible move to Ulster.

Czech Economy in Mess

Husak Tries Middle of Road

PRAGUE (AP) — Gustav Husak, Communist party chief, said Tuesday Czechoslovakia will return "neither to the bureaucracy of Novotny nor to the anarchy of Dubcek."

Husak was replying to critics who fear that the end of liberal policies launched by ousted reformer Alexander Dubcek will mean a return to the totalitarianism of Dubcek's predecessor, Antonin Novotny.

Husak addressed party workers at the giant Skoda works in Plzen just a few days after the managing director of that industrial concern resigned amid charges of falling production and anti-Soviet activities among the workers.

The party chief admitted that Czechoslovakia's economy is in a mess and blamed it on former deputy premier Ota Sik, the economist whose ouster from the Communist party was announced early Tuesday.

Sik, now working in Switzerland, was economic adviser not only to Dubcek but also to Novotny. Husak told his listeners, and his proposals for relaxing state control of the economy "practically liquidated our system of economic management."

He said Czechoslovak housewives can blame long shopping queues on mismanagement fostered by Sik's relaxation of state controls.

Husak sought to justify the recent cutoff of private Czechoslovak travel to the West. He said order must be brought into travel by Czechoslovaks and that under the old system "we had disorder that no other state would have tolerated."

He assailed foreigners who had been visiting Czechoslovakia on now-discontinued frontier visas and had been bringing in black market money from Czechs abroad, "robbing our society and living like lords."

"We are putting an end to that also. If they want to come and see our beautiful mountains, they can pay for it but we are not going to tolerate speculation and turning of our girls into prostitutes," he said.

Husak said Czechoslovakia has fully mended its relations with the Soviet Union and the four other Warsaw pact countries that invaded 14 months ago.

"Our relations . . . are more friendly than ever before," he said. "There is no longer any conflict between us, we know on whom we can rely, and they also know they can rely on Czechoslovakia."

Under Dubcek, whom he succeeded as party leader last April, relations with Moscow had been "like between husband and wife; you promise faithfulness but in practice it is quite different."

"To promise faithfulness to allies in international relations and to do something else in practice leads to serious complications. Small countries must be careful to look to their security and not get into such difficulties."

Border Attack Pounds Cong

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. helicopter crews using powerful searchlights guided gunships early Tuesday in a raid that killed 28 communists near the Cambodian border. Military spokesmen said the attack was one of a series of actions north of Saigon in which 67 communist soldiers were killed.

The actions, in which U.S. air power played a dominant role, only briefly punctured a lull in the Vietnam fighting now in the fourth week.

In Saigon Tuesday, allied military sources said the communists were using the lull to develop guerrilla tactics in the northern sector, build a "pacification" program in the deep south and prepare for their next offensive elsewhere in Vietnam.

The sources said captured documents, intelligence reports and prisoner interrogation indicated the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese hoped to win over more than 100,000 persons through propaganda campaigns across Vietnam. They said indications point to another communist "campaign" early in November.

The U.S. command said that in the new clashes north of Saigon Monday and early Tuesday American units suffered no casualties.

U.K. Trade Profit Growing

LONDON (AP) — Britain's overseas trade showed a profit for the second straight month in September on the strength of booming exports, the board of trade announced.

★ ★ ★

The trade surplus dipped by $36,400,000 from the record-shattering figures of August but that still left a healthy profit of £26,000,000.

British exports stood at £617,000,000, the second highest ever recorded. The record was set in August with £630,000,000.

Israel's Funds Strained

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's foreign reserves received another jolt in September and are now barely enough to finance three month's imports to this embattled country, finance officials said Tuesday.

Bank of Isreal officials said the reserves fell in September by $25,000,000 to a total of $501,000,000.

The officials said this brings Israel's foreign reserve losses since April to $185,000,000 due to stepped up military spending which now totals $3,000,000 a day.

Israel is spending 21 per cent of its gross national product on its war budget, almost double that of its pre-June 1967 Middle East war defence budget.

Arab Shot, Jailed By Own Leaders

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — An Arab guerrilla, who said members of his own band tried to kill him rather than let him be taken alive by Israeli captors, was sentenced Tuesday to 20 years in prison.

Another guerrilla was sentenced to life imprisonment after he was found guilty of carrying arms, infiltration and being a member of the Al Fatah guerrilla group.

The first man, Abdel Hamif Yousuf Abdul, told a military court in Ramallah, on the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River, that he and five others were surprised by an Israeli patrol after crossing the Jordan in August.

He was slightly wounded and had difficulty keeping up with his fleeing comrades. As they neared the river, they turned around and shot him, he said.

The shots only grazed him, but he was stunned and captured.

Alert Does Not Mean Alarm

AT FEW TIMES IN THE WORLD'S history have civil disorders, racial hatreds and international distrust created greater or more widespread tensions than exist in our enlightened period. There is a contagion abroad, and few parts of the world can feel themselves immune from it. Contempt of the law and defiance of authority are symptoms of an affliction which, thus far, has defied diagnosis.

Governments and international agencies strive to cope with the effects, it seems, without satisfactorily analyzing the causes. Or, if they have a credible analysis, they too frequently fail to explain it. The impression is created that they, like so many in their private thoughts, are only groping for solutions and understanding.

What were the causes of the Montreal riots of a week ago? It is too easy to blame them on the striking policemen and firemen. That was only an excuse for the exhibition. The strike, in fact, allowed the opening of a gate to disclose the unrest and impatience normally hidden. But the closing of the gate and the departure of the troops do not mean an end of the ferment.

The fratricidal hatred in Northern Ireland can only be restrained by intervention of troops, and Britain's Defence Minister Denis Healey has warned that, with 8,500 men already on duty in the Ulster counties, it may be necessary to withdraw troops from the North Atlantic Treaty forces on the Rhine to control the situation. People are prone to jump to the conclusion that religious differences are to blame for the whole sad spectacle. No doubt they play a part, and possibly the major part; but there are other factors, and some speculation that other agencies than those representing partitionists and unionists are involved.

The speculation does not go so far as to suggest that subversion in Ulster is directed or even encouraged by Moscow, but it is not considered illogical that convinced Communists would do everything possible under cover to encourage antagonisms and the disorders which grow from them. It has been the pattern elsewhere, so why not in Northern Ireland? Or for that matter here?

It is interesting to conjecture whether Prime Minister Trudeau may have had such thoughts in mind when he decided to slash the Canadian contribution to NATO and concentrate on the defence of Canada.

When his decision was announced it was widely derided as being no more than a penny-pinching means of escape from responsibility in Europe. Deployment of these few thousands of men for the defence of the vast North was obviously no answer to any serious threat from that direction. In the same way it was unthinkable that they should be required on the southern border.

But in the light of events in Montreal and the crisis which necessitated the calling of military relief to that city a week ago, perhaps Mr. Trudeau has more reason than economy for bringing Canadians back from abroad.

In our time it is wise to be alert without being alarmist.

Too Soon to Claim Credit

THE MINUSCULE reduction in the consumer price index in September—two tenths of 1 per cent—is hardly what Consumers Affairs Minister Ron Basford asserts it to be. Mr. Basford would have us believe that it proves the federal government's anti-inflation efforts are beginning to have the desired effect. Examination of the factors involved, however, yields no such indication.

According to the news reports, the slight decline resulted entirely from a reduction in food prices, mainly on fresh fruit and vegetables — several vegetables dropping 20 per cent or more from the August levels. All the other major components of the index continued to advance "as much or more than they did in the summer."

If the consumers affairs minister can point to any government action that brought down the prices of fruit and vegetables, therefore, he is welcome to credit. But he himself admits that the food index dropped by 1.6 points partly because of seasonal supply conditions—"and there are still very intense cost and price pressures in the economy."

When the other major components of the index—such as housing—begin to exhibit a significant slackening in their climb, only then will it be time to claim that the battle is beginning to be won.

The Tax Merry-Go-Round

IN THE NEVER-ENDING debate about sharing tax resources and responsibility for government services, a point often lost sight of is that what is lost on the merry-go-round has to be made up on the swings.

This point is well illustrated in an article on U.S. revenue-sharing in The New Republic, which says that when congressmen ask constituents if they think the federal government should return a portion of its revenue to the states, 70 to 80 per cent say yes. But, it continues, when one congressman asked if federal income taxes should be increased over federeral needs to provide for tax sharing with the states, 93 per cent answered no.

One doubts that the replies would be very much different in Canada.

"Let me put it this way, if you moved to the States you'd have no concern about him escalating the brain drain . . ."

Ottawa Offbeat

The Senators' Waiting Alcove

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

ONE of the saddest and strangest sights on Parliament Hill—where almost everything is twinned, one for the Senate, another for the Commons—is an empty and lonely alcove in the senatorial reading room.

And around the walls, newspapers and magazines.

Its walls, too, once were draped in magazines and newspapers.

But no longer.

Months ago, everything was moved out, and (whisper it softly) a bar was to go in.

But word leaked out—and since nothing so completely petrifies a politician as the fear of standing in the shadow of a bottle of booze—there was instant panic.

And the alcove remained rattlingly empty save for four or five forlorn magazines which found their way back on its walls.

There have been suspicions that the honorable senators let their cosy corner gather cobwebs and dust because they were hoping memories were short, and that when the panic passed they might be able to sneak in the bar after all.

But around these corridors of federal power where political sensibilities are so agonizingly acute, if it isn't one thing spoiling the fun, it's another.

It could have been that they were ready, courage up, to call in the carpenters and pull in the plumbers to get on with the bar, when cruel fate—or clumsy committee work—struck again.

★ ★ ★

The honorable senators, fortunate enough to latch onto the science committee, were about to take off for a three-week European gad-about—this time with their wives—when a memorable memorandum betrayed them.

The memorandum contrived to portray them not only as partial to the cup that cheers, but in such unquenchable thirst as to be scrounging it at cut-rate tax-free prices.

"We are told that embassies on our tours have been embarrassed by requests from large numbers of fellow-travellers for tax-clear liquor. The committee therefore asks that any such requests be channelled through its secretary."

Now how about that!

The embassies, enjoying tax-free booze, among other diplomatic privileges, were being "embarrassed" to be asked to share with their friends and patrons—the politicians whose votes in Senate and Commons can give or take away even to and from such exalted VIPs as "ministers plenipotentiary and ambassadors extraordinary" as the striped pants set calls its nabobs.

And the senators!

Too prideful to importune for favors personally, but not so proud as not to be willing to have an agent—a civil servant—do it for them.

For their jaunt—in addition to any tax-free liquor the committee secretary might scrounge for them—the honorable senators drew $40-a-day expense money.

Paid in advance, conveniently in a lump sum.

They travelled free, of course, at government expense—courtesy of "Air Cadieux" aboard defence department aircraft—and so did their wives, as far as London.

To make the full European tour, from London on, the senators had to pony up with $350 for air fares in Europe for their wives.

The flight home for all hands, of course, again was "Air Cadieux."

Of their wives the memorandum said: "As this is a working trip, the wives will be on their own when their husbands are at work. The staff (the committee on tax-free booze) may arrange sightseeing, etc., tours for the ladies on request."

PS: The Senate bar-to-be still isn't yet.

Food Allowances

WE would draw your kind attention to the inadequacies of the social allowance amount for food presently provided to individuals and families throughout the province.

According to the Moderately Low Cost Food Plan of the Nutrition Division of the Health Branch, Department of Health Services and Hospital Insurance, monthly food costs for the following various groups this past August in Greater Victoria were calculated to be:

Adult man $32.49, woman $27.43; boy 16 to 20, $36.05, girl $28.91; boy 13 to 15, $32; girl $26.19; child 10 to 12, $25.88; 7 to 9, $21.19; 4 to 6, $17.17 and 1 to 3, $14.02. There are certain adjustments for family size, namely: One person living alone, increase cost by 15 per cent; two persons, increase by 10 per cent; three persons, increase by 5 per cent; five persons, decrease by 5 per cent; six persons decrease by 10 per cent.

Man living alone, low cost food plan $37.36, social allowance food guide, $35; woman living alone $27.43 and $35; couple, $65.90 and $60; family of two parents, boy 15 and girl 18, $124.88 and $95; family of mother, boy 12, girl 9, boy 4 and infant 6 months, $100.36 and $100; family of two parents, boy 17, girl 16 and boy 14, $196.88 and $100; large family of eight—parents, boy 17, boy 13, boy 10, girl 16, girl 14 and girl 6, $203.28 and $130.

It is readily apparent that food allowances provided by the local authorities fall woefully short, particularly where there are teenagers. Take the case of the above family of eight. They would require more than half as much again to assure the growing children of an adequate diet. Similar degrees of deficiency pertain in the family with two older children and in the family with three older children. However the young family of five where all four children are under 13 is allowed an adequate amount for food.

So immense are these deficiencies in these samples and in general that they cannot be met by the Free Food Stall at the month's end. In fact the stall undoubtedly would have to increase its operation fivefold or more and then operate on a weekly basis the year round to fill the gap. Rather than such stop-gap measures the logical remedy would appear to lie with the local and provincial governments' recognition that nutritional needs of individuals vary according to age, sex and family composition. An appreciable upward revision of food allowances consistent with the nutritional requirements, calculated monthly by the government's health department, seems imperative . . .

The Forgotten

May I be permitted to say a few words on behalf of people over the age of 65. You could call them the forgotten people. These are ex-civil-servants, old age pensioners, and any low-income group.

These people are the ones who are suffering more than anyone in this inflationary period, and no one seems to care, not even the pensioners themselves.

Why? Because they do not do anything about it. These elderly people are, or were, the pioneers who helped to build the country. Lots of them can still walk, talk and write, yet you wouldn't think so as we never hear from them. Silence may be golden but it won't make the government raise the old age pensions.

If organized labor unions acted like old age pensioners they wouldn't get their 30, 20 or 10 per cent raises either.

The other day people from all across the country raised a protest on something happening hundreds of miles away. It was, as far as Canada was concerned, a successful protest, although it didn't prevent the event taking place. If a protest such as this can take place, why cannot the people living on fixed incomes protest to the federal government and their members of Parliament to do something to help them in their predicament? They could freeze prices and have wage controls and raise tax exemptions but as long as nothing is said or done you can bet the situation will get worse.

A DO-NOTHING

Just Society?

Many of us find it difficult to appreciate the subtle differences between monetary, fiscal, and financial policies; but most of us are competent to add and to calculate interest, an essential skill at income tax time.

However, even to the mathematically sterile mind, there must be a dawning of appreciation of the direction that Canadian money is moving in. Consider the following sequence of events:

1. The 1968 Canadian Savings Bond issue. The full rate of interest was only available to those who could afford to wait, not to those who purchased bonds to supplement their incomes.

2. The 1968 income tax surcharge. This was paid to the maximum amount only by the low-income group.

3. CMHC mortgage money. This has risen to 9½ per cent, which is financially suicidal as far as the low-income home buyer is concerned. How many people can today find a reasonable home within the limits of 2½ years salary (once considered financially sound)?

4. Bank bonus accounts. Recently, all the chartered banks (the essence of conservatism) have offered increasing rates of interest, as high as 7¾ per cent on term accounts to secure money to loan, in one form or another, at higher rates.

5. The 1969 Canadian Savings Bond issue. The present rates of 7 per cent to 8½ per cent have been set to meet competition which forces the small subscriber to turn over bonds even when only one year old. A wasteful, expensive and inefficient procedure.

6. Charges, purchasing system. This, the latest move in the spiral, has the chartered banks charging the retailer for charging the unfortunae customer 18 per cent on unpaid balances.

Even to the most casual observer, a pattern emerges which is most disturbing and promises increasingly serious trouble. The principle features appear to be:

That money IS used as a commodity rather than a means of exchange;

That inflation is being fed alternately by the government and the financial houses; and

That money is being channeled and that all channels ultimately lead to the few who already control the bulk of Canadian money.

The profiteering of industry and the avariciousness of unionized labor are difficult to condemn when the very medium of their concern has no permanent value.

Should we accept the premise that the Just Society should be restricted to the Just Who's Who Society?

I Beg to Differ . . .

Unfairest Thing of All

By FRANK LOWE

THE news item from Pittsburgh was the last straw. It said a survey conducted by the University of Pittsburgh of 100 of its June, 1967, male graduates showed that the size of one's pay cheque was tied to one's height.

Those male graduates who were under six feet in height, the survey showed, received an average monthly wage of $701. Men of exactly six feet got $719 per month. Those of 6-feet-1 earned $723 and men 6-feet-2 received $768.

For years, of course, I have known that tall men get a better shake from this old world than short men. Especially those of us who happen to be around the 5-foot-6 level.

I mean, have you ever tried to watch a parade when you're 5-foot-6?

I had also learned that women, for some reason unfathomable to me, prefer tall men. This cruel lesson was learned in high school when my five-foot bundle of chubby charm was steadily rejected in favor of some lout who looked like an extension ladder looking for something to lean against.

There are many other disadvantages to being of a normal height in a world inhabited by over-sized freaks. One must avoid fist fights, naturally. And one must always try to get as close to the front row in a theatre as possible.

There is also the indignity of the nicknames heaped upon the person of normal (5-foot-6, that is) height. My best friends in school for instance, used to think it was hilarious to introduce me to girls as "the runt of the litter." They would slap their lengthy thighs and scream with laughter, let me tell you.

Football, for me, became a nightmare. In our school we played English rugger and as I was short and chunky I was the heeler in the scrum. Then, when the scrum broke, I would fall flat on my face in the mud.

The only way I knew how the game was going was by keeping track of the traffic over my prone back.

If most of the cleats were moving down my back from my head to my toes, we were losing. If the traffic was in the other direction — if my own team mates were treading on me — we were probably winning.

Then there is that first venture into the business world. Employers, it seems, are always at least six-feet and a 5-foot-6 applicant immediately feels at a disadvantage as this monster he is asking a job from looms up over him like a cliff.

But up until I read about the University of Pittsburgh survey it had not occurred to me that even one's pay cheque is tied to one's height.

That seems the unfairest thing of all.

I mean, it doesn't give a person a chance. But it does explain some things I have been puzzled about for years.

For instance, the first decent newspaper job I had paid me $20 a week. But hired at the same time was a youngster my age, with an almost identical background, who started at $22 a week.

At the time I could not figure out why. But now I can. He was a shade over six feet.

I also recall the first time I asked to go overseas during the war. My boss looked at me and laughed. Then he sent a reporter who had trouble writing out an understandable laundry list.

But he was 6-feet-2, and still growing.

Even today there are disadvantages. Practically every office I visit is occupied by some lanky, loose-limbed monster who loves to talk to me with his chair tilted back and his feet resting on the desk top. It conveys that look of relaxed, casual power every good executive needs.

But there is little use in me trying that pose. I have trouble resting me feet on my office floor. So when people came to see me they have a look at a chubby fellow perched precariously on the edge of his chair. It does not convey a look of relaxation or power.

Perhaps that is the reason we people of normal height are discriminated against on the payroll. We simply don't fit the executive image.

BACKGROUND

Vietnam Moratorium Day Increases Viet Cong's Victory Hopes

Humphrey's 1967 Forecast Proves Correct

By RAY DICK
From Washington

Vietnam Moratorium Day, which has mushroomed from localized campus protests to a stirring and broad-based national appeal for peace, makes something of a prophet of Hubert H. Humphrey.

In October, 1967, the then vice-president said the Viet Cong's hope for victory "is not in his power but on our division, our weariness, our uncertainty."

It now appears Humphrey was right — so right that last week he considered it necessary to ask public support for President Nixon, who, as Humphrey's opponent, had criticized the Democrats' Vietnam policies during the 1968 presidential election.

"We only have one president at a time," he said, "and I think the worst thing we can do is try to undermine the efforts of the president."

The Vietnam moratorium — unlike any protest before it — started several weeks ago when student activists were trying to drum up support for a war protest. By last weekend there was a national outpouring.

Some 17 senators and 47 members of the House of Representatives have endorsed today's day of protest. Churches planned memorial services for the Vietnam dead and doctors, lawyers and business organizations joined the peace crusade.

Mayors in many communities decreed special observances, and numerous schools and colleges either cancelled classes for the day or scheduled rallies and Vietnam discussions.

One of the reasons for the wide support, observers say, was President Nixon's news conference statement Sept. 26 that "under no circumstances will I be affected whatever" by anit-war protests.

The statement was viewed as pure confrontation — a challenge to student protesters and a callous stand by many Americans deeply opposed to the war.

It seems likely the widespread support for the moratorium will have some bearing on White House policy, and seems in fact to have already done so.

★ ★ ★

In recent days, President Nixon has relieved Gen. Lewis Hershey of his command over the selective service system. He has called home Henry Cabot Lodge from Paris and put Defence Secretary Laird before reporters.

These actions bespeak a sense of alarm, say observers, that the Vietnam debate, abruptly and much sooner than the White House expected, has revived with the new theme of total disengagement.

What the hard core of the critics want is to stop the war now in any way, and never mind the consequences because these could not be worse than continuing along the present course.

The Nixon administration is saying that it is trying to stop the war, but that the consequences of a unilateral withdrawal could be calamitous.

Not mentioned by the hard-core critics, White House sources say, is the fate of Vietnam, the secondary effects in Southeast Asia, the impact on the United States in the world and domestic repercussions at home.

It seems that impatience and frustration over the war, together with President Nixon's statement in May ruling out a military victory there, has brought some of the war hawks over to the side of the doves.

What still is a major problem in the minds of many is how to get out of Vietnam honorably — out of a war that has already cost 40,000 American lives.

As the Washington Post says in an editorial on the moratorium:

Tenth Nuclear Bomb Exploded

China Speeds N-Program

By FREDERICK NOSSAL
From Hong Kong

China is racing ahead with its nuclear arms program. She has already exploded her ninth and tenth bombs.

With the stress on war preparedness, the Peking regime probably will make many nuclear announcements in the coming months.

Hong Kong's observatory has announced it has recorded an unusual pressure wave. Such has been the case in the past following Chinese nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Peking's latest bomb reportedly had a force of three megatons and was exploded in the atmosphere over Lop Nor, the principal Chinese testing site in Sinkiang.

Military experts say China soon will be testing its first inter-mediate range ballistic missile, and could begin stockpiling inter-continental nuclear weapons by 1972.

Development of China's nuclear arms was disrupted temporarily late in 1967 and 1968, at the height of the cultural revolution, but was resumed this year at full speed.

China today has a small arsenal of nuclear weapons, but as yet these are not considered a real military threat by the West.

They are held mainly as a deterrent. China has said repeatedly it will never be the first nation to use nuclear weapons in a war, but warns that if attacked, the Chinese armed forces will counter-attack.

Recent threats by the Kremlin, and talk of a possible pre-emptive strike against China's nuclear installations by Soviet bombers, clearly have caused some jitters in Peking.

Early in september there were reports that because of the danger of a Soviet attack, China was moving some of its nuclear installations from Sinkiang further inland to Dansu and Shensi provinces.

Although the Pentagon's thin anti-ballistic missile shield is said to be a defence measure against a possible Chinese attack, it is known that Peking will not have an effective nuclear strike force for some years.

China has neither a strategic bomber force nor an alternative missile capacity. The one G-class submarine the Chinese Navy has is still without its three missiles which will have a range of only 400 miles when they become operational.

The Institute of Strategic Studies in London says that until Chinese scientists reduce the weight of their hydrogen bombs to war head proportions, she is restricted to small-yield atomic warheads for its first-generation missiles.

The supply of fissionable material is another problem for China. Time-lags between tests seem to indicate that China has been unable to produce sufficient quantities of plutonium, which is used in hydrogen bombs.

Western scientists say there has been no plutonium in the fall-out from Chinese bomb tests.

China is the only Asian nation openly building a nuclear arsenal. But every time China conducts another test, there is greater pressure in Japan and India for nuclear defences, and for nuclear programs.

Both these nations have the technological knowhow. But, they have decided, for the time being, not to join the nuclear club.

Typical of U.S. Government's Willingness to Lie

Green Berets Case Symptomatic

By JOSEPH KRAFT
From Washington

Before the case of the Green Berets sinks into the forgotten past, there is a lesson to be drawn. What is important about the case is not the casual use of violence which has attracted so much attention.

The important thing is the casual willingness of government to cover up, to hide the truth, to lie. And the disposition to dissemble explains why it has been, and remains, so very hard for the United States to extricate itself from Vietnam.

In its final denouement, the Green Berets case emerges as a giant whitewash. The decision to dismiss charges drew an official veil of secrecy over what looked like an act of premeditated murder effected by eight American soldiers against a man vaguely suspected of being an enemy agent.

On the way to that coverup, there were lies galore. In an effort to conceal what they had actually done from Gen. Creighton Abrams, the commanding officer in Vietnam, the Green Berets at one point seem to have elaborated a complete cock-and-bull story.

Gen. Abrams and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker did not divulge the truth as they understood it. The director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Richard Helms, did—privately, but not for the record.

The secretary of the army, Stanley Resor, actively tampered with the truth when he said that he had made the decision to dismiss charges entirely on his own authority.

The White House lied when its spokesman, Ron Ziegler, first declared that President Nixon had nothing to do with the decision. For in the end it developed that the ultimate author of the coverup, the man who ordered the charges dismissed, was the President himself.

The same tangled skein of deception and falsehood has engrossed the Vietnam effort at every level. At the highest level, presidents from Truman through Nixon have wanted to forfend against another country going communist during their term of office.

But they have not been prepared to avow such crudely political objectives So they have tricked out defence of Vietnam in the clothing of self-determination and free choice.

The military services and the bureaucracy, at the bottom level, have not been able to achieve that objective. But failure is not in the lexicon of standard operating procedure. So the services have done their specialties and then claimed that these actions were in tune with presidential purposes.

Thus the air force and navy misrepresented the impact of their bombing; the army misrepresented the significance of enemy losses, and civilians misrepresented the results of pacification.

It is typical that one hapless pacifier, former ambassador Robert Komer, said of a particularly rosy report: "I was asked to show progress. I wasn't asked to show the dark side."

Between the president and the bureaucracy come the most interesting cases of all—the cases of the presidential advisers.

From Dean Acheson through Henry Kissinger, almost all the high-level aides have come to know that presidential purposes were not being served by the actions of the services and the bureaucracy in Vietnam.

But almost all high-level assistants—and quintessentially former secretary of state Dean Rusk—have preferred loyalty to the president over loyalty to the truth. They have shown their mettle in backing to the hilt positions they doubted rather than in raising doubts about the president they served.

The upshot has been deception on the grand scale—an assertion of constant progress in Vietnam. And with that claim ceaselessly pressed, it has been virtually impossible for anybody to turn around, to come off it.

The serious question now is whether President Nixon and his chief advisers can get the country out of the war. They are not party to the mistakes of the past; it is not yet Nixon's war

But the Nixon administration has been making its own mistakes. To strike a deal, it has to change its mind and redesign its strategy.

But will an administration willing to lie so casually in the affair of the Green Berets have the courage to face up to its own shortcomings?

Protestants Scared

By HAROLD MORRISON
From London

The blood that flowed in Belfast, in the latest episode of unreasoned violence, was stained with a frenzied fear that visualized a secure civilization suddenly torn apart.

As long as the Protestant extremists knew that the guns were on their side, they felt secure. Although outnumbering the minority Roman Catholics two to one, the Protestants still worried about the support the minority could get from the Irish Republic to the south.

Now suddenly the guns are to be taken away. The Royal Ulster Constabulary is to be stripped of its weapons. The B Special volunteers, who supplemented the police and kept their weapons at home, are to be disbanded and more jobs on the national police force are to be opened to the Catholics.

On top of all this, the extremists can see their Ulster government losing its power; that it is steadily giving way to the demands of Westminster and that Westminster is making demands for a quick introduction of a more liberal attitude towards the Catholics.

For three centuries the thought drummed into the Protestant's head is that the Roman Catholics and Rome are his enemy; that he must remain ever on guard or his way of life and his allegiance to the British monarch will be crushed by the republicans to the south.

Thus observers in Belfast witnessed the scene where extremists carrying the British flag shot at British soldiers who sought to restrain them as the extremists stormed towards a Catholic stronghold.

"Belfast," wrote one British reporter, "needs an army of psychiatrists . . . hunger for murder grips whole streets of men, women and children as the moon rises and they dance ritually toward the soldiers . . ."

The extremists see their own government as a weakling and the presence of British soldiers as protection for the Catholics only. Led by strong-minded rabble-rousers, they want their way of life restored, including the assurance that they will continue to dominate the Catholic minority.

Towed to New Zealand

Huge Rig Makes It

The giant SEDCO-135F offshore drilling rig has survived its four-month, 6,200 mile trans-Pacific tow and arrived in New Zealand, it was learned Tuesday.

Maj. George Nicholson of Rockland received the news last week in a letter from his sisters in New Plymouth, New Zealand, only a few miles from the rig's destination.

"The rig has arrived. Great excitement in New Plymouth," said the message. Maj. Nicholson guessed the rig must have arrived about two weeks ago.

The $10,000,000 rig was towed from Port Alberni on May 25 by the 6,200 horsepower Dutch tug Willem Barendsz. Officials said the voyage was expected to take three months.

One of the world's largest offshore drilling rigs, SEDCO 135-F was built for the South-eastern Commonwealth Drilling Co. at the Victoria Machinery Depot between 1965 and 1967.

Between that time and the start of its tow, it was under lease to Shell Canada which used it for exploratory drilling on the continental shelf off northwestern Vancouver Island.

Mill Recalls 50 Men

Scotia Forest Products Ltd. resumed partial operations Tuesday when it recalled 50 of the 250 employees laid off almost three weeks ago.

The men, all senior employees, are planing rough lumber stockpiled in the mill's storage yard, said personnel manager R. J. Anderson.

He said the wood is returned to the yard after it has been prepared.

The mill shut down Sept. 26 after its own storage area had filled completely and the longshoremen's strike had cut off access to Ogden Point storage space.

Post-Holiday Stock Rally Startles Canadian Dealers

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The Canadian investment industry came back from its long weekend to view with deep interest and some dis-belief a rip-roaring stock market rally in the United States.

After three months in which investor interest had been at so low an ebb some brokerage houses were laying off their men, the New York stock market surged back with an inflammable buying spree that advanced the Dow Jones industrial average from its "critical" 800 levels of last week by 25.47 to 832.43 - 12.34 on Monday and 13.13 on Tuesday.

HIGH VOLUME

In the Tuesday session the volume of 19,950,000 shares was the highest on record for any five hours trading period.

Market analysts who had been considering the possibility of another major set-back in prices if the Dow Jones 800 level had been pierced, saw the new buying excitement as a sequal to an over-sold market, and to hopes of an accelerated ending to hostilities in Vietnam.

But even the spiralling prices of many glamor stocks did not entirely convince them that the rally was "for real", and some even said the two-day spree that changed the market from an oversold to an overbought condition.

The U.S. turn-around was not lost upon the Canadian markets when they opened Tuesday after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Inter-listed stocks like Canadian Pacific, Moore Corp, International Nickel, International Utilities Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Chrysler rose mainly about a point in much more active trading than in recent weeks.

"We are not convinced that the war against inflation has been won, and another speculative outburst could generate new restrictions," said one local broker. "The atmosphere so far as money and credit is concerned may be a little easier, but it is still a long way off normal."

MERGER COMPLETED

The merger between Pitfield MacKay Ross and Co. and Hagar Investments Ltd. was completed at the weekend, but meantime the two investment houses will continue to operate out of their present Victoria offices, the former at Broad Street and the later at Yates.

An official of the merged company said a search was being made for suitable premises to bring the local operations into one office.

The amalgamation plan was announced over two months ago when Pitfield's made an offer for the take-over of the Victoria company.

CORNER "NOT" TURNED

Shareholders of Canadian Breweries were told Tuesday by chairman John Devlin that the giant brewing company had "not yet" turned the corner, and it was still losing to rivals part of its Canadian beer market.

Devlin, who is also president of Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada, controlling shareholder of Canadian Breweries said that further closure of redundant and non-economic operations were under consideration, while disposal of some of its foreign interests was also possible.

Canadian Breweries owns 5 per cent of Bass Carrington, largest British brewery firm.

The chairman defended the extra payment of $1 on each Canadian Breweries share, pointing out the company had more than adequate working capital.

GAS EXPORT PLANNED

Subject to approval of the Canadian and U.S. regulatory authorities, Westcoast Transmission hopes to sell about 850,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to El Paso Natural Gas on a new 20 year agreement.

Westcoast plans to sell the gas in the first year at 30.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, rising by one cent per thousand in each of the next two years and by one cent each five years thereafter for the term of the contract.

□

OFFER IN MAIL. —

The offer by Consumers Gas for Union Gas of Canada is stated to be in the mail to all Union shareholders.

The offer will remain open until Nov. 14.

It consists of an exchange into convertible preferred shares of Consumers, plus purchase warrants and a cash payment of $3 a share.

GINTER WILL WAIT

Ben Ginter, British Columbia's voluble and ambitious brewing chief, says his Prince George brewing company does not intend to make an offer for Atlantic Brewing Co. of Stephenville, Nfld., at the present time although he is still "very interested."

He said Atlantic had financial difficulties to resolve before he could consider purchase.

Henie

Fur-Trimmed Skirts, Dimples

Star Captivated Millions

OSLO (UPI) — With her dimpled smile and her flashing skates, the little Norwegian blonde in the fur-trimmed skirts helped America forget the great depression.

Millions knew Sonja Henie better for her starring roles in such movies as One In A Million and Sun Valley Serenade than for her 10 world figure skating titles, including three Olympic titles.

Miss Henie, 57, died Sunday night of Leukemia in a special ambulance plane between Paris and her home of Oslo. She had been in Paris with her third husband, Nils Onstad, when her condition worsened and doctors decided to take her home for treatment.

Dr. Torjus Moe of Oslo said she died of leukemia after a year's affliction.

Miss Henie was born in Oslo April 8, 1913, and at the age of eight was given a pair of ice skates for Christmas. The next year she won the city of Oslo skating title and when she was 11 the national championship.

She paid her own way to the 1924 Olympics and placed last. She said later the judges could not take her seriously because she was only 12. By 1928, she was the world champion.

She won every world title until 1937, then turned professional, becoming queen of the ice extravaganzas.

Her first attempt to break into the movies was as unsuccessful as her first try at becoming an Olympic skater. Paramount Pictures scouted her performance in a 1936 Madison Square Garden ice show and decided she was not meant for the screen.

Miss Henie was determined. She went to Los Angeles, rented the Polar ice rink and put on her own show, which was seen by producer Darryl Zanuck.

He signed her to a five year contract and the name Sonja Henie joined WPA, RDR, bootlegger and bank night among the household words of America in the 1930s.

★ ★ ★

Her first movie, One in a Million in 1936 was a smash at the box office and so were the others—all music-filled films more renowned for their lighthearted mood than their profundity.

Police Eye Accounts Of La Scala Opera

MILAN, ITALY (UPI)—Police surrounded Milan's La Scala Opera House and seized all of its accounts for the past 20 years Tuesday night after an irate baritone accused officials of mismanagement.

Twenty carloads of police blocked all entrances to the world's most famous opera house and barred all personnel from entering or leaving for two hours while detectives removed the books.

The raid came hours after baritone Giuseppe Zecchillo told assistant district attorney Pasquale Carcasio $30,400,000 worth of La Scala stage props were illegally sold or given to bars, restaurants and night clubs.

Zecchillo produced 24 photographs to support his allegation. He said he was demanding "in the name of Italian artists" that Antonio Ghiringhelli resign as La Scala superintendent and repay the whole sum.

Turkey Gets Soviet Loan

ANKARA (UPI)—The Soviet Union has granted Turkey a $366,000,000 loan for industrial development.

Siamese Twins Said 'Fair'

VANCOUVER (CP)— Doctors Tuesday decided against surgery to separate Siamese twins born in Prince George Sunday and flown to Vancouver for emergency treatment.

A spokesman for Vancouver General Hospital said medical teams carried out extensive investigations since the girls arrived and will continue observation.

The twins, joined at the chest, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Nicholson of Burns Lake, in north-central British Columbia. They were in fair condition Tuesday.

The last Siamese twins in Canada were born in Toronto in 1966. Only one survived the separating operation.

Penned Threats to President

Lennon Killer Takes Own Life

Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

LOS ANGELES — A former mental patient who called himself "the true husband of Peggy Lennon" killed himself in the High Sierra after writing a letter confessing that he murdered the singer's father, authorities said Sunday.

Chet W. H. Young, 38, apparently took his own life with the same rifle used Aug. 12 in the murder of William Lennon, Tuolmne County Sheriff Miller Sardella reported.

Young was found dead in the back of his car, curled around movie fan magazines containing items about the Lennon sisters. Sardella said Young shot himself after failing to kill himself with monoxide fumes.

Letters left by Young showed no remorse over the slaying of Lennon, the 54-year-old father of 11 children. In one he termed the murder "justifiable."

There was no indication where he had been hiding since Aug. 22, when he was charged with Lennon's murder. Police said Young had been harassing the Lennon family since 1964, and has been sent to a mental hospital in 1965 for threatening President Lyndon Johnson because he wouldn't arrange his marriage to Peggy Lennon.

FEAR OVER

Young's death ended two months of fear and suspense for the young sisters, who had feared the killer might strike again. When they made their first television appearance since the murder the audience was composed of off-duty Los Angeles policemen and their families.

Officers from many jurisdictions gathered Sunday at Sonora, a city of 3,000, to close out their investigation of the Young-Lennon case.

Telling the story were Sardella, Los Angeles Det. Sgts. Don Ham and Jerry Moon, Dep. Coroner Ray Antonini of Tuolmne County and U.S. Secret Service agent Steven Byrne. Their account:

Young, a tall, pockmarked man with habitually unkempt hair, was a graduate of Colorado State College, Golden, Colo., who served two years as an air force officer. But, after leaving the air force in 1955, he worked only fitfully, dabbled in communism and slipped slowly into what was later diagnosed as schizophrenic paranoia.

Born Marvin Major, he at some point had his name changed. The reasons were not known.

In 1964 he began writing the Lennon family.

In March, 1965, he attracted the secret service's attention in a letter to President Johnson in which he demanded the president help arrange his marriage to Peggy Lennon, and threatened the chief executive's life.

He was committed to Atascadero State Hospital in California as dangerously insane. But the following year he was released from the U.S. medical facility in Colorado in the custody of his brother, Lawrence. The letters to the lennon family resumed.

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Road Outlay Lined Up By Saanich

Saanich public works committee took a look at its 1970 road budget Monday night and came up with preliminary recommendations for $698,000 worth of new construction.

This year's new construction budget was $600,000, not including McKenzie Avenue.

The committee moved that design be authorized on the following roads: Carey Road, between Seaton and Glanford and Seaton and Douglas; Gorge Road from Tillicum to Dysart; Cedar Hill Cross Road, Shelbourne to Synod; Inverness from Glasgow to Quadra; Interurban between North and Alan; Glanford between Carey and McKenzie; Quadra between Nicholson and Rogers and Gordon Head from Cedar Hill Cross Road to McKenzie with three lanes and one sidwalk.

IN STAGES

Mayor Hugh Curis said he believed completion of the proposed program was "reasonably possible" with, perhaps, construction in stages on some of the jobs.

The committee heard a letter from E. D. Robbins, 3490 Mayfair Drive, who said he felt property owners on Mt. Tolmie were without adequate water supply for fire protection. He wrote his letter Aug. 24 while a fire was being fought on the mountain.

WATER AVAILABLE

Municipal Engineer Neville Life said there were 1,220,000 gallons of water available in nearby reservoirs for fighting fires on the mountain. Water lines are not designed for sufficient pressure to fight fires and pressure was supplied by pumper trucks, he said.

The matter was referred to the fire committee for investigation.

Wharf Plan Pushed

City Hall's drive to awaken interest in the Wharf Street urban development plan will start Thursday afternoon at a meeting in the McPherson Playhouse.

Some 700 invitations have been sent out to businessmen and developers in this district and across Canada to attend a showing of what has been done in San Francisco.

It is hoped that the lesson of what the California city did with its sub-standard waterfront will stimulate interest in the Victoria plan to develop the Wharf Street area and the Inner Harbor.

RECENT CHECK

Color slides will be presented by Ald. Ian Stewart who, along with City Manager Dennis Young and City Planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh, recently made an inspection in San Francisco.

If the Thursday showing is a success, a charter flight to San Francisco may be booked to let businessmen and developers see the transformation at first hand.

Space Age Art Here

Sound, Light Cube Dominates Exhibit

By BILL THOMAS

A large plastic cube in the middle of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria was in near frenzy Tuesday as a group of Vancouver artists hammered and drilled the Intermedia exhibition into readiness for opening tonight.

The cube, built by Greg Birdsall, emits a fantasy of colored lights whenever the box detects any exterior noise — and there was lots of noise Tuesday. The cube is just one of the exhibits that illustrates the marrying of art and the complex electronics techniques of the space age.

The column, about five feet tall, has four speakers which emit radar-like signals. If a viewer is within seven feet, the system's detector picks up the returned signal and sets strange music in motion. If the viewer gets closer, the sound intensifies and strobe lights start to flash in the multi-colored plastic upper section of the column.

Vancouver artist Dennis Vance has built a walk-in light tunnel that flashes as spectators walk over pressure-sensitive switches. He is also responsible for Wave, a touch organ whose chrome pipes emit different sounds when they are stroked by spectators.

The grand finale, to be presented opening night only, is a blazing fire sculpture by Vincent Trasov. A few feet away on the gallary patio, Phil Harrison's water sculpture will be in operation.

Gary Lee Nova is presenting 16 blocks of ice, each of one cubic foot dimension, in four rows of four. He will photograph them continually until they melt to plain water. He then speeds up the film so the blocks seem to just vanish.

Mr. Nova said the Vancouver Intermedia group stared in 1964.

"In 1966, Intermedia staged the Trip Festival in a large building on the PNE grounds. By 1967 Jack Shadbolt and a group formed a committee for Intermedia and we were able to get a $45,000 grant from the Canada Council."

Mr. Graham said, "All except one work was designed specifically for this exhibition. The alliance between technology and art is a key feature of Intermedia creations, and has become one of the dominant features of international art in the last four years."

New 'Chicken' Game Played by Children

Victoria children are playing a new kind of "chicken" game, according to city traffic engineer David Campbell.

He told members of city council traffic committee Tuesday that the game is played by children as young as six and seven years.

A ball is thrown out on the road from between parked cars, and the object of the game is to run out in traffic and retrieve it. Any child who refuses to do it is called "chicken."

For that reason, and to promote safety generally, a stretch of Craigflower Road in the vicinity of Banfield Park will be cut down to a 20-mile-an-hour zone, and parking will be prohibited.

Guidance Needed

Educational TV Stumps Board

By BILL STAVDAL

Greater Victoria school board may call on its teachers for ideas on how to use educational television when it eventually arrives.

The proposal was made Tuesday as trustees considered the dilemma of ETV: trying to plan for it in a complete absence of guidance from provincial and federal governments.

"We're at a kind of impasse. We have to move and yet we're stymied," trustee Allan McKinnon said Tuesday.

IDEAS EXPLORED

He spoke as trustees met as the school board's education committee. The group informally explores educational decisions before making recommendations to a regular school board meeting.

Mr. McKinnon suggested calling on the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association for a study and recommendations on ETV in the capital region.

Chairman Dr. Carron Jameson said he had heard of some school districts "boxed in" after buying video equipment which later proved unsuitable or inflexible.

COMPATABILITY

Denis Brown, supervisor of curriculum and special services for the school district, said compatibility of equipment is a major problem. Videotape of one system often can't be used in another system, he noted.

Trustee Peter Bunn observed: "Even if we are the second-biggest school district in B.C., we can't go into this on a 'do it yourself' basis."

He said the district would have to co-ordinate with a provincial system, and preferably a national system.

OTTAWA MEETING

(Education Minister Donald Brothers told the B.C. School Trustees' Association convention in Vancouver last week that he will meet with Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier in Ottawa Oct. 20 to discuss a federal bill dealing with creation of a national ETV network.)

Dr. John Wiens, the school district's director of education, said he could foresee the day when children would spend less time at school, watching ETV at home. He also predicted the coming of computer terminals at home to aid independent study.

Dr. Wiens urged the trustees to press the provincial government for leadership in ETV.

He doubted that any one school district could effectively go it alone.

But Not Total

Primary Pupils Fewer

Elementary school enrolment is down in Greater Victoria despite an increasing total school population, Greater Victoria school board was told Tuesday.

The grand total as of the official September-end count was 32,532, up slightly from the 32,116 of a year ago.

MEETINGS SOON

The board, meeting as its education committee, also heard that Dr. S. R. Laycock, an authority on sex education and co-author of a new report on emotionally disturbed children, will meet teachers and principals here next week.

On Oct. 22 Dr. Laycock will meet elementary and secondary principals to discuss the learning problems of disturbed children. The day following he will confer with planners of family life education in both elementary and high schools.

Girl Injured In Horse Race

Police said Margaret Starck of 4080 Granville was racing against her girl friend when her horse refused to stop at Interurban and Conway, near her home.

Property Owners Warned:

'No' Vote Costly In Referendum

By PAT MURPHY

If the View Royal sewer referendum does not carry in December, many property owners may be forced to install their own disposal systems, the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned Tuesday.

At the same meeting it was suggested that the referendum should be enlarged to take in a large area west of View Royal—the district from Parsons Bridge to Colwood Plaza and west to St. Mary's Priory.

NEED GREAT

This area, it was indicated, was as badly in need of proper sewers as View Royal. Here too, drain fields were seeping sewage into ditches, and land in many sections was polluted. Here, too, streams were being contaminated.

A report from the staff of the board of health stated that the View Royal sewage system, if installed, would connect with the main Macaulay Point trunk line to be installed as part of the regional board's over-all sewer project.

If the western area carried a referendum and a sewer system was constructed in that district, it, too, would be hooked into the regional line.

SIZE INFLUENCED

It was indicated at the meeting that this might influence the size of the main trunk line and the outfall which will be installed at the point.

The report also dealt with the possibility that the referendum might not go through.

"It will then be necessary for us to take court action requiring householders or operators of motels and trailer courts to install satisfactory sewage disposal systems containing effluent on their own property," the report said.

HOLDING TANKS

It was explained that this would mean the installation of holding tanks which would have to be periodically drained.

This, according to Senior Medical Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, could mean an expenditure of as much as $1,200 a year for a householder.

Raw sewage pollution in the electoral areas of View Royal, Colwood and Langford has been a concern of the health board for many years, and it was decided Tuesday that an information release would be prepared pointing out the dangers inherent in the present condition of pollution and the great expense which would be incurred over the years by householders and commercial operators if they failed to vote in favor of sewer installations.

COSTLY FOR SCHOOLS

Saanich school board chairman Rubymay Parrott said it should be stressed that holding tanks were a very expensive proposition.

The emptying and carting away of sewage for two schools in her district was going to cost $7,000 for a 10-month period. At the same time, the health board release should be tactfully worded so that it did not put voters' backs up.

If the sewer grid was installed in the View Royal area, it would cost about $120 a year for each householder. If it was installed in the western district as well the figure would be cut to about $85.

'Man of Year'

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will name the winner of the Man of the Year Award at its luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel ballroom at 12:15 p.m. Oct. 22.

Federal Employees Pass Appeal Goal

Federal government employees in Greater Victoria have exceeded their target for the United Red Cross-Red Feather Appeal by $5,000 and their canvass is not yet completed.

"We've had a real drive on for a month," says Hugh Cameron, chairman of the federal services division. "Our target was $52,000 and we've already reached $57,000 and are still climbing."

The overall campaign has reached $257,115 which is 37 per cent of its target of $694,000. Collections to date are up nine per cent over the same time last year.

'Unauthorized Promises'

Sidney Pledges Complete Probe

By NANCY BROWN

"Unauthorized promises" which have brought a developer to the brink of disaster will be the subject of an immediate investigation in Sidney.

The decision was made Monday night by Sidney Council after hearing building contractor A. S. Bains tell of road paving promises which he said had been made by Sidney building inspector W. G. Seward, and by K. L. Thomson of a paving company.

Mr. Bains asked council to go ahead with paving Bradford Avenue as had been promised.

In a letter from Mr. Bains' law firm, Straith, McIntosh and Co., council was told that road into the development on Bradford Avenue had been promised as soon as the roadbed was prepared by Mr. Bains. The road had been ready for 12 months.

Further delay could retard development of the area and the sale of properties, and winter weather could also damage the prepared gravel roadbed.

Mayor A. W. Freeman said council minutes indicated only a promise to grade the gravel.

Mr. Bains said that as the developer, he had been given all kinds of promises which he had passed on to people buying homes.

"I have been placed in an embarrassing position, and I don't want this matter to be taken so lightly," he said. "If council didn't intend to do the work, which would cost about $2,000, I should have been told and I would have gone ahead on my own."

"I'm sure council can get back the paving cost out of taxes," he said. "Because of this delay over the past year I have already suffered enough loss.

SEES DISASTER

"If you let this go on into 1970 that would be just about the finish for me. Delay could be disastrous."

Questioned about the promises which he said had been made to other people in the area as well as to himself, Mr. Bains said the building inspector and paver had both assured him that the job would be done quickly.

"It seems unauthorized promises have been made on our behalf," said Ald. Leonard Bland. "Let us look into this and determine if this is right or wrong. If promises have been made then council should carry them out."

Ald. Stanley Dear said a similar problem in the same area had been dealt with in committee, and the inquirer had been told that Bradford Avenue paving had not been budgeted for this year but would be considered in the 1970 budget.

It was decided to turn down the request for immediate action. Ald. Bland voted against the motion. It was also decided to launch an immediate investigation into the accusations of Mr. Bains.

Dedicated To Cause

Wearing traditional robes, Tsartlip chief Philip Paul dedicated himself Monday to Indian cause in two-hour name-giving ceremony performed by his father Chris and observed by white men for first time. New name, for which nearest phonetic spelling is Sitzelece, is traditional family name for leader and was last held by wrestler Chief Thunderbird.—(William Boucher)

Summer Rerun Out Via CTV

Elizabeth Sketch Angers Public

Complaints from unhappy Canadians Tuesday about an imaginary Queen Elizabeth Show on Carol Burnett's TV program the night before have made it definite the program won't be repeated by any B.C. station.

Lloyd Colthorpe, program director of the CTV network's Channel 8 in Vancouver, said he will make sure the program is not shown during next summer's reruns.

"I didn't see the program myself," he told the Colonist, "but when I walked into the office this morning, I knew something was wrong. I've been getting calls all day."

He said 15 people called the Vancouver office of Channel 8 Monday night, and another 10 people called him Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

"Not one of the callers was in favor of the sketch," he said. "All the people I spoke to said it was offensive and in bad taste."

He said he did not know whether any of the complaining calls had come from Victoria, "but we may get letters later in the week."

A total of 25 complaining calls might not sound like very much, he said, but in his experience people annoyed enough to call or write a television station represented "a great deal more adverse reaction than just their own."

On the other hand, he said, people who liked a program usually didn't bother to let the station know they approved.

The program was also broadcast over Seattle's Channel 7 and Bellingham's Channel 12.

Dave Mintz of Channel 12's Vancouver office said he had received about 10 telephone calls about the program—all against it.

"But in a metropolitan area that includes about 400,000 television sets, we don't consider 10 calls a particularly significant thing," he said.

Channel 7 has no Vancouver office. But in Seattle, station manager Philip Corvo told the Colonist he had heard no complaints about the program, although they might expect "a few letters" in the next day or so.

The Queen Elizabeth Show occupied the largest segment of the program, and Carol Burnett—regally dressed and with high-pitched voice—played Queen Elizabeth.

In the finale she appeared dressed only in a tiara and the Union Jack, cut in the shape of a miniskirt.

Twins Fire Martin

Minnesota Twins were caught up in wake of criticism Tuesday after the Monday announcement by owner Cal Griffith that Billy Martin was not being retained as manager.

Griffith was hanged in effigy by a University of Minnesota fraternity, newspapers were flooded with protests and there were numerous threats about the cancellation of season ticket plans for next season.

Although Martin had led the Twins to the American League playoff, his dismissal had not been unexpected.

But, it appeared, Martin's biggest fault as far as Griffith was concerned was his failure to follow guidelines laid down by the club owner.

"He ignored me," Griffith said.

Martin's dismissal brought to nine the number of managerial changes made in major league baseball this season.

Campbell Holds Hearing On Green-Maki Melee

OTTAWA — Stricter enforcement of rules with new penalties for stick-swinging seemed likely in the National Hockey League this season after a Tuesday hearing on the pre-season stick-swinging which fractured the skull of Boston defenceman Ted Green.

Results of the three-hour hearing will be announced today or Thursday, league president Clarence Campbell said.

Campbell also said that he would announce "some additional provisions for the enforcement of rules."

Presenting their views during the hearing were Ted Green and Chico Maki, the opponents in the incident, general manager Milt Schmidt and coach Harry Sinden of the Bruins and managing director Lynn Patrick of St. Louis Blues.

Girl Jockey Kidnapped But Races to Freedom

WILKES-BARRE, PA. (UPI)—Mary Bacon, 21, the leading U.S. girl jockey, and her agent were kidnapped briefly Tuesday by a racetrack hanger-on who police said had a "crush" on her.

The pretty, 95-pound blonde managed to break free and outrace her abductor several hundred yards to the northeast extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike where she got a motorist to take her to police.

Roy Court, her agent, was locked in the trunk of his auto but used a penknife to open the lid and drive off for help.

Policeman Thomas Czurawski said "Mary was in top physical condition. When she started to run, that guy just couldn't have caught her."

State police searched for Paul Turner, 45, of Postum, Ill., and Lexington, Ky. They said he came here several weeks ago from River Downs racetrack in Cincinnati, where he was last employed.

A spokesman for Pocono Downs, where Mrs. Bacon is the third leading rider, said Turner "probably had known of Mary from other tracks. He's had his eye on her for some time."

LEFT MOTEL

Mrs. Bacon, whose husband, John, is a jockey in Montreal and scheduled to ride here Wednesday night, told police she and Court were abducted when they left her motel for Pocono Downs.

The girl, a mother of a seven-month-old daughter who lives with her grandmother in New York City, said Court picked her up at the motel daily.

She said Turner asked for a ride to the track and Court agreed.

She said a few minutes later, Turner pulled a knife, jerked her from the front to the back seat with him and ordered Court to drive to an area two miles from the track.

LOCKED IN TRUNK

On a dirt road, he ordered Court to stop and locked him in the trunk authorities said. Court told police that before Turner pushed Miss Bacon into the woods he heard him say "I'm going to do you in just like I did that girl in Chicago."

Police said Court and the girl heard Turner mention a name but were unable to remember it. Authorities expressed belief he was merely strengthening his threat.

The girl told police she saw her chance to escape when they came to a steep embankment and her abductor slipped and fell.

Mets Series Favorites After Agee's Big Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—Centre-fielder Tom Agee led off the third game of the world series with a home run, then electrified the celebrity-studded crowd of 56,335 in Shea Stadium on Tuesday with two amazing catches as New York Mets took a 2-1 series lead by shutting out Baltimore Orioles, 5-0.

Beaten, 4-1, in the series opener in Baltimore on Saturday, the National League champions squared the series with a 2-1 decision on Sunday and are now 7-5 favorites instead of the 16-5 underdogs they were after the first game.

Rookie Gary Gentry, who hit a two-run double in the second inning, and Nolan Ryan, who relieved in the seventh, allowed only four hits between them, but they needed the defensive help provided by Agee's spectacular run-saving plays.

Both came with two out, and they saved at least five runs.

FOURTH INNING

The first came in the fourth inning when Gentry, who had pitched hitless baseball in the first innings, ran into his first trouble.

Frank Robinson and Boog Powell hit successive singles with one out to put runners on first and third bases. Brooks Robinson struck out, but Elrod Hendricks drove the ball into left-centre for what appeared to be a certain triple.

But Agee got there in time, snared the ball in the webbing of his glove and was just able to brace himself before banging into the wall at the 396-foot mark.

HARRELSON STARS

Helped along by the fine play of shortstop Bud Harrelson, Gentry retired the side in order in the fifth inning and got out of a two-on, two-out threat in the sixth before the Mets needed Agee again.

Hendricks, who hit another long one, and Dave Johnson both flew out to Agee before the weakening Gentry walked Mark Belanger, pinch-hitter Dave May and Don Buford.

That brought in the fast-balling Ryan. He got two strikes on Paul Blair, but Blair drove a low liner towards right-centre which would normally have cleared the bases. But these aren't normal times, and Agee brought the fans to their feet with a diving catch, skidding along on his stomach but keeping his glove up.

BACK TO WALL

Agee wasn't quite through. He leaned against the wall in left-centre to pull down Frank Robinson's drive leading off the eighth inning to save trouble.

But there was more trouble in the ninth after two were out. Ryan walked Belanger and Buford around a single by pinch-hitter Clay Dalrymple. Ryan bore down on Blair, needing only three pitches, the last a called strike, to get out of the jam.

With their clutch pitching and defensive play leaving 11 Orioles stranded, the Mets didn't waste any of their six hits.

GENTRY HELPS

After Agee's 400-foot blast in the first inning, they scored their second and third runs in the second inning after two were out when Jerry Grote walked, Harrelson singled and Gentry hit his double.

An infield single by Ken Boswell and a double by Grote boosted the margin to 4-0 in the sixth inning and Ed Kranepool ended the scoring with an eighth-inning home run.

Koosman Settles For Win

BALTIMORE (UPI) — New York Mets proved again Sunday in tying the world series at 1-1 that they almost always have someone around to get the job done.

It looked for a while as if Jerry Koosman and Donn Clendenon might do it but when the 26-year-old southpaw needed help, Al Weiss and Ron Taylor came up to give enough for a 2-1 win over Baltimore Orioles.

Koosman, who has this dream about pitching a no-hitter and getting four hits in one world series game, seemed in a fair way to realize one of his ambitions when he started the seventh inning with a no-hitter.

SLICED HOMER

He had a 1-0 lead given him in the fourth inning after Clendenon sliced a 370-foot home run over the right-field fence.

Paul Blair wrecked it when he led off the seventh with a single. Koosman, now after his shutout, retired sluggers Frank Robinson and Boog Powell, but Blair stole second base and Brooks Robinson scored him with a single.

With left-hander Dave McNally mowing down the Mets, it didn't seem as if anything was going to happen in the ninth inning after McNally had retired Clendenon and Ron Swoboda.

SUDDEN TROUBLE

Perhaps relaxing just a bit with the bottom half of the order left, McNally was suddenly in trouble when veteran Ed Charles and Jerry Grote hit singles.

Disdaining the chance to see what New York manager Gil Hodges would do if he walked the bases full to bring up Koosman, Baltimore manager Earl Weaver let McNally pitch to Al Weis.

NEEDED HELP

Koosman, however, needed that last bit of help. He got two out in the Baltimore ninth, then walked Frank Robinson and Powell on 3-2 pitches.

Taylor got him on a ground ball to Charles, but not before giving the 50,850 fans a last thrill by running it out to the full count.

Baltimore	000	000	100	1	2	0

Koosman (1-0), Taylor (9) and Grote. McNally (0-1) and Etcheberren. Home run: New York—Clendenon (1st).

Grinning Hodges Claims Converts —But Not Orioles

NEW YORK (AP) — "We just picked up some more non-believers," New York manager Gil Hodges grinned Tuesday after his Mets had out-hit, outfielded and outpitched Baltimore Orioles for a second straight game to take a 2-1 series lead.

Among those who weren't converted are the Orioles, who just can't get to believing the Mets are for real. Paul Blair wasn't even ready to concede that Tom Agee had accomplished something special by catching his bases-loaded bid for a hit in the seventh inning.

Blair accused Agee of playing to the stands by saying, "Great catches? Hell, I know he timed mine."

"The ball wasn't hit that hard," Blair added. "He should have had it easily. When he dove I thought he had slipped. He took a big chance for if the ball had gone past him it would have been an inside-the-park home run and the score would have been tied."

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver, however, was willing to give the Mets their due, although not yet quite convinced they should be beating his club.

"I've always said he (Agee) could play centre-field," Weaver said." I turned in my first report on him when he played at Charleston and I managed at Elmira."

GENTRY SURPRISE

Weaver said that (Gary Gentry "is a lot better than I thought he was. He throws harder than Seaver and Koosman."

Baltimore scouting reports on Gentry was that he had an "average" fast ball.

There were no quotes Tuesday from Frank Robinson, the Baltimore slugger who has been all but a bust so far in the series. He might have been embarrassed. After Sunday's game he said that not only did he think the Orioles were a better club than the Mets but that "I think Boston, Detroit, Minnesota in our league—and maybe Oakland—stack up better."

ONE FOR NINE

Robinson has a single for nine official at bats after three games.

There was no gloom in the New York dressing room.

"I felt like jumping off a bridge," exclaimed Agee. "I wanted to hit two home runs in that one time at bat."

"What's all the excitement about?" yelled Koosman. "It was just routine for Agee."

"I couldn't plan for anything better," said Hodges. "Seaver and Koosman are all set for the next two games. I'd have to say we're in good shape."

Mike Cuellar will face Seaver in today's game and McNally will take on Koosman Thursday.

Victoria Cougars indicated strongly over a busy weekend that they may be tough to head off in their defence of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League championship.

Shaking off the 3-1 loss to Penticton Broncos which opened their first jaunt through the Interior on Friday night, Cougars returned home with four out of a possible six points by defeating Kamloops Rockets, 4-2, on Sunday.

GOALS SPLIT

Victory followed a 4-2 triumph over Vernon Essos on Saturday and completed a sweep over the two Okanagan clubs Victoria-coach Doug Anderson rates as the main threats to a second successive championship.

Rookie Chris Riddell, who had a goal and an assist in the Vernon game, and holdover Bob Merluk, each scored two goals Sunday.

Merluk did his scoring in the first period, Riddell got the 3-0 goal in the second period and the 4-2 clincher on a power-play late in the final 20 minutes.

Kelowna Buckaroos and the Rockets both got their first wins on the weekend. The Buckaroos bested New Westminster Royals, 11-6, on Sunday while Rockets downed Penticton, 4-3, on Saturday.

Next game: Tonight—Ottawa at Winnipeg.

A five-game Canadian Football League weekend settled only that the Western Conference, which has been taking its lumps all season in interlocking play, has a real shot at the Grey Cup.

In what was perhaps the most

Tonight's Ottawa-Winnipeg game will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 6, PDT.

significant game of the season, Saskatchewan Roughriders left a Regina crowd of 21,957 in ecstasy Sunday by overpowering Ottawa Rough Riders, 38-21.

Continuing their steady improvement after a slow start this season, the Western Riders produced a balanced attack and held the upper hand after scoring two second-quarter touchdowns which put them ahead, 16-8.

REED LEADS

Fullback George Reed led the Saskatchewan ground attack, carrying 25 times for 149 yards to regain the rushing lead and set a CFL record.

He now has 1061 yards for the season, leading Jim Evanson of B.C. Lions by 54, and is the first player in the CFL to have gained more than 100 rushing yards in each of six seasons.

Reed scored his club's first touchdown on a seven-yard run. It tied the score and the convert by Jack Abendschan put Saskatchewan ahead to stay.

Bobby Thompson scored twice, on 70 and 27-yard pass plays with Ron Lancaster, who also threw a 14-yard scoring strike to Hugh Campbell. Larry DeGraw got the other touchdown for the Westerners on a 75-yard punt return.

SEVEN POINTS

Abendschan kicked three converts and got four points on two field-goal chances. Al Ford got the other point on a punt.

Fullback Jim Mankins, who gained 111 yards in eight carries, scored one Ottawa touchdown running and a second on a pass from Russ Jackson.

Jackson threw two yards to Tom Pullin for the other Ottawa touchdown and Don Sutherlin kicked two converts and a single on a wide field-goal try.

STAMPS WIN

Bombers had a 15-1 lead until midway through the third quarter, when Gerry Shaw started the Calgary comeback by taking a seven-yard scoring pass from Jerry Keeling.

REDELL APPEARS

Keeling injured an ankle plunging for a first down and Bill Redell came in and ran 11 yards for the score. Robinson's convert was the winning point, the Bombers failing in a last-play effort to tie with a punt.

Winnipeg's defeat enabled Eskimos to take third place in the Western Conference through a come-from-behind 20-14 win over Montreal Alouettes in Edmonton on Monday.

Alouettes took a 7-0 lead on the first play from scrimmage. Tom Cassesse scored a 68-yard touchdown after taking a pass from Sonny Wade and Gino Berreta kicked the convert.

DEFENCE WORKS

Fullback Jim Duncan ran seven yards for an unconverted touchdown in the second quarter and Eskimos trailed, 0-13, before their defence team led them back.

Tackel John LaGrone, a standout all afternoon, scored the first Edmonton points by grabbing the ball in the end zone after it had been batted away from Wade by Ron Forwick.

An interception set up a touchdown, on a five-yard run, by Jim Thomas late in the half. It tied the score momentarily at 13-13, Dave Cutler missing the convert try.

Wade broke the tie on the last play of the half with a 60-yard punt but the Edmonton defence throttled Als in the second half and Thermus Butler got the winning touchdown late in the third quarter on a nine-yard run.

In Monday's other game, Toronto Argonauts got two touchdowns from Dave Raimey in Hamilton to defeat the Tiger-Cats, 17-7.

Lane Can't Give Away His Rangers

Owner of 80 per cent of the stock of the Continental Football League club, Lane last week offered to turn his stock over to general manager Dick Berg and coach Don White if they would take over the $40,000 owed by the club on this season's operation.

At a press conference Monday, White and Berg jointly announced that 'due to complex financial, legal and tax uncertainties surrounding the proposed gift of Seattle Rangers, an exchange of stock to us from Lafa Lane will not be made at this time."

At last reports, Lane who has had the club for four years and reportedly lost $250,000 in its first two years, intended to carry on.

Chicago Black Hawks are scheduled to move into the expansion division next season if plans to add two more National Hockey League clubs are carried out. But even there the Hawks will need Bobby Hull.

They have played two games this season. Both have been against expansion clubs, both have been lost and the Hawks have got the message. They had Hull in Chicago Monday, and while no progress was reported on contract talks, it was proof that the Hawks are getting a bit anxious.

"I certainly want to play but can't under the circumstances," Hull said.

That he would be useful was brought home forcibly to the Hawks Sunday night in a 2-1 home-ice defeat by Oakland Seals.

Seals played shorthanded for more than seven minutes in the first period but the Hawks managed only 10 shots in the period. They dominated play in the second and third period but didn't get their goal until the 12th minute of the last period, after the Seals had taken a 2-0 lead.

Two former Western Hockey League youngsters, owned by Toronto and stationed in Victoria, did in the Hawks.

In Sunday's other game, Boston Bruins opened their season before 14,831 hometown fans by scoring two first-period power-play goals and making them stand up for a 2-1 decision over New York Rangers.

Fred Stanfield and Johnny McKenzie, who did the scoring, and Bobby Orr all figured on the goals.

No Exhibition As Gary Comes First

Gary Coe of Portland, discarding his usual role of exhibition driver in his Gunfighter, a 1957 Ford, won the competition eliminator title Sunday in the season-finale at Van Isle Dragways. Coe covered the quarter-mile distance in the best time of 11.91 seconds for a 113.06 m.p.h. average before a crowd of about 2500.

Duncan's Clayton Wright was the competition stock car division champion, driving his 1969 Firebird to a best time of 12.24 seconds for a 113.35 m.p.h. average.

STOBBE WINS

Richmond's George Davis captured the super stock honors in his 1968 Ford Fairlane, averaging 115.83 m.p.h. with a best time of 11.26 seconds.

Minnesota Vikings, who lost their first game by a point when New York Giants scored two late touchdowns, have come back to look like a solid threat for the National Football League championship.

Leading the league on offence, Vikings made it three wins in a row Sunday by clobbering Chicago Bears, 31-0.

Bears stopped up the passing of Joe Kapp, who got one touchdown but only 75 yards through the air, before yeielding late in the game. However, the Vikings came up with other ways to score.

They converted a blocked punt, a blocked field goal and an interception into three touchdowns and got a fourth major score on a 58-yard run by halfback Dave Osborne.

Victory kept Vikings even with Green Bay in the Central Division. The Packers bowled over Detroit Lions, 28-17, with quarterback Bart Starr and receiver Carroll Dale a deadly passing combination.

Meanwhile, Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams, who just made it, remained unbeaten with fourth straight victories.

Rams were outplayed by the 49ers in San Francisco but managed two fourth-quarter touchdowns for a 27-21 decision.

In Atlanta, the pinpoint passing of Craig Morton brought Cowboys a 24-3 lead and they went on to defeat the Falcons, 24-17.

Daryle Lamonica, ignoring a snow-covered field and near-freezing temperatures, threw three touchdown passes in Denver Sunday to keep Oakland Raiders the only unbeaten American Football League team.

Lamonica had 19 completions and no interceptions in passing for 244 yards and a 24-14 win over the hard-trying Broncos, who were in the struggle until a late touchdown put it out of reach.

Defeat forced the Oilers to share first place in the Eastern Division with New York Jets.

The defending champions, giving Joe Namath perfect protection and getting 129 rushing yards from Emerson Boozer, zipped past Cincinnati Bengals, 21-7.

Sound Advice

When the novice gardener first takes a crack at growing some vegetables for his family, almost invariably his eyes are bigger than his stomach and he winds up with a far bigger crop than can possibly be consumed at the moment. Some of the surplus can be canned or frozen, of course, and there is a growing hobby of making wine from home-grown fruits and vegetables. One of my friends makes a fine light table wine from pea pods, while his parsnip wine packs a kick like the proverbial mule.

But what do you do if you don't own a freezer and lack canning or wine-making equipment? Fortunately, most of our common vegetables will keep in remarkably good condition if you can store them in a very cool but frost-free place.

There are a few basic principles which must be followed if vegetables are to be stored successfully for winter use, and the first and most important of these is to store ONLY the sound and healthy specimens. Inspect each one carefully, and any with scratches or bruises, spots or rot or slug holes should be sent to the kitchen to be eaten up first, for to put them into storage is just asking for trouble — trouble which could spread to ALL the stored vegetables.

Another important principle is to store only the MATURE vegetables. All of us are fond of tender young vegetables — finger-length carrots, crisp green onions, tiny Zucchini squash, baby beets and baby new potatoes — but these are much too young and sappy to remain in good condition in winter storage, and will inevitably shrivel or rot.

Next to sound health and maturity, the most important factor in the storage of vegetables is temperature, which with most vegetables should, ideally, be as close to the freezing point as possible without actual frost.

It must be remembered that the normal growth processes lead always to either sprouting or rot, and to keep stored vegetables in an edible condition for any great time, these growth processes must be slowed down to a snail's pace. As growth slows down as the temperature drops it follows that the cooler the storage place — short of actual freezing — the longer the storage life of your vegetables.

A temperature range between 33 and 40 degrees is not too difficult to maintain in a farm dugout or an old-fashioned root cellar, but it isn't easy to find a suitable place in a modern furnace-heated home. A 50-degree fruit cupboard is better than nothing, but storage life is correspondingly reduced.

A third factor is humidity, for vegetables tend to shrivel in dry air. Here again, the old root cellar and farm dugout score heavily, for the dirt floor contributes quite a bit of moisture to the air. The very dry winter air in a furnace-heated home can be counteracted to some extent by burying such vegetables as carrots and beets in boxes of slightly dampened peat moss, sand or sawdust.

A fourth factor — and this is a very important one — is ventilation, for unless there is some movement of air through the storage place, it becomes stuffy and musty, leading to all kinds of queer rots and moulds and taints. The dugout and root cellar, excellent in other respects, are often poorly ventilated.

Cleanliness and freedom from smells are essential, of course, for vegetables will pick up taints at the drop of a hat. I remember one occasion when the family overshoes were inadvertently stored in the same basement room as the vegetables, and the ghost of those rubber boots appeared at every meal!

Fruit and vegetables are not good companions in storage. That lovely, fruity smell of apples, for instance, is an ethylene gas that speeds up the growth processes in vegetables, induces potatoes to sprout and causes a bitter flavor in carrots.

Jackie Asked for It

Hard on the heels of Mary Gallagher's best seller, My Life with Jacqueline Kennedy, comes a new book of startling revelations titled, I Was Jackie Kennedy Onassis' Judo Instructor, written by Chikara Hadaka of the Grappling Falls Athletic Club.

Mr. Hadaka invited me to sit on his mat as he told me how he came to write the book.

"One day, pretty lady come to me and say, 'Hadaka, I wish to learn honorable sport of judo.'

★ ★ ★

"I say to lady, 'Why you want to learn such honorable sport of judo?'

"And she reply, 'Because I want to go to the movies.'

"I say, 'Pretty lady, why must you learn honorable judo to go to movies?'

"And she say, 'Because I want to see honorable I am Curious-Yellow.'

"Ah so,' I reply. 'Then I will teach you so you will be able to see not only honorable I Am Yellow but also honorable Oh Calcutta.'

"I say, 'When I teach you, you will be able to even see Andy Warhol.' She say Okay, providing I no tell her husband how much lessons cost.

"So," I said, "You taught her the fundamentals of judo."

He said, "Pretty lady say she want to learn certain techniques to use against photographers. She no interested in grappling or double knuckle rolls. She want to concentrate on hand and hip throws and the rear double lapel tourniquet.

"I say, 'I will teach you that, but if you go to the movies you must also learn "two hand slap from a sitting position" and "step over arm drag."

"She say, 'All right. Teach me everything so I will be able to go to honorable I Am Curious-Yellow.' "

"Was she a good pupil?"

"She learn fast. In one day she know 'single arm hug,' 'feet in neck and hip' and 'shin on calf.' For exercises I hold press camera and she try to throw me over shoulder. One day she had me in near half-Nelson and she say to me, 'Hadaka, I do not know what I would do without you.'

"I say, 'Jackie, I will remain in this half-Nelson as long as you want me to.'

"We were very close to each other. But that is not to say we did not have trouble. For one thing, she keep buying new judo pajamas, but she no want me to tell her husband. She spend $4,000 a week on new judo clothes. Then she have me take to second-hand judo clothes dealer and sell them for her and bring back money.

"Once I admired a pair of judo pajamas she was wearing and she gave them to me for $65.

"All the same time she very kind. One time she have me in four hammer lock for two hours. And when I tell her it my wedding anniversary, she let me go."

"It sounds as if she really was an excellent pupil.

★ ★ ★

"Of yes,. In short while she become sixth degree black belt. When I inform her this, she bring in beautiful jewel-encrusted sword, present from Shah of Iran. She ask me to put the jewels from sword on black belt. I say it not possible and she very angry and ask me, 'How can I go see honorable I Am Curious-Yellow without jewels on my black belt'?"

"Mr. Hadaka, why did you decide to write this book and violate Mrs. Onassis' confidence?"

"Because when she go to movie and flip news photographer over shoulder, she deny she know honorable sport of judo and say stupid photographer slip. Hadaka lose face. So Hadaka call literary agent and say, 'Kiai! I am ready to talk'."

Tate Movie Delayed

NEW WORK (NANA) — Sharon Tate's last film, 12 Plus 1, now ready for release, is being held back by millionaire Claude Girous, who produced the picture. His associates say "This would be a good time in the wake of Sharon's tragic murder to cash in on the publicity" but Girous reportedly feels "it would be bad taste." There was a showing of the film in Rome last week, and the reaction was very good. But we won't see it until much later in the year, or early 1970. Everywhere I go I am asked for my opinion on the dreadful and still unsolved murder. Everyone has a theory. To me the inexplicable aspect is the lack of fingerprints. You can't knock off five people without leaving some trace. 12 Plus 1, adds up to 13, as I don't have to remind you.

Richard Harris hasn't taken a drop for four weeks and says "I never felt better in my life." Richard has just finished Cromwell and starts Bloomfield in Israel. Bloomfield is a football player, which brings Harris full cycle. He was a rugby player in his first important picture, The Sporting Life. In January, Richard stars as Scrooge for Cinema Centre Films — Robert Solo produces, Ronald Neame directs and it has a 17-week schedule. For the first time, one man will play the Dickens character as a young as well as an old man. Oh yes—it's a musical. Scrooge singing and dancing. I never thought I'd see the day.

I wonder whether we are having too many movie musicals. They overdid it in the '30s to the point if you could sing and dance you kept it quiet. It could happen again.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Leslie Caron has joined the group which believes the salvation of the film business lies in low budgeted films: "No one gets excited with, let's say, a Burt Lancaster film, but an Easy Rider, and Alice's Restaurant or Midnight Cowboy — all made for less than $1,000,000 — generate great excitement. Music is more important than ever to the success of a film. It's to John Schlesinger's credit that he took an old record that was a hit two or three years ago and made it the theme song for Midnight Cowboy. Mike Nichols did the same thing for The Graduate. Those songs by Simon and Garfunkel were not new." I never would have guessed.

★ ★ ★

At the "Cowboy" opening in London, Julie Christie paired with producer John Schlesinger—no romance, they have been friends since John gave Julie her first break in Billy Liar, followed by Darling, then Far from the Madding Crowd which wasn't as good. But John can have the grateful Christie for a film any time he beckons. Schlesinger is the new cinematic god in Britain. They always love it when an Englishman goes to the U.S. and shows us how to make a typically American story. They loved Peter Yates for Bullitt, a very American tale told by an Englishman with the added bonus of Steve McQueen in the lead. Talking of Steve, he has recently made a statement that I have been making for some time—that no actor is worth a million-dollar salary. This is ironic because Steve and Paul Newman are about the only two actors today who really are worth a million.

★ ★ ★

No one can quite understand why Genevieve's co-star Michael Crawford brought suit to cut down the $36 he was to pay for the support of his extra-marital child. The court halved the payment, but with Michael making so much money he certainly lost some prestige by his act. I believe he fought the case "on principle." A poor reason. If the girl had been asking for $1000 a month, one could understand it better.

Producer Elliott Kastner is hoping to create a James Bond-type character with Anthony Hopkins—he was Richard in The Lion in Winter — in a new film series written by Alistair Maclean. The first will be titled When Eight Bells Toll. It is a suspense spy story by the man who wrote the successful Where Eagles Dare and Guns of Navarone.

There will be three films. The master spy is called Philip Calvert and everyone seems so sure he will be a hit they will market Philip Calvert ties, shirts, gloves, etc. Elliott, with partners Jerry Gershwin and Jay Kanter, are financing the three movies and are not bothering about a release until the first is completed. That's how sure they are.

Official Dies After Beating

MONTEVIDEO (AP)—A soccer referee was kicked and beaten to death Sunday by an enraged player who disagreed with one of his rulings, police said Monday.

The incident occurred during a game between two local teams in the small town of Pando, some 20 miles west of Montevideo.

Police said a Flamengo player, Israel Olivera Martinez, became enraged when he was penalized by referee Oscar Maidana and, encouraged by Flamengo fans, attacked the referee, fatally injuring him.

Garbage Piles On Increase

LONDON (UPI) — Determined to win an $11 a week pay raise, leaders of London's striking garbage collectors rejected a $6 increase offer and sent their unofficial walkout into its 19th day. Purple and green plastic bags of garbage piled up in streets and yards throughout 31 of London's 32 boroughs, with no end to the strike in sight.

Run Over

Child's Body Ignored

MONTREAL (CP) — A succession of motorists drove over a child's body without stopping here Saturday night, police disclosed Tuesday.

The grisly incident occurred after dusk at the Wellington street entrance to the Champlain bridge, where Claude Filion, 12, was struck and killed by a car.

MATES WATCH

At least two more cars ran over him without stopping, while three playmates watched helplessly from the side of the road, and another seven passed by without slowing down.

Police said Tuesday that, as far as they have been able to determine, the body lay in the road for at least 10 minutes before three students stopped their car and notified them.

The boy's father, Maurice Filion, a CNR engineer, asked why other motorists had not stopped earlier.

DID IT FOR DOG

"Last weekend, while driving along the highway, I stopped to push a dead dog lying in the middle of the road to the side, so that motorists wouldn't hit it. If I could do this for a dog, why couldn't they stop for my son?"

One of Claude's playmates, Daniel Trottier, 11, said the boys had been playing hide-and-seek until they set out for home shortly before 8 p.m.

Claude ran on ahead, he said.

Joy Ride Ends In Slaying

BRANTFORD, Ont (CP) — Nine persons were charged with non-capital murder Monday after the noon-hour shooting of a motorcycle gang member who weighed 100 pounds and didn't even have a motorcycle.

David Stuart Gregg, 21, of Wheatley, Ont., took his car on a Thanksgiving weekend jaunt with the Lobos, a Windsor-based gang and ended up face down in a residential street with a bullet in his back.

Police charged seven men and two girls, all members of the Brantford-based Outcasts, in connection with the shooting, which was apparently touched off by an incident involving the wife of one of the Outcasts.

'It Was a Lark'

Kidnapping Suspect Remanded Two Days

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 42-year-old unemployed draftsman, charged with kidnapping two Vancouver girls for $50,000 ransom, was remanded without plea Tuesday in a brief court appearance.

★ ★ ★

Douglas Patrick Shaben of North Vancouver was charged Monday with kidnapping Phyllis Cohen and Katherine Matheson, both 11, who disappeared Friday afternoon from a school.

Shaben was remanded to Thursday. There was no mention of bail.

Police said Shaben, who has two sons aged 11 and 15, was arrested as he crossed back into Canada from Bellingham, Wash., Sunday.

He faces two counts of kidnapping and two of unlawfully confining the two young girls, who were released unharmed. The $50,000, paid by Phyllis' father, importer Joseph Cohen, was recovered.

At 3 p.m. Friday, police said, a man went to Sir William Osler school and told Principal Gerald J. Jenvey he was a friend of the Cohen family.

The man said Cohen had been injured in a car accident and asked that Phyllis be allowed to accompany him to a hospital. She agreed to accompany the man but insisted that her friend Kathy come along.

The man hitched a trailer to the back of his station wagon and drove the girls to a number of shopping centres in the Vancouver area.

The girls, unaware they had been abducted, agreed later he should pull into a trailer court for the night. They settled down in sleeping bags at one end of the trailer, the man at the other.

Saturday morning the girls played with other children at the trailer court, then the three resumed driving around the city. At 3 p.m. Saturday, Cohen got a call at home demanding $50,000 in cash, which he raised from friends.

He took the money to a predetermined drop in North Vancouver which police were watching. However, police were concerned about the children's safety and made no attempt to arrest the man when he picked up the money. They lost track of the suspect in traffic. Shortly thereafter, Cohen received a telephone call telling him the children had been left at a bus depot in downtown Vancouver.

Police found the girls at the bus depot—still unaware that they had been kidnapped and that $50,000 had changed hands.

Cohen said the girls were neither hurt nor molested.

"They were treated very kindly by this man," he said. "He was good to them and they talked to him a lot.

All-White Jury Protested

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — A 12-man, all-white jury examined photographs of the scene in the remote northwestern Saskatchewan community of Buffalo Narrows where seven persons were slain last January as the murder trial of Frederick Moses McCallum opened Tuesday.

Most of the day was taken up by legal arguments over selection of the jury after defence counsel J. H. Clyne Harradence protested over the lack of Indian or Metis persons on the panel. The 20-year-old defendant is a Metis—of mixed Indian-white ancestry.

NOTHING IMPROPER

Mr. Justice Walter Tucker eventually ruled there was nothing improper in the list provided by Sheriff D. A. Deakes.

McCallum was charged with two counts of non-capital murder Jan. 30 after seven persons were slain at the remote northwestern Saskatchewan community of Buffalo Narrows.

"This accused person is entitled to be tried by his peer," Harradence said. "At least a few should be from the same race, religion or creed as the accused."

Serge Kujawa, Saskatchewan's chief public prosecutor, said the main qualification for jury duty is that jurors are reasonable men and women and that selection of citizens for jury duty be done fairly.

Mr. Justice Walter Tucker said it would be "outrageous" to question potential jurors on their race or religion.

With so many different racial origins and faiths in Canada, adoption of such a principle "would create chaos in the administration of justice."

Sheriff Deakes said the jurors were picked at random from the Prince Albert city directory.

McCallum pleaded not guilty in Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench on two counts of non-capital murder.

Fred Gives Family Balanced Budget

—William E. John

Debbie transmitting data to Fred

By JUDY JENKINS

Not every housewife can balance her budget. But then, not every housewife has a computer named Fred, literally at her fingertips.

Debbie Horner of 36 Sylvan Lane does her household bookkeeping via telephone with he help of Fred, the UNIVAC 9200-II computer at Alpha Data Ltd. If the books don't balance, Mrs. Horner doesn't blame it on Fred.

★ ★ ★

A little green box sits beside the telephone at the Horner home. The box has a set of push-buttons with numbers, and Mrs. Horner simply dials a special number and transmits the accounts to Fred.

Fred sorts them out, computes and prints out a sheet of paper that lets Al Horner, manager of Alpha Data, and his wife know how much of their money is going for what purpose.

Fred has several advantages over human bookkeepers. He thinks faster, doesn't add two and two up to five, and doesn't let emotions get in the way of facts.

Fred can keep families out of what Mr. Horner calls "never-never land." Many people buy on the never-never plan. They get a house, furniture and car, and they will "never, never get it paid for." They can be on the verge of bankruptcy without knowing it.

While Fred is a whiz at straightening out the budget, that is only a minor function. He sends out bills, keeps mailing lists straight and can show a business the error of its financial ways.

Mr. Horner doesn't believe computers have souls, but he says he's nice to Fred, just in case. Being nice includes providing an air-conditioned, humidity-controlled room, and vacuuming once a day. An occasional pat on the back helps.

★ ★ ★

Fred is also an educational boon to the Horner family. Six-year-old Victoria is "very computer-oriented," Mr. Horner said. She accepts the computer and data transmission as a matter of course. Robin, 2, doesn't quite understand it all yet, but growing up with a computer is apt to have a similar effect.

★ ★ ★

All things considered, bringing Fred into the family is pretty economical, according to Mr. Horner. His brainpower for the books costs about $8.50 a month.

ERMA BOMBECK Looks Ahead

Popsicle Stick Priceless

My husband and I are antique buffs. Anything that looks older than either of us, we buy. We figure in two or three years, it'll be priceless.

One of the lures of collecting is the story that accompanies an item. We have a sliver of wood framed over our mantle that is either (a) a chip from George Washington's false teeth or (b) a toothpick used by John Wayne in his last movie. The dealer wasn't sure.

I don't know whether the stores are true or not, but I feel cheated when I buy something without one. In an advancing society where today's children don't know what a piece of coal or an ice pick is, it is interesting to imagine what dealers will tell antique collectors a hundred years from now.

"Could you please tell me what this thing is?" a perspective customer will ask.

"That is a hula hoop. It belonged to an old Ohio pioneer called Fenster Dingo in the late 1950's."

"What's it for?"

"Well, back in those days people had nothing to do but sit around and watch television and dream about the moon. In the evenings, they'd gather in a circle, sling these over their bodies and rotate their hips. I understand this particular hula hoop survived 300 garage sales."

"What's a garage?" asks the customer.

"I think the dealer from Bethel has one over in his exhibit."

"That used to be worn by women out West and in the East who were called topless waitresses. It never caught on in the Midwest. The women there wore them but wouldn't let go of their menus."

★ ★ ★

"Can you imagine anyone being that Victorian?" squealed the customer.

"Did you see this? It's a real primitive. A can opener. This even pre-dates the flip-top. You just insert this around the rim of a can and wind in a clockwise direction."

"What's a can?"

"They're hard to come by. Ah, I see you've purchased two popsickle sticks. Hang onto those. In a year or so they'll bring more than the roll-on deodorant containers.

Would you like to see a contact lens? I paid $1000 for it. It's the right eye of either Fannie Flagg or Wanda Hendrix. No, it's not for sale.

★ ★ ★

"I have one of those rare editions you might be interested in. This is the collected wit and humor of Richard Nixon. Say, how about an antique snow tire? They make adorable planters."

Thalidomide Critic 'Prejudiced'

ALSDORF, West Germany (AP)—The prosecution in the lengthy German thalidomide trial suffered a setback Monday when Judge Benno Dietz rejected an assessment by a professor who first sounded public alarm against the baby-maiming drug.

The judge said on the trial's 165th day he rejected the evidence of Prof. Widukind Lenz because it is prejudiced. He referred to articles by Lenz in medical journals attacking the drug, and demands Lenz allegedly made of West German authorities to remove the drug from the market.

Gold Calling Cards

Just the Thing For Christmas

DALLAS (UPI)—The Neiman-Marcus 1969 Christmas catalogue came out Tuesday, featuring 18-carat gold calling cards, a computer programmed with balanced food menus and a $150,000 mink coat.

The store's annual Yule catalogues are for rich Texans who have nearly everything and also are issued for publicity.

But Neiman-Marcus always delivers on anything it advertises and in the past has sold a few lead items like "his and her" airplanes.

In this year's catalogue, a dozen gold calling cards cost $1,500. The skins in one-of-a-kind kojah mink coat cost $2,700 each and a complete coat costs $150,000.

A honeywell computer programmed with balanced menus costs $10,600 and the price includes a two-week course in how to operate it.

For the well-to-do parents who do not like to take their children to zoos, a baby elephant, zoo keeper and accompanying petting zoo is listed at $13,750 for a year's rent.

An 18-carat gold tape measure is $350 and an 18-carat gold swizzle stick is $250.

The catalogue says Neiman-Marcus will deliver 100,000 gallons of a men's cologne to the doorstep for $5,000,000.

If the man who receives the cologne does not want to put it into his swimming pool, the Dallas store also provides, for the $5,000,000, enough five-gallon jugs to hold the 100,000 gallons.

Expecting in Spring

London Symphony Orchestra conductor Andre Previn, 40, longtime writer of music for movies, Tuesday confirmed reports he and actress Mia Farrow, 23, expect baby in late spring. Previn, who declined to say if he and Miss Farrow plan to marry, is separated from his second wife, songwriter Dory Previn, while Miss Farrow was divorced from Frank Sinatra in 1968.—(AP)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why do you advise women with five-o'clock shadow to have electrolysis? Why not tell them the best solution is a cheerful disposition and a good razor.

•

I started to shave at 18 and I've been at it ever since. In the meantime I married a wonderful man and we have a beautiful family. My husband and I shave together every morning. My beard is tougher than his and we joke about it. When we go out in the evening I have to shave again. He doesn't. We joke about that, too.

Last summer we drove cross-country with the children. I was wearing slacks and a leather jacket. When we stopped in Tyler, Texas, for lunch, my husband suggested we both go into the barber shop and get shaved. We did. The barber nearly fainted. We joked about that, too.

So you see, Ann, a sense of humor can get a woman through almost anything, and I am living proof. Sign me—The Bearded Lady.

For Bitter Wives

Dear Lady: Yeah. A sense of Humor—and a good razor. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Also Ran" and for all the other bitter wives who think they got a raw deal. "Also" had had it. She was sick and tired of catering to a selfish husband. I felt the same way and I did something about it. I got a divorce.

Now, after 18 months of soul searching I know who was really to blame. When I realized my husband was contributing only 25 per cent of his effort to our marriage I decided to give 25 per cent, too. That left 50 per cent that nobody was giving. No marriage can survive that much dead air.

I've had some good talks with women since my divorce—some are happily married, the majority are not. I've reached the conclusion that most husbands only give 25 per cent. The wives who have the successful marriages are giving 75 per cent. This is what being a wife means. I hope all you 25-per-cent wives out there will see this and wise up.—Lernda Lot.

Dear Lernda: I will undoubtedly be labelled a traitor to my sex for printing your letter, but it's a good one and I agree with you. Any woman who thinks marriage is a 50-50 proposition is kidding herself.

Husbands Willing

The beautiful part of your theory is that the wives who are willing to give more than 50 per cent soon discover that their husbands are willing to up the ante also.

□

Dear Ann Landers: I had two telephone calls this morning from mothers of 11-year-old girls. Both women said the same thing — that I am old-fashioned and out of touch with the times. Why? Because I refuse to allow my 12-year-old son to go to boy-girl parties.

I am sure the children are not doing anything wrong at these parties. They dance and eat are home by midnight. All the same I think 11-and 12-year-olds are too young for this sort of thing.

My son is not mad. He's relieved. The mothers of the girls are mad. It seems they just can't wait for their daughters to grow up and be popular. If you say I'm wrong, Ann, I'll reconsider, but I hope you'll be on my side.—Muskegon Mother.

Dear Muskegon: How I wish more mothers were as "old fashioned" and "out of touch" as you! There's nothing sadder than 11- and 12-year-old girls whose mamas doll them up and push them into the adult world. Don't budge, Lady. You're on solid ground.

Cabinet Shift

Wilson Picks Women

LONDON (CP) — Two women with Canadian connections figured prominently Monday when Prime Minister Wilson completed a two-part minor shuffle of his British Labor cabinet.

Vancouver-born Joan Lestor becomes parliamentary undersecretary at the education and science department and is described in The Times as a rising star in the Labor party. Miss Lestor, 37, is known for passionate interests in African matters and in providing more nursery facilities for British children.

★ ★ ★

She moves to a department being vacated by Mrs. Shirley Williams, 39, who becomes minister of state in the home office after a period in charge of universities and higher education. Mrs. Williams is a daughter of Prof. George Catlin, a former teacher of political science at McGill University in Montreal.

The cabinet shuffle emphasized youth, as Wilson dropped two older men—Lord Stonham, 66, minister of state at the home office, and J. W. Mallalieu, 61, minister of state for technology.

Albania Loses Last Princess

CANNES (AP) — Princess Maxhide Zogu, youngest of six sisters of former King Zog of Albania and the last princess of the royal house, died at 54. The princess left Albania in 1939 after the Italian invasion.

Smoothys were married in London Oct. 17, 1909. They have two children, Gordon of Palm Springs, Calif., and Evelyn (Mrs. E. H. Pope) of Saanich, five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.—(Bud Kinsman)

King Fisherman

They're Jumping at French Creek

BIGGEST LAKE TROUT entered in the King Fisherman Contest this month is this 8.8-pound rainbow taken in Great Central Lake on Flatfish by Thelma Ashby, 455 Gertrude, Port Alberni. She was fishing just out from the Ark Resort.

French Creek has taken a new lease on life for fishermen, with good returns of keeper-grilse, jacksprings and coho reported over the weekend.

Among the lucky anglers at French Creek this weekend were Arthur and Peggy Beadle, of Victoria, with daughters Jennifer and Derede, who boated 10 grilse, one jack spring and three coho, weighing 12, 10 and eight pounds. Tom Mack spoon was the lucky lure.

"I am out to win that trip to Fiji," said Mrs. Beadle.

Centennial Square

Restroom Bill Little Comfort

Keeping the Centennial Square restroom open until midnight every day for the past two weeks cost the city $115, plus another $40 for cleaning up "messes" in the restroom and elsewhere in the square.

In a report to the public works committee Tuesday, City Engineer James Garnett said the experiment to accommodate young people and others in the square saw three mirrors broken in the washroom and a number of tiles smashed.

His suggestions, adopted by the committee, were that police be asked to inspect at more frequent intervals, and that repairs due to vandalism not be undertaken at once as has been city policy.

ALL NIGHT

In order to avoid callouts of employees at overtime rates to close the washrooms, he urged that they be left open all night and that response to cleanup calls be made only under exceptional circumstances.

Ald. Cecil Parrott wanted to know if metal mirrors could not be installed, but the engineer said that the practice of scratching "crude" words on the glass with a glasscutter or some other instrument would continue with metal as well as glass.

Several aldermen wanted to know why mirrors were necessary at all.

NO REPLACING

It is likely that if the new ones are marred or smashed, they will not be replaced.

Fort Victoria Properties Ltd., owner of what used to be the Humber building in Bastion Square, will be asked to supply more details of what it expects to do with the structure which was once part of the old courthouse complex.

The company will be encouraged in its general plan to establish speciality shops and a restaurant on the main floor and convert the top two storeys to offices.

However, before the city grants a seven-foot encroachment on the square for new entrances to the building, more information will be sought about the company's over-all plan.

B.C. French Plan Co-Ops

VANCOUVER (CP) — The French-Canadian Federation of British Columbia has decided to sponsor co-operatives to help keep its culture from being eroded in the province. The federation's 25th annual conference decided that housing, stores, day nurseries and cultural activities should come under co-operative sponsorship.

Army Pulled Out

As simply as that, and without fanfare, the city's police force reassumed responsibility for maintaining law and order.

Maurice St. Pierre, director of Quebec provincial police, told a news conference "the situation has returned to normal."

St. Pierre, under emergency Quebec government legislation still in command of metropolitan-area police forces, said the 600 troops had cleared the city by Monday afternoon.

The decision to release the military—members of the French-Canadian Royal 22nd Regiment, commonly called the Van Doos—and 300 RCMP personnel on special duty had actually been taken at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Montreal Young Canadians Target of Police Probes

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice St. Pierre, director of provincial police, flew to Quebec City early Tuesday for a meeting with Justice Minister Remi Paul and other members of the provincial cabinet.

Reliable sources said St. Pierre, who last week assumed temporary command of all Montreal-region police forces following a strike by city police, was to report to provincial authorities on investigations in the Company of Young Canadians.

The file was said to contain evidence gathered in recent weeks. The information had not been made public because its disclosure might interfere with further investigation.

It is reported to contain a detailed report of charges by Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, that the CYC is involved in "clearly subversive" activities and that some of its members are responsible for recent civil disorder in the Montreal area.

Saulnier said the evidence is in documents seized by police in raids on CYC premises.

SAULNIER DISAGREES

Saulnier has expressed strong disagreement with State Secretary Gerard Pelletier who said Sunday in Halifax a police investigation rather than a royal commission inquiry should be conducted into the CYC.

Pelletier said police investigation of CYC activities in the Montreal region started 15 days before Saulnier asked for the royal commission quiry

Meanwhile Bernard Mataigne, 25, a CYC volunteer, said he is a separatist and was convicted in 1964, when he was 19, of possession of dynamite and given a two-year suspended sentence.

Mataigne said he no longer believes "at all in terrorism."

IN THE PAST

In Ottawa Tuesday, Ian Hamilton, CYC information director, said an unnamed CYC staff worker in Montreal "should not be made to suffer now for a past conviction."

He would not deny that several members of the CYC in Quebec are active in the Front de Liberation Populaire, a political group advocating separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada. The CYC was "totally opposed" to subversion or terrorism and did not regard the FLP as subversive, he said.

QPP IN CHARGE

Meanwhile, the only vestige of Montreal's abnormal state last week was the provincial police control of Montreal-region police forces.

Late Tuesday, Louis Philippe Aubert, 26-year-old member of the CYC being held as a material witness in the shooting-death during the strike of QPP Cpl. Robert Dumas, was released on $500 bail.

He is to testify at a coroner's inquest Oct. 21, along with five other witnesses released earlier on $2,000 bail each.

Provincials Out Today

Provincial police took command of Montreal area police last Tuesday when the Montreal police went on a 16-hour strike.

Paul said the order-in-council authorizing the takeover under the Police Act would likely be revoked at today's cabinet meeting.

Group Set to Fight

OTTAWA (CP) — The permanent council of the Company of Young Canadians, the CYC's governing body, Tuesday invited Lucien Saulnier, chairman of Montreal's executive committee, to attend a council meeting Saturday.

Saulnier has charged the CYC with "clearly subversive" activities in the Montreal region and has called on Prime Minister Trudeau to cut off funds to the federal organization.

The council said in a statement it is inviting Saulnier to its meeting "at which his allegations will be the first order of business."

Four-Wheeled Surprises Choice of Millionaire

LONDON (UPI) — Franklyn Bower, 60, was looking for something a bit different for his friends for Christmas. Then he got in a London taxi.

Bower, a Jacksonville, Fla., millionaire bachelor, was so crazy about the London cabs he bought 60 of them to give to friends.

Bower's $48,000 worth of cabs will arrive at Port Everglades, Fla. Nov. 3 in plenty of time for gift wrapping.

Juvenile Stabbed In Arena Incident

The youth pleaded not guilty to charges of possessing an offensive weapon and assault causing bodily harm and was remanded until Nov. 13 for trial.

Charges arose from an incident in which another juvenile was stabbed with a switchblade knife. The knife is said to have missed the vital organs, causing no serious injury.

★ ★ ★

Police said the two youths were apparently throwing snowballs at each other before the incident occurred.

You and your daughter

by Anne Gilbert

The Director of Education at Johnson & Johnson talks to mothers about MODESS napkins. There are three different shapes: tapered, deep-tapered, and regular. Which is best for your daughter?

Modess napkins are tapered, deep-tapered, and regular. You can choose the one that's right for you and the one that's right for your daughter.

The Modess napkin gives a smooth, neat fit. It's so reliable it's sometimes called the "safety napkin." (Pants by Pantman.)

TODAY she's happy. Tomorrow she'll be miserable. Today she behaves like 20. Tomorrow she'll behave like 10.

From girl to woman. It doesn't happen overnight. It takes a lot of laughter, a lot of tears, and a lot of self-doubt on your part as well as hers.

By the time she gets her first period she's generally accepted the idea of menstruation. In fact, she's proud of herself for having grown up that much. But the day she puts a belt and napkin on for the first time she starts to wonder.

Will it really protect me?

Can it slip?

Does it show?

Will anyone know?

She's shy. And her biggest fear during her period is that someone will find out. It's a fear she doesn't need to live with. These days sanitary napkins come in different shapes and sizes, and you can find the one that fits her best.

Proper fit means real security

A napkin that fits is protection against accidents. It won't curl along the edges so that her lingerie is spotted.

The napkin that fits her may not be the same one that fits you.

It's shape that really counts

Fit is determined by the shape of the napkin. That's why there are three different shaped Modess napkins: two tapered and one regular.

A tapered napkin is shaped: wide in front and narrow in back. It's designed to follow body contours, and fit snugly.

A regular-shaped napkin is rectangular, but slightly moulded at both ends. This is the original napkin, and many women find it provides the best fit.

While the right shape is essential for proper fit, there are other features that make some napkins more protective than others.

Moisture-proof protection

Every Modess napkin has a thin, tough, film of moisture-proof polyethylene extending the full length and width of the napkin.

In the tapered napkins this film, or shield, lies flat between layers of absorbent fluff filling. In the regular-shaped napkin it's actually bonded to the outside.

Modess napkins are wrapped in a unique, absorptive cover filled with tiny perforations. These perforations actually speed up absorbency by drawing the menstrual flow into the centre of the napkin. The centre stays soft, comfortable, and relatively dry.

Modess napkins don't feel ready to change until they are ready to change.

Manufactured by the baby powder people

Modess napkins are made by Johnson & Johnson—the same company you've been buying from for years. Because we specialize in hospital and baby care products, hygienic conditions are the rule throughout our plants. It's nice to know that the same kind of care is taken in the production of something as personal as a sanitary napkin.

Helping her choose the right napkin

How can you be sure she's using the right napkin? How can you tell which of the three Modess napkins will fit her best? Which shield will protect her best? Perhaps these descriptions will help.

MODESS CAREFREE Sanitary Napkins

The Modess Carefree napkin was designed especially for younger women. This doesn't mean she has to wear it just because she's under twenty, but means it's tapered to fit a youthful figure and to absorb a regular flow. The moisture-proof polyethylene shield stretches full-length and full-width through the centre of each Carefree napkin.

MODESS SOFF-FORM Sanitary Napkins

The Soff-Form napkin is deep-tapered. Extra depth makes it super absorbent. If her flow is exceptionally heavy, and this is often the case with teenagers, then this is the napkin for her. The moisture-proof polyethylene shield is built into the centre of this napkin, too.

In each box of Soff-Form napkins there's a free supply of blue, opaque plastic sanitary envelopes. These are ideal for carrying fresh napkins and disposing of used ones.

MODESS Regular Sanitary Napkins

The Regular napkin follows the standard rectangular shape, and is designed for a regular flow. This is the Modess napkin with the unique protective shield called the "boat" shield.

It extends across the bottom of the napkin and part way up the sides (see dark line on cross-section above). If your daughter has ever had a problem with spotting, consider this napkin seriously. It gives the kind of moisture-proof protection that no other napkin can.

There they are: the three worry-free Modess napkins. One of them is right for your daughter. Maybe she's already using it. Maybe she'll have to try all three to find it.

The one she finally chooses will fit. It will protect. It will give her enough confidence to stop wondering if anyone knows. She'll treat those days like any other, and isn't that what you want?

Anne Gilbert is Director of Education at Johnson & Johnson. It's her job to know all about sanitary napkins, and to pass this knowledge on to you. If you ever have questions about Modess products, or feminine hygiene, write to her.

Modess napkins come in three different shapes: Soff-Form (deep-tapered), Regular (regular-shape), and Carefree (tapered). Now you can choose the one that fits your daughter's needs best.

Dad's Error Costs Son's Life

LA PUENTE, Calif. (UPI) — A father, worried about threats to his family, fired a rifle into the dark Sunday night when he heard footsteps running across his front porch. He killed his 21-year-old son.

Edward Lira Sr. stepped outside and saw his son, Edward Jr., slump to the floor dead. "I'm sorry, Eddie," he moaned. "I didn't know it was you."

Sheriff's deputies said the fatal mistake apparently was the tragic outcome of a series of gang fights in the neighborhood since a murder last Aug. 3.

Labor Link Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Even if the New Democratic Party divorced itself from labor the party would still be accused of living common-law with the unions, provincial NDP leader Tom Berger said Sunday.

He told the British Columbia Young New Democrats he encourages the current discussion within the party on its relationship with the labor movement.

"The people applauding this divorce are Premier Bennett and the editors of the Province and Sun newspapers. And even if we got a divorce we would still be accused of living common-law," Mr. Berger said.

He said the party should retain its trade union connection and expand its affiliations with other organizations such as teachers' and tenants' groups as approved at the 1961 national convention of the NDP.

But unions should affiliate with the party only after a vote by union members, with money or dues going to the NDP according to the percentage of unionists supporting affiliation, he said.

Gulf Oil Offers New Pact

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Tuesday offered a new wage increase to the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union that the union said could end the 21-week oilworkers' strike here.

The company offered the OCAWU a wage boost of about 17 per cent on wages that now range between $2.81 an hour for laborers and $4.07 for operators.

ONTARIO PACT

Gulf placed its offer on the bargaining table at a meeting here with the union after reaching a basis for settlement with OCAWU employees at its Clarkson, Ont., refinery near Toronto.

The offer is for an eight-per-cent wage increase in the first year, retroactive to April 15 when the old contract expired. The union would get seven per cent in the second year, plus an extra three cents hourly to cover a three-month extension of the contract to July 15, 1971.

The oilworkers had turned down an eight-and-seven per cent formula proposed by the British Columbia Labor Mediation Commission over a 24-month contract for all 550 workers on strike against Gulf and five other companies.

OTHERS TALKING

The other companies—Imperial, Shell, Standard, Texaco and Home — were reported discussing the Gulf terms. Spokesmen had no immediate comment.

Third Man Happy To Be Out

HONG KONG (AP)—A British journalist who worked for the Chinese Communists crossed the border into Hong Kong Tuesday with his wife and 14-year-old son after 23 months of detention in China.

Eric Gordon, his wife Marie and son Kim brought along several wooden crates which he said contained their personal possessions, some clothing and a few household effects.

"We are very glad to be out of China," Gordon told Hong Kong immigration officials.

"We won't be going back."

Gordon was the third British journalist released by Peking in the last 10 days, since the British government of Hong Kong freed the last of the Communist journalists it had jailed during the Communist campaign of violence here in 1967.

Freelance journalist Norman Barrymaine arrived in Hong Kong Saturday after 19 months of solitary confinement in Shanghai.

Beaten, Humiliated

'They Hanged Cat on Line'

LONDON (Reuters) — Reuters correspondent Anthony Grey said Monday a terrible period during his 26 months' imprisonment by the Chinese was when Red Guards beat him, painted his body and then hanged his pet cat before his eyes.

The 31-year-old correspondent had recovered enough from his journey from China following his release last week to describe the night of Aug. 18, 1967, when at least 200 Red Guards swarmed into his house in Peking. It was about a month after he had been put under house arrest.

"There was a commotion in the street and I knew I was going to be invaded," Grey said. "Then they burst into my office and dragged me downstairs to the courtyard. It was a hot night. I was in shorts and a sweat shirt.

"They painted me with black paint and jet-planed me — forced my arms behind me so that my body was bent forward. Whenever I tried to straighten up one Red Guard at my side punched me in the stomach. They glued a plaster on my back.

"Others went into the house and I could hear the breaking of glass and other sounds of wreckage. The crowds kept screaming that I was an imperialist, reactionary journalist."

Then he added: "Suddenly, there was a silence and a slight round of applause.

"I was told to straighten up — and this was perhaps the worst moment of my two years. A few inches in front of my eyes dangled the body of my cat, Ming Ming, hanged from the roof by a washing line.

★ ★ ★

When Grey was frog-marched into the house again he found posters plastered everywhere and black paint smeared even on his sheets.

The first month of his inprisonment had been fairly easy — he had the freedom of his entire house, was allowed to write and play chess with a friend by telephone.

From the time of the Red Guard invasion, however, he was confined to a small room eight feet by eight feet that had been used by his driver. It contained only a bed with the springs sticking up.

"This was my home for the next three months. I could walk only 8½ paces to a small washroom. They had nailed boards across the window — and even daubed the bristles of my toothbrush with black paint."

His food was skimpy — black coffee and some scrambled egg for breakfast, meat once a day in the evening. There was no butter or any fruit. After a month his guards allowed the window to be open for one hour a day.

Later in the year he developed stomach trouble.

His diet suddenly improved after a Chinese doctor examined him. There was butter at last, and fruit, and he was moved into a bigger room, 12 feet by 12 feet. The floor was bare and a blackboard was propped up at eye level filled with the quotations of Mao Tse-tung.

How did he pass his time?

"I thought of my past life, of course," Grey said.

Grey Given OBE

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen Tuesday named Reuters correspondent Anthony Grey, who was detained in Peking for 26 months, an officer of the Order of the British Empire. No date for formal investiture has been set.

Created in 1917, the OBE is awarded for meritorious service. It is one of the lesser orders of chivalry.

Stanfield Claims Mandate, But Some Disagree

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Monday a policy conference here has given his approach to welfare a mandate.

"All is not sweetness and light," a spokesman for the large Ontario delegation said after the wrapup Stanfield speech.

It appeared to several delegates that the federal leader planned to go ahead with the minimum income approach they thought had been rejected.

NOT REJECTED

Stanfield said the party had not rejected his proposals for a minimum annual income but had simply put emphasis on incentives.

"The consensus you expressed gives me a mandate to proceed, along with caucus, in developing the kind of program I have been discussing for 18 months," Stanfield said in his speech.

He described the five-day affair here as a "delegates conference" in which "40 major questions were faced squarely."

"We have set the basis of a strong, progressive policy."

Broken into eight discussion groups, the conference endorsed the idea of a limited capital gains tax, almost espoused legal marijuana, and made recommendations for policy on external affairs, civil rights, political institutions and agriculture.

PLAN DEFEATED

Old party hands firmly rejected a proposal by Flora MacDonald, former national party secretary, that names of donors to political parties be published. However, it was agreed that the parties themselves should publish incomes and spending figures.

A workshop on resources said national oil policy should include extending the western oil pipeline to Montreal.

INCREASE PRICE

The workshop had been told that while this would drive up the price of oil in Quebec, it would decrease the chance of a shortage if there were another Middle East war.

The conference also recommended that Stanfield reiterate the 1958 Conservative government policy proclaiming Canadian ownership of Arctic waters.

Delegates said the first step in a national policy on regional disparity should be a federal declaration of firm intention to bring each region up to par.

The recommendations are not binding on the party but it has been seeking a policy position in many areas and the ideas expressed at the conference undoubtedly will find their way to the top. Gordon Fairweather, MP for Fundy-Royal and the party's external affairs critic in the Commons, said he will use the 15-point external affairs report as "a blueprint."

Reforms On Tax Up in Air

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Two broad fields of tax reform—the treatment of foreign investment, and whether or not man and wife should be taxed separately as individuals or together as a family unit—were left unresolved at the Progressive Conservative party's policy conference here.

The conference ended Monday with agreement that capital gains should be taxed, gift and estate taxes need to be reduced, corporation taxes should remain unchanged, and personal income taxes should be cut for the higher brackets.

The economics and taxation section of the conference also agreed present incentives for resource exploration and development should be retained, and other incentives for investment in Canadian industry increased.

It also called for federal-provincial collaboration in determining the country's long-range priorities, and for five-year budget planning by Ottawa to attain the country's objectives on a program-by-program basis.

A report prepared by E. A. Goodman, Toronto lawyer and long-time party organizer, on restricting foreign investment was simply tabled. He said later he did not regard the report as having been rejected, but simply that no conclusion was reached.

Sewers Win

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Ratepayers here and in neighboring Matsqui and Sumas approved a $120,000 referendum put forward by their joint sewer board for improvement of existing sewage treatment lagoons. The vote indicated support for an eventual $1,000,000 expenditure on treatment facilities in the area.

No 'Strain' on Courtesy

Policy Unchanged—Envoy

QUEBEC (CP) — France's junior foreign secretary maintained Tuesday night that his Quebec-only visit to Canada is proof there has been no "sudden change" in Gaullist policy toward Quebec province.

During a news conference, Jean de Lipkowski, French secretary of state for foreign affairs, was asked if his refusal to visit Ottawa signified "a lack of courtesy" toward Canadians.

He replied:

"It is not our intention to strain courtesy. But if only a problem of courtesy was involved, there would not have been so much debate."

He said another question arose because his visit followed the election in France of a new president, Georges Pompidou, as successor to Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

He said one could ask the question of whether a trip to Ottawa is not a way of getting France to give the impression "that there was a sudden change in French policy. . . ."

And whether this would not have been a way of making people believe "that henceforth we agree that French-Quebec relations . . . come under the exclusive jurisdiction of Ottawa and that Ottawa has a monopoly over relations in France-Quebec co-operation."

Mr. de Lipkowski said the decision not to accept the federal government's invitation to visit Ottawa was taken by the government of President Pompidou.

He said:

" . . . We wanted it to be clear and plain that there has been no sudden change on our behalf."

Mr. de Lipkowski, who arrived for an eight-day visit Oct. 9, will return Thursday after a series of meetings with Quebec cabinet ministers, including Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Another French minister, Joseph Comiti, is to arrive today for a two-day meeting of the French-Quebec youth office, which supervises a youth exchange program. He will not visit Ottawa.

Loading, Talks Go On

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations among striking longshoremen and maritime employers resumed Tuesday along with loading of grain aboard four Orient-bound freighters.

Three of the grain ships were docked at elevators owned by the three major Prairie-owned grain elevators—United Grain Growers, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and Alberta Wheat Pool.

The fourth vessel was taking on wheat at the Lapointe Pier in Vancouver harbor. Loading resumed Friday after federal government intervention here and at northern coastal Prince Rupert.

In the contract talks, federal mediator William Kelly of Ottawa said several contentious items between the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the British Columbia Maritime Employers' Association have been settled.

He said Tuesday's talks would be a final drive on a few critical items. Neither side has released details on points of agreement.

With grain ships en route to pick up grain from Canada's 186,000,000 - bushel, $350,000,000 sale to China, Ottawa ordered the National Harbors Board to step in and direct loading.

The longshoremen went on strike Sept. 25, seeking an hourly pay increase of 93½ cents over two years on a base rate of $3.88 an hour.

The association offered 75 cents over three years.

Rose-Blanshard Project

Jurisdictional Row Delays New Housing

Carpentry work at the Rose-Blanshard low-rental housing project was held up about two hours Tuesday morning when carpenters' union members objected to the employment of two lathers to install drywall plaster board.

The work stoppage came when a sub-contractor refused to dismiss the two lathers, members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union.

It was the result of a jurisdictional dispute between the lathers and the Carpenters and Joiners Union, Local 1598.

The dispute started earlier this year when Local 1598 asked the plastering sub-contractor to name the union he intended to employ.

The matter was later referred to the International Joint Committee on jurisdictional disputes in Washington, D.C., for a ruling, and it was decided that drywall work should be done by the Carpenters and Joiners Union.

A management spokesman said Tuesday that the lathers were on the job because up until last week the carpenters' union was unable to supply the necessary men.

John Schibli, business manager of the Carpenters and Joiners Union, said Tuesday that members of Local 1598 had been sent to the job three times to do drywall work, and had been sent away.

"We had an agreement with the contractor, but the sub-contractor was not a signatory," said Mr. Schibli.

"In spite of that, we not only supplied the men but gave the project top priority.

"They said we wouldn't be able to supply the men, but we did and they were sent home."

The dispute was settled before noon when the sub-contractor agreed to withdraw the lather employees and use Local 1598 members, provided they were available, according to a management spokesman.

Island's log book started with logs

That was more than forty years ago. Billions of board feet of timber have moved to the sawmill and the pulp plant behind Island's tugs since then.

But the story in the log books has changed considerably; industrial salt hauled from Mexico, aircraft carrier tows to Japan, mountains of limestone down the Oregon coast, rail cars by the thousands barged south and north to the end of steel, ships in distress towed to safety.

Little tows and tremendous tows that have made Island's log book something of an adventure story.

It could be to your advantage to have your company's name entered in Island's log book. Hundreds of others are there already.

Operation Intercept Aftermath

Tijuana Red Lights Turned Off

Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

TIJUANA, Mex. — Civic authorities Monday closed down all this border city's bordellos, which have flourished virtually unmolested for decades.

A police spokesman said the shutdown was called "because of superior orders." No further explanation was given, although the move was made coincidental with a Mexican government promise to destroy narcotics sources in exchange for a U.S.-ordered easing up of border dope searches.

Encouraged by the end of long Tijuana traffic snarls, tourists crossed into Mexico over the weekend in the largest numbers since Sept. 21 when the U.S. drive began. Tourist businesses reported an upsurge in customers.

But liquor stores reported business still down to about half its pre-Sept. 21 level.

California residents are not allowed to bring liquor across the border. But before U.S. customs began careful surveillance of cars and pedestrians crossing border checkpoints, many Americans bought liquor at cheap south-of-the-border prices and smuggled it across.

Under Operation Co-Operation not every car is searched but many more are inspected than under the old spotcheck system. Liquor smuggling has apparently come to a halt.

Under agreements worked out in Washington by U.S. and Mexican deputies attorney general, Mexico will join the United States in fighting the narcotics trade. This is to be implemented by destroying sources of marijuana and opium poppies in Mexico, source of most of the United States' illicit marijuana and much of its heroin.

Judge Drops Curfew Count

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Municipal Judge Robert Mullen dismissed curfew violation charges against 130 persons in a "concession" to try to bring quiet to the gambling city after three nights of racial disturbances that left two dead.

Mullen, a Negro who was himself struck in the head by a bottle in the west side riot, also ruled that six persons previously sentenced to 30 days in jail for curfew violations would be freed.

Long-Hairs In Protest

QUEBEC (CP)—Some 400 high school students staged an hour-long protest demonstration when the school administration ordered a few students with long hair and beards to get haircuts and shaves.

Police were called to Albert Ouellet high school in the district of Charlesbourg, but the students dispersed without incident.

OF WHAT'S HAPPENING

THE WAY IT WAS—1869

Years ago, people read the way you are reading right now. Word by word. About 250-350 words per minute. 100 years ago, that kind of reading was okay. You could keep up with what was happening fairly well.

THE WAY IT IS—1969

Today, it doesn't work. There's simply too much to read. Too much correspondence. Too many journals. Too much homework. Things are happening so fast, changing so fast, that even the people who try to keep up are falling behind.

WHAT'S THE SOLUTION?

Learn to read fast and better.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

Over 500,000 people have graduated so far. People with different jobs, different IQ's, different educations and backgrounds. Business people, professional people, students and housewives.

SO?

So think for a moment what that means. All of them — even the slowest — now read newspaper pages in under 2 minutes. An average novel in less than 2 hours. Time Magazine in 25 minutes. College texts 50-75 pages an hour. No skipping. No skimming. They read every single word. And they use no machines. The material they're reading determines their speed.

WELL, HOW ABOUT . . .

Comprehension? They actually understand more, remember more and enjoy more than when they read the way you do. That's right. They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more.

BUT . . .

No buts. In fact, we guaranteed to refund the entire tuition fee to any students who fails to at least triple his reading efficiency.

COULD THIS BE . . .

Yes. The same one. The late President Kennedy invited Evelyn Wood to the White House to teach Dynamic Reading to his Joint Chiefs of Staff.

It's the same course Congressmen and Canadian MP's have taken.

NOW.

Crash Fines Heavy On Long Weekend

The list of cases to be dealt with in Victoria Provincial Court was about twice as long as usual Tuesday.

Numerous charges involving impaired driving reflected the long weekend, and Judge William Ostler handed down stiff fines in an effort to "deter the practice of drinking and driving."

Daniel W. Kallstrom was driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway near Colwood Saturday night when he collided with a southbound car, court was told.

"The accused left the scene of the accident, but 10 minutes later, the investigating RCMP officers saw a car travelling slowly south past the scene, stopping about 100 yards away," prosecutor Cory Stolte said.

An officer confronted the driver who admitted that he was the person involved in the accident, court was told.

RCMP said there were no injuries, but both cars suffered extensive damage.

□

A $400 fine, a smashed car and a hangover were the results of a weekend party for an 18-year-old Victoria youth.

Wilfred C. Schultz of 829 Leslie Drive appeared in Provincial Court and pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Court was told that Schultz was driving home from a party Saturday night when he smashed his car into a utility pole on Catherine Street.

When police arrested him, he became belligerent and shouted obscenities at the officers, court was told.

Joseph S. McLeod, 21, of CFB Esquimalt, was fined $400 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Court was told that McLeod was driving along Esquimalt Road Saturday night with two wheels on the sidewalk. When he was arrested, he could hardly stand on his feet and had to use his car for support.

Brian A. Hanna, 56, of Denman Island, was told he would have to take the ferry if he wanted to go home.

"Your licence will be suspended, so you can't drive your car," Judge Ostler told Hanna, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving and was fined $400.

Court was told that Hanna was driving on Sooke Road Saturday night, crossing the white centre line 14 times in five minutes before he was arrested by RCMP.

A 21-year-old man whose car went out of control Saturday night and skidded for about 40 feet before turning over and landing on the roof was fined $400 after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Brian R. Young of 407 Churchill Hotel was driving on Esquimalt Road when the accident occurred.

Court was told that Young "displayed the usual symptoms of impairment, such as bloodshot eyes, slurred speech and a strong smell of liquor on his breath."

George H. Tracy, 51, of no fixed address, was fined $25 after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance.

Court was told that Tracy fell into a doorway on Yates Saturday night.

Schultz Is Missing

Schultz has disappeared, and anyone who has seen him is asked to contact the Saanich police department.

He was last seen at Rudy's Zoo on Durrance Road — in a cage.

Schultz is a black-and-brown, long-haired miniature dachshund, about six inches high, and his owners believe that he was stolen. Saanich police said the dog couldn't have run away.

It's the second incident of dog theft at the zoo. Last spring, another dog of the same breed disappeared and was never found.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BARRETT—In loving memory of our beloved daughter, Bonnie Louise, who passed away on Oct. 15, 1960.
"To hear her voice, to see her smile,
To sit with her and talk awhile.
To be together in the same old way,
Would be our dearest wish today.
Only a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears,
Wishing God had spared you
Just a few more years.
—Remembered always and never forgotten, by Mom, Dad and sister Sharon.

BARRETT—In loving memory of our beloved granddaughter, Bonnie Louise, who passed away on Oct. 15, 1960.
"Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you."
—Always remembered by Granny and Grandpa Heaslip.

COONEY—In loving memory of Mrs. Gloria Cooney, who passed away October 15, 1968.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

Would you love to live on the waterfront if only it was close to town? Would you like your boat at your "doorstep," sheltered and secure from storms, a spot among trees, birds and bees? Then, this is for you, and it's beautifully new. Quality workmanship and materials accent this 3 bedrm. home. A dining room in cherry panelling leads to a lovely deck, there's an air of elegance to the compact kitchen; the bedrooms are spacious and bright. A full high basement with rough-on for 2nd bathroom could give you more accommodation. The garden has fruit trees, shrubs, gorgeous lawns, delightful secluded nooks, and leads to your boat dock.

Nanaimo Region Will Oppose Offshore Drilling

Qualicum Mayor C. M. Darkis seconded motion by Mayor E. C. Irving of Parksville, during a meeting Tuesday night, to petition Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Bennett and to request other Island regional districts and municipalities to oppose drilling.

Mayor Irving said there was quite a lot of room in the rest of the world. "They don't need to come around our doorstep to do their drilling," he said. "One accident could ruin the whole area."

Board Moves To Spike Air Pollution

By PAT MURPHY

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board has not been dragging its feet in the matter of air pollution, according to Sanitary Inspector Elwood Gropp, and he produced a report Tuesday to support his statement.

It pointed out that all four beehive burners which used to pollute the air in the city had been eliminated, and action had been taken to stop pollution from the burning of garbage.

The management of B.C. Hydro and Vancouver Island Coach Lines had been consulted and action taken to improve mechanical condition of buses and so cut down on exhaust fumes.

AUTOMOBILE PROBLEM

Automobile exhausts were still a problem.

The Canadian Pacific Railway had been advised of smoke nuisance from its boats, and there had been an improvement.

A major source of pollution in the area was B.C. Forest Products, he said, but the firm was working on the problem and the installation of a mechanical debarker to replace the existing wet debarker would reduce the moisture content of the fuel.

Installation of three cyclone precipitators in 1968 cut down fallout to less than eight tons per square mile per month — far below the Pollution Control Board recommended standards, which allowed 30 tons, he said.

MORE PROBLEMS

Complaints were still being received regarding the operation of Victoria Plywood Ltd. on Hallowell Road, and further investigation would be made to improve the operation of that plant, he said. The emission of smoke and resin fumes would have to be stopped.

Fallout from smoke from the same plant was well below the standard acceptable for urban areas, he said.

The report said the public could help solve the problem by keeping cars in good running condition, by ensuring that furnaces were working properly, and by eliminating backyard burning.

The board of health said in an announcement Tuesday that the B.C. department of agriculture had recently taken steps to decrease the household use of the pesticides DDT, aldrin, dieldrin, endrin and heptachlor and, from Oct. 1, purchasers must sign for them.

Control Issue Debated

Members of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board indicated Tuesday that they want some sort of definite answer about control of the board by the regional district.

Senior Medical Health Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said it had been definitely stated by the provincial deputy minister of health that the health board would not be taken over.

On the other hand, letters from Health Minister Ralph Loffmark to inquiries from both the health board and the City of Victoria, said that the matter was "under study."

Oak Bay representative Dr. Scott Wallace said he thought this was not good enough.

"Just where do we stand?" he asked.

NO ANSWER

"I tried to get an answer before this meeting, but was unable to do so, and I think we are entitled to know our status," the doctor added.

A letter to the minister will ask for clarification.

The health service is short two doctors, and one reason given at Tuesday's meeting is that British Columbia does not pay enough.

Dr. Whitbread pointed out that public health doctors were paid about $5,000 less than in other provinces.

Saanich school district representative Mrs. Rubymay Parrott thought, "This is the sort of thing which should be made public—should have been made public, in fact, during the election campaign."

PART-TIME HELP

Two services of part-time local physicians will be used until the gaps are filled.

Two members of the board, along with officials, will visit Saturna Island Free School, which came under criticism from Dr. Whitbread following a visit some week ago.

A conciliatory letter from the owner and operator of the school, Thomas Durrie, said that improvements recommended by the health board staff were being made.

Officer Cadet Richard Marsden, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsden, 3450 Rolston Crescent, received Governor-General's bronze medal for highest academic standing in 1968-69 at College Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean, P.Q., here presented by Major-Gen. J. A. Dextraze, deputy chief of personnel.

Rotary Choir Hunts For More Voices

The Rotary Boys' Choir is looking for recruits. Boys aged from 10 to 21 who are interested in singing have been invited to meet choir representatives at 6:45 p.m. Saturday at the YMCA.

"Experience is not necessary," said choir chairman Lloyd Johnston.

"We have a number of boys in the choir who sing in their church choirs as well, and it seems to work out very well.

"The boys sing at various churches and for various organizations throughout the city, with all proceeds going to charity.

"We are planning a 20th anniversary program this year which will include travelling to out-of-town concerts as well as local concerts."

Catch Cougar'70 now. Competition hasn't.

351 V8 engine. Floor-mounted shift. Hideaway headlights. Sequential turn signals. Cougar packs it all as standard equipment.

Make this your year to catch a Cougar. Because Cougar is the sports compact that builds excitement into the car, not the list of options.

Take the floor-mounted shift that unleashes the husky 351 cubic inch V8 behind Cougar's bold new grille. Or the sporty dash that gives you cockpit command over Cougar with its dual hideaway headlights up front, and sequential turn signals out back. This is all standard equipment for Cougar '70. So is Cougar's sleek new all-vinyl interior. With its hi-back bucket seats, rosewood vinyl appliques, and colour-keyed carpeting wall to wall. Cougar's got it all. And it's all standard equipment.

Cougar has a new playmate this year too: Cougar Eliminator. Here's a mean looking cat with hardware to match. It's got spoilers front and rear. A competition cockpit with 4-speed Hurst shifter, tachometer and rally clock. A black hood stripe, scoop and a ram air inducted 4-barrel V8 that lets nothing hold it back.

Cougar Eliminator

In addition to the Eliminator hardtop, you can choose a sunroof coupe, convertible, or hardtop in Cougar or the Cougar XR7.

Bath Unauthorized

Police Also in Dark

What started out as a routine day for Victoria city police was briefly interrupted Saturday by a man who decided to take a bath in someone else's apartment.

Police received a complaint at about 9 p.m. that a man was sitting in the bathtub in an empty suite at 1160 Richardson. The stranger had been in the tub since 6:30, the complainant said.

★ ★ ★

When police arrived, they found the door locked. They managed to get it open, but found the bathroom in complete darkness.

"What are you doing here?" a policeman asked the shadow in the tub.

"I'm taking a bath" was the answer.

Asked why it was dark, the man replied he had disconnected the bulb because he liked taking a bath in the dark.

Tuesday, Rodney G. Marson of no fixed address, appeared in Victoria Provincial Court on a charge of vagrancy by trespassing.

He said he had been released from Oakalla Prison Farm Oct. 7 and didn't know where to go.

When Judge Ostler asked him if he had ever been seen by a doctor, Marson replied there were approximately 10,000 hours in a year.

"When did you last see a doctor?" the judge repeated his question.

"We peeled about 35,000 pounds of potatoes during the month of September," Marson said.

He was remanded until this afternoon.

Hydro Faces Alberta Suit

PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP) —The British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority will be sued by this northwestern Alberta town for damage attributed to the W. A. C. Bennet Dam in northeastern B.C.

T. A. Collister, the town's executive-secretary, said in a telephone interview Tuesday night the reduced water levels in the Peace River were forcing unplanned expenditures.

The town says the dam, on the Peace River 10 miles upstream from Hudson's Hope, B.C., has lowered water levels on the Peace, affecting the Heart River that joins the larger river in the town's central district.

Officials said $35,000 damage has been done already to water intakes and to water and sewer lines because four feet of the Heart's banks were eroded.

Water from central and northern British Columbia is carried by the Peace into Alberta where it flows into the Slave River that drains Lake Athabasca into Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories. Great Slave is drained into the Beaufort Sea by the Mackenzie River.

The town of Peace River has instructed its solicitor to prepare a statement of claim against B.C. Hydro for the damages and the town administrator has been told to approach the Alberta government to do something about the situation.

Hearing Continues

Crux Refused Further Delay

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — Lawyer-financier A. G. Duncan Crux told a Nassau court Tuesday that he was still without vital documents he needs for his defence against a Canadian federal government bid to extradite him on 21 fraud and theft charges.

Despite a plea from Crux for a further adjournment, Magistrate John Baily ordered the hearing to continue. Crux had been given a one-week adjournment last Tuesday to get the documents, described as company papers, from Vancouver.

Crux told the court today that he had sent a request to Vancouver by express mail for the documents but because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday in Canada Monday had had no reply.

"I cannot do anything, your worship; it is a physical impossibility to present my evidence," Crux told the court.

10 CHARGES

Crux also appealed to be allowed to give evidence in his own behalf without having to undergo cross-examination by Bahamas Senator Kendal Isaacs of Nassau, who is representing Canada. This request also was refused.

The documents which Crux says he needs from Canada are in connection with evidence presented by the prosecution on a bulky set of depositions concerning 10 charges of publishing false prospectuses of Diversified Income Securities Ltd., a mutual fund management firm of which Crux was president and director.

From UPI, AP

WASHINGTON — The U.S. braced Tuesday for today's Vietnam Moratorium Day after the Nixon administration urged its leaders to repudiate Hanoi's support for their demonstration against the war, but got a curt refusal.

•

Vice-President Spiro Agnew, speaking with President Nixon's blessing, described as "incredible" an open letter to the American people by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong. Argew said demonstration leaders should repudiate the letter, which expressed hope that the protest would force Nixon to withdraw from the war.

But the moratorium leaders quickly issued this statement: "Oct. 15 is an appeal to the conscience of the American people. It is regrettable that the administration would seize this straw in an attempt to discredit the patriotism of those millions of Americans who sincerely desire peace."

Agnew called the Dong letter "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy power." He said Dong tried to make it appear the American people would demonstrate in support of Hanoi, and Dong showed "a gross lack of understanding" of the meaning of free expression and open dissent in a free country.

The organizers predicted Nixon would respond to the protest by stepping up U.S. withdrawals from the war zone.

'Can't Ignore People'

They said the people "will be saying we want out and we don't think it's possible for the president to ignore the voice of the people."

Nixon, who said Monday he would not allow the moratorium to influence his policy, made a brief statement that he was trying to end the war as soon as possible.

"The debate is about how we achieved peace," he said. "Honest men can disagree about the means but let the world understand the American people want peace."

Nixon also said Monday he will go on nationwide TV Nov. 3 to speak on the course of the war.

Mass rallies, parades and similar events are planned across the U.S. in streets and churches, on campuses and at state and federal buildings.

Other Americans are expected to fly flags in support of the U.S. Vietnam policy and may parade as well.

The organizers have urged a "moratorium on business as usual," but insist it must be non-violent. Police in Washington and other large U.S. cities expressed no great outward concern about the chance of riots.

In Congress, members of the House supporting the protest led a lively debate on Vietnam most of Tuesday but were blocked in their efforts to keep the session going all night.

After several hours of sometimes heated but never bitter discussion, the debate ended abruptly at 7:05 p.m. PDT when Rep. G. V. Montgomery (D-Miss.) noted the absence of a quorum. A roll call vote of 112 to 110 then approved adjournament.

Power Under Attack

In the Senate, two members of the foreign relations committee introduced a resolution proposing repeal of the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave the president authority to take whatever steps he deemed necessary to resist aggression in Vietnam.

New York Republican Jacob Javits and Rhode Island Democrat Claiborne Pell included in the resolution a call for withdrawal of all U.S. combat troops by the end of 1970.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Thieu attacked the idea behind the protest, saying he would like to have about 100 demonstrators in Vietnam to see the situation for themselves.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, a U.S.-wide organization, urged flag-flying as a "silent counteraction" to the protest. The Jewish War Veterans and the rightwing John Birch Society said in separate statements they will not take part in any observances.

Officials in Pittsburgh said any students demonstrating in public school buildings there will face suspension for up to three days, as will students attempting to organize on behalf of the moratorium.

Russian Blast Biggest?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union Tuesday may have set off the most powerful underground nuclear test in history.

The Stockholm Technical Institute said the explosion, in the Novaya Zemlya test area, registered 7.2 on the open Richter scale, indicating a record yield of five megatons.

But Sweden's Uppsala Seismological Institute called the five-megaton estimate "rather exaggerated" and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission here said its monitors showed a test of about one megaton.

But Nothing Illegal

Provinces Late In Welfare Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario and Quebec, and probably several other provinces, have failed to keep their agreement with the federal government under which more than $700,000,000 has been paid for welfare programs, informants said Tuesday.

While the provincial defaults do not appear to be illegal, the auditor-general's office has instructed field representatives in the provinces to report on how widespread they may be.

VICTORIA TOPIC

Informants said the situation was discussed at a recent meeting of federal and provincial welfare ministers, held behind closed doors in Victoria.

Several provinces were criticized in a report to the conference for dragging their feet on written undertakings given to Ottawa when they joined the Canada Assistance Plan.

They also were reported to have been attacked for enacting legislation making provincial welfare departments the judge and jury on complaints by welfare recipients about their treatment by provincial agencies.

When they signed agreements with Ottawa at various times in 1967, all provinces agreed in writing that within one year they would enact laws providing for appeals by welfare recipients and would let welfare recipients or applicants know about the step.

Quebec, which should have complied by Aug. 21, 1968, still has the necessary appeals legislation before its National Assembly. Ontario, which should have complied by March 28, 1968, did not comply until last January.

Nevertheless, Quebec collected a total of $222,156,733

Canada's Colombo Plan Idea

Streamlining Wins Favor

By IAN STREET

The 20th meeting of the Colombo Plan consultative committee began here Tuesday with technical experts from 24 countries considering a Canadian proposal to streamline proceedings in future conferences.

The Canadian secretary-general of the conference, J. G. Hadwen, said following the opening working session that the streamlining proposals were generally well received by the 70 delegates participating in the first week.

The conference proper doesn't open until next Monday, when Premier Bennett will give the opening address. Then, after another week of meetings by senior civil servants, the ministerial section of the consultative committee will put the final stamp upon the conference decisions.

It won't be until about Oct. 31, therefore, that the decisions will be made on the changes suggested by Canada, which include cutting the length of the conference from its present three weeks to two weeks.

Meanwhile, the new look is already apparent. The formal opening statements, which are normally presented by representatives of all 24 member countries, were reduced to two, with Mr. Hadwen welcoming delegates and one response on behalf of the other member countries.

Mr. Hadwen warned that this meeting would determine whether the Colombo Plan could and would remain a relevant institution.

The Colombo Plan is a self-help organization involving 24 countries ranging from Afghanistan, Bhutan and the Maldives to Korea, Pakistan, India and Thailand. The membership includes six donor nations — Canada, Britain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the United States—which have provided a total of $22,600,000 in aid.

The secretary-general told delegates Tuesday that all Colombo Plan members shared the pride of the countries of South and Southeast Asia in their achievements since 1950, and "we all share their determination to make still further efforts to improve the lot of their people."

While much remains to be done within the broad framework of economic development, Mr. Hadwen reminded delegates that "we must use our imaginations and all our

Laughing Youngsters End Veterans' Day

CIRENCESTER, England (Reuters) — Youngsters who laugh at elderly war veterans on the march have caused the cancellation of a Remembrance Day parade.

This town's British Legion has called off the traditional parade, due to take place Nov. 9, because the inability of some of the older members to keep in step has brought laughter from the spectators.

Capt. A. V. May, British Legion country secretary, said: "It is a very great shame that younger people laugh when the old soldiers get out of step, but it happens."

Hippies Bite Hand That Helps Them

LONDON (Reuters) — Squatters Tuesday occupied the offices of Britain's main underground newspaper, ironically the only paper that has consistenly supported their takeover of unused buildings.

The occupation came after hippies ransacked the offices of The International Times so they could start their own anti-establishment newspaper.

Pope Listens

Liberals Attack Primacy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul listened silently Tuesday as one leading liberal cardinal described the papacy as an "absolute monarchy" and another called for the pontiff to consult more with his bishops.

BISHOPS' 'COURTIERS'

Joseph Leo Cardinal Suenens of Belgium, one of the church's leading liberal spokesmen, said the synod agenda, prepared under the Pope's direction, "extols the primacy of the Roman pontiff in such a way as to make bishops look like courtiers."

"Some insist so much on the aspect of primacy," the cardinal said, "that they end up by describing the church as absolute monarchy of the kind which

Latest Russian Unmanned

Four Ships Orbit

MOSCOW (CP) — An unmanned earth satellite was put into space by the Soviet Union Tuesday while two of three manned spaceships already in orbit manoeuvred toward a rendezvous.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the unmanned satellite, named Intercosmos I, was functioning as expected. It did not say whether Intercosmos I was directly connected with the mission of the three Soyuz spaceships in which a total of seven Soviet cosmonauts were riding.

★ ★ ★

There had been speculation that the Russians would launch an unmanned satellite to serve as the basis of an orbiting space station to be put together by cosmonauts from the three Soyuz spacecraft.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the unmanned satellite contained scientific instruments from East Germany, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union—the first such internationally-equipped Soviet Sputnik.

Reuter news agency said the unmanned craft appeared to have nothing to do with the manned Soyuz craft.

It was officially reported that the instruments aboard Intercosmos I are for measuring the sun's effect on the earth's atmosphere.

Representatives from all seven Warsaw pact countries attended the launching, exact site of which was not disclosed.

The four members not represented by instruments aboard the ship are participating in the experiment by making radio-astronomic, ionospheric and optical observations from observatories on their own territories.

Tass said Intercosmos I was launched "under a co-operation program of socialist (Communist) countries."

The news agency said the craft was circling the earth once every 93.3 minutes at a maximum distance of 400 miles and a minimum of 162 miles. Its orbit angle is 48.4 degrees.

The Soyuz craft are orbiting considerably nearer the earth, all at an angle of 51.7 degrees.

Tass announced the unmanned launching shortly after reporting that the

Alert Does Not Mean Alarm

AT FEW TIMES IN THE WORLD'S history have civil disorders, racial hatreds and international distrust created greater or more widespread tensions than exist in our enlightened period. There is a contagion abroad, and few parts of the world can feel themselves immune from it. Contempt of the law and defiance of authority are symptoms of an affliction which, thus far, has defied diagnosis.

Governments and international agencies strive to cope with the effects, it seems, without satisfactorily analyzing the causes. Or, if they have a credible analysis, they too frequently fail to explain it. The impression is created that they, like so many in their private thoughts, are only groping for solutions and understanding.

What were the causes of the Montreal riots of a week ago? It is too easy to blame them on the striking policemen and firemen. That was only an excuse for the exhibition. The strike, in fact, allowed the opening of a gate to disclose the unrest and impatience normally hidden. But the closing of the gate and the departure of the troops do not mean an end of the ferment.

The fratricidal hatred in Northern Ireland can only be restrained by intervention of troops, and Britain's Defence Minister Denis Healey has warned that, with 8,500 men already on duty in the Ulster counties, it may be necessary to withdraw troops from the North Atlantic Treaty forces on the Rhine to control the situation. People are prone to jump to the conclusion that religious differences are to blame for the whole sad spectacle. No doubt they play a part, and possibly the major part; but there are other factors, and some speculation that other agencies than those representing partitionists and unionists are involved.

The speculation does not go so far as to suggest that subversion in Ulster is directed or even encouraged by Moscow, but it is not considered illogical that convinced Communists would do everything possible under cover to encourage antagonisms and the disorders which grow from them. It has been the pattern elsewhere, so why not in Northern Ireland? Or for that matter here?

It is interesting to conjecture whether Prime Minister Trudeau may have had such thoughts in mind when he decided to slash the Canadian contribution to NATO and concentrate on the defence of Canada.

When his decision was announced it was widely derided as being no more than a penny-pinching means of escape from responsibility in Europe. Deployment of these few thousands of men for the defence of the vast North was obviously no answer to any serious threat from that direction. In the same way it was unthinkable that they should be required on the southern border.

But in the light of events in Montreal and the crisis which necessitated the calling of military relief to that city a week ago, perhaps Mr. Trudeau has more reason than economy for bringing Canadians back from abroad.

In our time it is wise to be alert without being alarmist.

Too Soon to Claim Credit

THE MINUSCULE reduction in the consumer price index in September—two tenths of 1 per cent—is hardly what Consumers Affairs Minister Ron Basford asserts it to be. Mr. Basford would have us believe that it proves the federal government's anti-inflation efforts are beginning to have the desired effect. Examination of the factors involved, however, yields no such indication.

According to the news reports, the slight decline resulted entirely from a reduction in food prices, mainly on fresh fruit and vegetables — several vegetables dropping 20 per cent or more from the August levels. All the other major components of the index continued to advance "as much or more than they did in the summer."

If the consumers affairs minister can point to any government action that brought down the prices of fruit and vegetables, therefore, he is welcome to credit. But he himself admits that the food index dropped by 1.6 points partly because of seasonal supply conditions—"and there are still very intense cost and price pressures in the economy."

When the other major components of the index—such as housing—begin to exhibit a significant slackening in their climb, only then will it be time to claim that the battle is beginning to be won.

The Tax Merry-Go-Round

IN THE NEVER-ENDING debate about sharing tax resources and responsibility for government services, a point often lost sight of is that what is lost on the merry-go-round has to be made up on the swings.

This point is well illustrated in an article on U.S. revenue-sharing in The New Republic, which says that when congressmen ask constituents if they think the federal government should return a portion of its revenue to the states, 70 to 80 per cent say yes. But, it continues, when one congressman asked if federal income taxes should be increased over federeral needs to provide for tax sharing with the states, 93 per cent answered no.

One doubts that the replies would be very much different in Canada.

"Let me put it this way, if you moved to the States you'd have no concern about him escalating the brain drain . . ."

The Senators' Waiting Alcove

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

ONE of the saddest and strangest sights on Parliament Hill—where almost everything is twinned, one for the Senate, another for the Commons—is an empty and lonely alcove in the senatorial reading room.

And around the walls, newspapers and magazines.

Its walls, too, once were draped in magazines and newspapers.

But no longer.

Months ago, everything was moved out, and (whisper it softly) a bar was to go in.

But word leaked out—and since nothing so completely petrifies a politician as the fear of standing in the shadow of a bottle of booze—there was instant panic.

And the alcove remained rattlingly empty save for four or five forlorn magazines which found their way back on its walls.

There have been suspicions that the honorable senators let their cosy corner gather cobwebs and dust because they were hoping memories were short, and that when the panic passed they might be able to sneak in the bar after all.

But around these corridors of federal power where political sensibilities are so agonizingly acute, if it isn't one thing spoiling the fun, it's another.

It could have been that they were ready, courage up, to call in the carpenters and pull in the plumbers to get on with the bar, when cruel fate—or clumsy committee work—struck again.

★ ★ ★

The honorable senators, fortunate enough to latch onto the science committee, were about to take off for a three-week European gad-about—this time with their wives—when a memorable memorandum betrayed them.

The memorandum contrived to portray them not only as partial to the cup that cheers, but in such unquenchable thirst as to be scrounging it at cost-rate tax-free prices.

"We are told that embassies on our tours have been embarrassed by requests from large numbers of fellow-travellers for tax-clear liquor. The committee therefore asks that any such requests be channelled through its secretary."

Now how about that!

The embassies, enjoying tax-free booze, among other diplomatic privileges, were being "embarrassed" to be asked to share with their friends and patrons—the politicians whose votes in Senate and Commons can give or take away even to and from such exalted VIPs as "ministers plenipotentiary and ambassadors extraordinary" as the striped pants set calls its nabobs.

And the senators!

Too prideful to importune for favors personally, but not so proud as not to be willing to have an agent—a civil servant—do it for them.

For their jaunt—in addition to any tax-free liquor the committee secretary might scrounge for them—the honorable senators drew $40-a-day expense money.

Paid in advance, conveniently in a lump sum.

They travelled free, of course, at government expense—courtesy of "Air Cadieux" aboard defence department aircraft—and so did their wives, as far as London.

To make the full European tour, from London on, the senators had to pony up with $350 for air fares in Europe for their wives.

The flight home for all hands, of course, again was "Air Cadieux."

Of their wives the memorandum said: "As this is a working trip, the wives will be on their own when their husbands are at work. The staff (the committee on tax-free booze) may arrange sightseeing, etc., tours for the ladies on request."

PS: The Senate bar-to-be still isn't yet.

Food Allowances

WE would draw your kind attention to the inadequacies of the social allowance amount for food presently provided to individuals and families throughout the province.

According to the Moderately Low Cost Food Plan of the Nutrition Division of the Health Branch, Department of Health Services and Hospital Insurance, monthly food costs for the following various groups this past August in Greater Victoria were calculated to be:

Adult man $32.49, woman $27.43; boy 16 to 20, $36.05, girl $28.91; boy 13 to 15, $32; girl $26.19; child 10 to 12, $25.62; 7 to 9, $21.19; 4 to 6, $17.17 and 1 to 3, $14.02. There are certain adjustments for family size, namely: One person living alone, increase cost by 15 per cent; two persons, increase by 10 per cent; three persons, increase by 5 per cent; five persons, decrease by 5 per cent; six persons decrease by 10 per cent.

The following illustrations contrast the low cost food plan amounts with the social allowance amounts for food:

Man living alone, low cost food plan $37.36, social allowance food guide, $35; woman living alone $27.43 and $35; couple, $65.90 and $60; family of two parents, boy 16 and girl 18, $124.88 and $85; family of mother, boy 12, girl 9, boy 4 and infant 6 months, $160.26 and $100; family of two parents, boy 17, girl 16 and boy 14, $156.88 and $100; large family of eight—parents, boy 17, boy 13, boy 10, girl 16, girl 14 and girl 6, $203.28 and $130.

It is readily apparent that food allowances provided by the local authorities fall woefully short, particularly where there are teenagers. Take the case of the above family of eight. They would require more than half as much again to assure the growing children of an adequate diet. Similar degrees of deficiency pertain in the family with two older children and in the family with three older children. However the young family of five where all four children are under 13 is allowed an adequate amount for food.

So immense are these deficiencies in these samples and in general that they cannot be met by the Free Food Stall at the month's end. In fact the stall undoubtedly would have to increase its operation fivefold or more and then operate on a weekly basis the year round to fill the gap. Rather than such stop-gap measures the logical remedy would appear to lie with the local and provincial governments' recognition that nutritional needs of individuals vary according to age, sex and family composition. An appreciable upward revision of food allowances consistent with the nutritional requirements, calculated monthly by the government's health department, seems imperative . . .

The Forgotten

May I be permitted to say a few words on behalf of people over the age of 65. You could call them the forgotten people. These are ex-civil-servants, old age pensioners, and any low-income group.

These people are the ones who are suffering more than anyone in this inflationary period, and no one seems to care, not even the pensioners themselves.

Why? Because they do not do anything about it. These elderly people are, or were, the pioneers who helped to build the country. Lots of them can still walk, talk and write, yet you wouldn't think so as we never hear from them. Silence may be golden but it won't make the government raise the old age pensions.

If organized labor unions acted like old age pensioners they wouldn't get their 30, 20 or 10 per cent raises either.

The other day people from all across the country raised a protest on something happening hundreds of miles away. It was, as far as Canada was concerned, a successful protest, although it didn't prevent the event taking place. If a protest such as this can take place, why cannot the people living on fixed incomes protest to the federal government and their members of Parliament to do something to help them in their predicament? They could freeze prices and have wage controls and raise tax exemptions but as long as nothing is said or done you can bet the situation will get worse.

A DO-NOTHING

Just Society?

Many of us find it difficult to appreciate the subtle differences between monetary, fiscal, and financial policies; but most of us are competent to add and to calculate interest, an essential skill at income tax time.

However, even to the mathematically sterile mind, there must be a dawning of appreciation of the direction that Canadian money is moving in. Consider the following sequence of events:

1. The 1968 Canadian Savings Bond issue. The full rate of interest was only available to those who could afford to wait, not to those who purchased bonds to supplement their incomes.

2. The 1968 income tax surcharge. This was paid to the maximum amount only by the low-income group.

3. CMHC mortgage money. This has risen to 9½ per cent, which is financially suicidal as far as the low-income home buyer is concerned. How many people can today find a reasonable home within the limits of 2½ years salary (once considered financially sound)?

4. Bank bonus accounts. Recently, all the chartered banks (the essence of conservatism) have offered increasing rates of interest, as high as 7¾ per cent on term accounts to secure money to loan, in one form or another, at higher rates.

5. The 1969 Canadian Savings Bond issue. The present rates of 7 per cent to 8½ per cent have been set to meet competition which forces the small subscriber to turn over bonds even when only one year old. A wasteful, expensive and inefficient procedure.

6. Chargex, purchasing system. This, the latest move in the spiral, has the chartered banks charging the retailer for charging the unfortunae customer 18 per cent on unpaid balances.

Even to the most casual observer, a pattern emerges which is most disturbing and promises increasingly serious trouble. The principle features appear to be:

That money IS used as a commodity rather than a means of exchange;

That inflation is being fed alternately by the government and the financial houses; and

That money is being channeled and that all channels ultimately lead to the few who already control the bulk of Canadian money.

The profiteering of industry and the avariciousness of unionized labor are difficult to condemn when the very medium of their concern has no permanent value.

Should we accept the premise that the Just Society should be restricted to the Just Who's Who Society?

I Beg to Differ . . .

Unfairest Thing of All

By FRANK LOWE

THE news item from Pittsburgh was the last straw. It said a survey conducted by the University of Pittsburgh of 100 of its June, 1967, male graduates showed that the size of one's pay cheque was tied to one's height.

Those male graduates who were under six feet in height, the survey showed, received an average monthly wage of $701. Men of exactly six feet got $719 per month. Those of 6-feet-1 earned $723 and men 6-feet-2 received $768.

For years, of course, I have known that tall men get a better shake from this old world than short men. Especially those of us who happen to be around the 5-foot-6 level.

I mean, have you ever tried to watch a parade when you're 5-foot-6?

I had also learned that women, for some reason unfathomable to me, prefer tall men. This cruel lesson was learned in high school when my five-foot bundle of chubby charm was steadily rejected in favor of some lout who looked like an extension ladder looking for something to lean against.

There are many other disadvantages to being of a normal height in a world inhabited by over-sized freaks. One must avoid fist fights, naturally. And one must always try to get as close to the front row in a theatre as possible.

There is also the indignity of the nicknames heaped upon the person of normal (5-foot-6, that is) height. My best friends in school for instance, used to think it was hilarious to introduce me to girls as "the runt of the litter." They would slap their lengthy thighs and scream with laughter, let me tell you.

Football, for me, became a nightmare. In our school we played English rugger and as I was short and chunky I was the heeler in the scrum. Then, when the scrum broke, I would fall flat on my face in the mud.

The only way I knew how the game was going was by keeping track of the traffic over my prone back.

If most of the cleats were moving down my back from my head to my toes, we were losing. If the traffic was in the other direction — if my own team mates were treading on me — we were probably winning.

Then there is that first venture into the business world. Employers, it seems, are always at least six-feet and a 5-foot-6 applicant immediately feels at a disadvantage as this monster he is asking a job from looms up over him like a cliff.

But up until I read about the University of Pittsburgh survey it had not occurred to me that even one's pay cheque is tied to one's height.

That seems the unfairest thing of all.

I mean, it doesn't give a person a chance. But it does explain some things I have been puzzled about for years.

For instance, the first decent newspaper job I had paid me $20 a week. But hired at the same time was a youngster my age, with an almost identical background, who started at $22 a week.

At the time I could not figure out why. But now I can. He was a shade over six feet.

I also recall the first time I asked to go overseas during the war. My boss looked at me and laughed. Then he sent a reporter who had trouble writing out an understandable laundry list.

But he was 6-feet-2, and still growing.

★ ★ ★

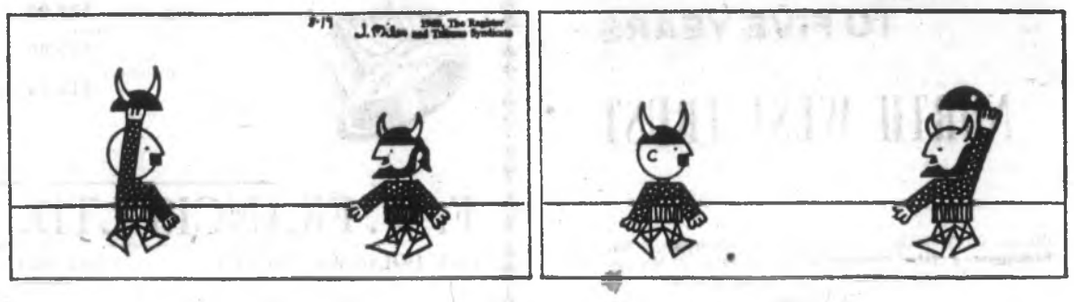

Even today there are disadvantages. Practically every office I visit is occupied by some lanky, loose-limbed monster who loves to talk to me with his chair tilted back and his feet resting on the desk top.

It conveys that look of relaxed, casual power every good executive needs.

But there is little use in me trying that pose. I have trouble resting me feet on my office floor. So when people came to see me they have a look at a chubby fellow perched precariously on the edge of his chair. It does not convey a look of relaxation or power.

Perhaps that is the reason we people of normal height are discriminated against on the payroll. We simply don't fit the executive image.

Cumberland Declares War On Untidy Material, Noise

Photostory
By AGNES FLETT

CUMBERLAND — An all-embracing nuisance bylaw with plenty of teeth in it, has been given third reading by the village council and now only awaits provincial ratification.

When that comes Cumberland council promises action on some of the more than 30 clauses the bylaw contains.

In line for action by the village fathers is elimination of untidy premises, removal of deserted, junk cars, demolition of abandoned buildings, and strict enforcement of the anti-noise clause insofar as hot rodders are concerned.

Mayor Bill Moncrief says the citizens of Cumberland will join together "to enforce the incessant noise clause, making citizens' arrests if necessary."

He deplores the fact that the RCMP has moved its detachment from Cumberland to Courtenay. With no RCMP based in Cumberland "the noise from misuse of cars has gone from bad to worse, and something must be done to stop it," he said.

The mayor points out that Cumberland has a new subdivision with many new homes going up. He adds that another 800 acres surrounding the village has been released from tree farm use so it can be used for residential purposes. He predicts this to be the start of a boom for Cumberland.

Under the new bylaw all untidy material, whether abandoned cars, or dilapidated buildings, will be removed or torn down, and all costs will be borne by the owner.

Hydro Pact Agreed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Office employees of British Columbia Hydro Tuesday announced acceptance of a two-year contract which will give 2,300 workers pay increases of at least 15.6 per cent.

Ron Bone, president of local 378 of the office and technical Employees Union, said an eight-per-cent increase is retroactive to April 1.

New scales go into effect Nov. 1 and increase by seven per cent April 1, 1970.

They range from a minimum of $324 to $346 a month for messengers to $936-$1,122 a month for rates analysts. Old rates ranged from $290 to $1,009.

Mr. Bone said about 150 employees covered by a construction supplement will receive increases of 17 to 22 per cent by April 1, 1970 and will be paid double time for overtime. Old figures were not given.

Jail Term Follows Drug Charge

NANAIMO — Michel La Lain, 27, of Nanaimo was sentenced to six months in jail by County Court Judge Harry MacKay Tuesday after being found guilty of possession of cannabis resin.

Court was told that traces of resin were found in a small brass pipe found in the premises of a coffee shop called The Place Aug. 26 during a police raid.

Police testimony indicated that at that time La Lain admitted the pipe was his and that it had been given to him by two African friends. Later when La Lain took the stand, he denied he owned the pipe.

FRIENDS TESTIFY

Several of his friends testified they had smiked marijuana in a pipe similar to the one in court.

Judge Mackay, passing sentence, said: "The accused is a glib young man but I had no difficulty in tabbing him as a liar."

Referring to testimony of La Lain's friends, particularly that of 17-year old Ken Davidson, he said their testimony was contradictory and that Davidson was "obviously lying throughout."

PROTECTION SOUGHT

"I have never seen or heard a group of less believeable witnesses," he said.

Witnesses John Murphy, Mr. Davidson and Norman Pierce all asked for protection under section five of the Canada Evidence Act, and were told they would be protected from any use of their testimony against them.

Mr. Murphy admitted he saw people in The Place smoking from the pipe. Mr. Davidson and Mr. Pierce both said they had used the pipe themselves.

DRUG USE

Mr. Davidson said: "I smoked what I believed at the time to be marijuana."

He added that he only smoked marijuana when La Lain was not in the coffee house.

Mr. Pierce, describing himself as a self-styled expert on local drug use, admitted he smoked "just about any kind you can smoke—marijuana, hash (hashish)," and that he would "definitely very much" smoke marijuana when La Lain was away.

Both Mr. Davidson and Mr. Pierce said they only smoked marijuana when La Lain was away, because he made it plainly understood that one of the coffee house's ground rules was that there should be no dope use on the premises for fear of police arrest.

LOUD NOISE

During the trial, noise from the hallway became so loud that Judge MacKay ordered the hall cleared. Later he told observers in the gallery that if noise persisted, he would clear the court.

When La Lain was being taken by car to the police headquarters, several young men who had attended the trial walked into the middle of the road,, impeding the police car. When the car was forced through, shoving one of them aside, one youth gave the side of the car a glancing kick.

Fishing Areas Reopen

CAMPBELL RIVER — Areas 12 and 13, including Johnstone and Queen Charlotte Straits, which have been closed to commercial fishermen for three weeks, will be open for two days starting Sunday, it was announced Tuesday.

Joe Fielden, district protection officer, said that the areas would also be open for two days the following week, starting Oct. 26.

He added: "There is a good likelihood that there will be a two-day fishery each week for up to five weeks if the run of fall chum salmon warrant it."

ANGER CAUSED

When the areas were closed, it was stated then that reopening was not expected before Sunday.

The decision caused anger among fishermen in the Campbell River area who called a protest meeting last week when it was stated that representatives had asked for the removal of Mr. Fielden from the district.

NO COMMENT

However Norman Lysne, secretary of Local 17 of the fishermen's union, said that as a representative of the union he was unable to support such a demand.

He felt that Mr. Fielden was only the scapegoat "in this drama."

On Tuesday Mr. Fielden declined to make any comment on the request.

Hunting Complaints

Nanaimo Region Will Oppose Offshore Drilling

Qualicum Mayor C. M. Darkis seconded motion by Mayor E. C. Irving of Parksville, during a meeting Tuesday night, to petition Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Bennett and to request other Island regional districts and municipalities to oppose drilling.

GANGES PROTEST

Mayor Irving said there was quite a lot of room in the rest of the world. "They don't need to come around our doorstep to do their drilling," he said. "One accident could ruin the whole area."

He noted that Ganges ratepayers had already mounted their own protest.

"Who wants to see clumsy rigs offshore with their pipes running to shore?"

He said a ship could drag anchor, break one of the pipes and send oil over the Straits.

'A CRIME'

"Then it wouldn't be emotion, it would be a darned crime. Accidents do happen. It happened in Santa Barbara and it could happen at Newcastle or Salt Spring islands."

Two other motions included asking the provincial government to amend the Firearms Act and to amend the regional board's letters patent to allow the board to limit sale or use of fireworks.

A number of complaints were received from the Divers Lake area, Wellington, about hunters' indiscriminate shooting, sometimes at tame ducks on the lake.

In preparation for the motion, areas including Wellington, Northfield, Departure Bay, Harewood and Chase River were outlined for protection under requested changes of the firearms Act.

It would be unlawful to shoot within those designated areas if the act is changed.

COMPLAINTS FORECAST

Ald. Mrs. Gertrude Hall observed that many improvement districts had areas used for recreation, other than hunting, such as horseback riding.

She complained: "These spent pellets are landing on roofs and are breaking windows."

Referring to firework control, Ald. Ken Medland predicted that city hall would get a flood of complaints about the misuse of fireworks after Hallowe'en.

"Until the outside areas have regulations, there is nothing we can do."

Marchers Boost Fund for Pool

DUNCAN — The 10-mile March for Recreation Monday provided another step up the ladder toward the $100,000 needed by Dec. 1 for a swimming pool in Duncan.

A total of 660 people of all ages joined in the leisurely scenic walk along country roads and were cheered by their sponsors and well-wishers for their community spirit.

* * *

The walkathon, sponsored by Duncan Kinsmen Club and Operation Recreation officials was described as well-organized by entrants. The route was marked out mile by mile. Along the way, were stands supplying oranges, apples and other refreshments.

The march raised nearly $12,000 to add to a total of $10,704 already collected by booster buttons and donations.

Most marchers completed the 10-mile walk within two to four hours.

Among those who received awards and special recognition was Miss Norah Denny, 84, the oldest entrant. Her walking companion was Miss D. R. Geoghegan, 78. They are the founders of Queen Margaret's private school at Duncan.

Max Geizekamp was applauded for his endurance after carrying 80 pounds of cement on his back during the march. Five-year-old Peter Gard of Duncan was the youngest to cross the line and Gordie Wing, a teacher, pulled a rickshaw along the course.

* * *

Jim Moore, who lost a leg during the Second World War, made the trip and commented later that he did not know which hurt the most — his real foot or his artificial one.

First across the finishing line was Paul Washington, 16, a member of Cowichan Valley Athletic Club, who registered a time of 58 minutes.

Police Seek Driver

DUNCAN—RCMP are looking for a driver who was involved in a hit-an-run accident on the Trans-Canada Highway just north of Chemainus River bridge Saturday.

Dead is Oliver Jack, 38, of Westholme. Police said he had been walking along the road and was found lying on the gravel shoulder. He received severe head injuries and is believed to have died instantly. The accident apparently occurred about 10:30 p.m.

NEW MODEL

RCMP said the car involved was a fairly, new model. The color was described as metallic lagoon aqua. The car is said to have damaged headlights, grill, hood and fender and probably one side. Police said the driver, or owner, of the car involved should contact his nearest police station.

Witnesses have also been asked to contact the police.

Mr. Jack was born at Westholme where he had lived all his life. He is survived by his father, one brother and two sisters. An inquiry has been ordered by Coroner Thomas Lines.

CLIFF PLUNGE

Gilles Nantel, 20, of CFB Esquimalt, was killed Saturday night when a car skidded off Highway 4 and plunged 135 feet down a cliff 31 miles east of Ucluelet.

Mr. Nantel is from Kiamika County, Labelle, Que. The driver, Jean-Paul Gendron, 22, of Berghierville Que., is in satisfactory condition in hospital at CFB Esquimalt. Emmanuel Gerald Bisson, 19, of Granby, Que., was asleep in the back seat and escaped with shock and bruises.

At Tofino the body of 43-year-old Raymond Sloman, a part-time patrolman with the federal fisheries department, was found by searchers Sunday in the water after his empty troller was discovered aground 15 miles northwest of Tofino.

Home Grows from Logs

Photostory
By DONNA CLEMENTS

DUNCAN — Not only is George Pastor's log house economical, it has his love because he watched it grow from a dirt floor into a home for his family.

Mr. Pastor, 26, of Duncan, a millworker, has two children He says his house has cost him about $165 so far, but he has put in more than 417 working hours in building the present one-room home.

Mr. Pastor said he and some of his relatives bought 77 acres of land a few years ago and he and his wife, Joanne decided to build a house. In May they started to build their log house.

LOGS CUT

"We cut the logs off the property and then peeled them," he said. "Then we had to notch them and put them up with block and tackle with a tractor."

He said he learned how to build the house just by doing it.

During the summer, the Pastor family lived in a tent near the location of their house, enabling Mr. Pastor to work on it in his spare time.

"We are just living in the skeleton of a log house right now," said Mr. Pastor, as he pointed to the one big room divided into bedrooms, kitchen and living room by arrangement of furniture.

The cost of $165 is for cement, nails and insulation.

FLAT ROOF

Mr. Pastor said he has 85 four-inch logs in the ceiling and 54 ten-inch logs in the walls.

"There is at least three hours work on each log," he said. "I had a lot of help from friends and relatives.

"We have a flat roof on now covered with plastic for protection", he said. "I am working on adding a three-bedroom upstairs now. Shakes for the roof will be off the property.

"I figure I will have the roof on, plumbing in and a carport added by Christmas I will then proceed to finish the inside. Our house is completely paid for as it stands and that is the way it will be as we go along."

WATER THERE

Mr. Pastor said his whole family was enthused by the project and were bearing inconveniences very well. There is no indoor plumbing but there is plenty of water on the site and they have a hose in the house supplying cold water at all times. Coal oil lamps are used for lighting and the house is warm with heat supplied by an old pot-belly stove and wood from the property. Cooking is done on a modern gas stove.

He said the only real disadvantage to him is when he is on afternoon shift and he tries to sleep.

"There is no privacy in one room," he said. "But the person that has been inconvenienced the most is my wife. "She has no hot water, no electricity and no plumbing but that will be remedied very soon."

"I love my log house and it is like a hobby. It makes me feel good to see what you can do if you try, said Mr. Pastor. "It is a novelty. Most people add wood finishes to their house and I already have it. All I have to do is touch it up. We get out of paying a monthly rent and a log house is cheaper than buying or building a regular house especially if you have the facilities we have had to use."

West Is Ready For Real Shot At Grey Cup

A five-game Canadian Football League weekend settled only that the Western Conference, which has been taking its lumps all season in interlocking play, has a real shot at the Grey Cup.

In what was perhaps the most significant game of the season, Saskatchewan Roughriders left a Regina crowd of 21,957 in ecstasy Sunday by overpowering Ottawa Rough Riders, 38-21.

Tonight's Ottawa-Winnipeg game will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 6, PDT.

Continuing their steady improvement after a slow start this season, the Western Riders produced a balanced attack and held the upper hand after scoring two second-quarter touchdowns which put them ahead, 16-8.

REED LEADS

Fullback George Reed led the Saskatchewan ground attack, carrying 25 times for 149 yards to regain the rushing lead and set a CFL record.

He now has 1081 yards for the season, leading Jim Evanson of B.C. Lions by 54, and is the first player in the CFL to have gained more than 100 rushing yards in each of six seasons.

Reed scored his club's first touchdown on a seven-yard run. It tied the score and the convert by Jack Abendschan put Saskatchewan ahead to stay.

Bobby Thompson scored twice, on 70 and 27-yard pass plays with Ron Lancaster, who also threw a 14-yard scoring strike to Hugh Campbell. Larry DeGraw got the other touchdown for the Westerners on a 75-yard punt return.

SEVEN POINTS

Abendschan kicked three converts and got four points on two field-goal chances. Al Ford got the other point on a punt.

Jackson threw two yards to Tom Pullin for the other Ottawa touchdown and Don Sutherlin kicked two converts and a single on a wide field-goal try.

STAMPS WIN

Bombers had a 15-1 lead until midway through the third quarter, when Gerry Shaw started the Calgary comeback by taking a seven-yard scoring pass from Jerry Keeling.

REDELL APPEARS

Keeling injured an ankle plunging for a first down and Bill Redell came in and ran 11 yards for the score. Robinson's convert was the winning point, the Bombers failing in a last-play effort to tie with a punt.

Winnipeg's defeat enabled Eskimos to take third place in the Western Conference through a come-from-behind 20-14 win over Montreal Alouettes in Edmonton on Monday.

DEFENCE WORKS

Fullback Jim Duncan ran seven yards for an unconverted touchdown in the second quarter and Eskimos trailed, 0-13, before their defence team led them back.

Tackel John LaGrone, a standout all afternoon, scored the first Edmonton points by grabbing the ball in the end zone after it had been batted away from Wade by Ron Forwick.

An interception set up a touchdown, on a five-yard run, by Jim Thomas late in the half. It tied the score momentarily at 13-13, Dave Cutler missing the convert try.

Wade broke the tie on the last play of the half with a 60-yard punt but the Edmonton defence throttled Als in the second half and Thermus Butler got the winning touchdown late in the third quarter on a nine-yard run.

In Monday's other game, Toronto Argonauts got two touchdowns from Dave Raimey in Hamilton to defeat the Tiger-Cats, 17-7.

Duff Retires

National Hockey League veteran, Dick Duff, 33, is reported to have retired after 14 years in NHL, the last four and one-half with Montreal Canadiens. Duff broke into the league with Toronto and was traded to New York before joining Canadiens.

Lane Can't Give Away His Rangers

Owner of 80 per cent of the stock of the Continental Football League club, Lane last week offered to turn his stock over to general manager Dick Berg and coach Don White if they would take over the $40,000 owed by the club on this season's operation.

At a press conference Monday, White and Berg jointly announced that 'due to complex financial, legal and tax uncertainties surrounding the proposed gift of Seattle Rangers, an exchange of stock to us from Lafa Lane will not be made at this time."

At last reports, Lane who has had the club for four years and reportedly lost $250,000 in its first two years, intended to carry on.

Hawks Need Hull—In Any League

Chicago Black Hawks are scheduled to move into the expansion division next season if plans to add two more National Hockey League clubs are carried out. But even there the Hawks will need Bobby Hull.

They have played two games this season. Both have been against expansion clubs, both have been lost and the Hawks have got the message. They had Hull in Chicago Monday, and while no progress was reported on contract talks, it was proof that the Hawks are getting a bit anxious.

That he would be useful was brought home forcibly to the Hawks Sunday night in a 2-1 home-ice defeat by Oakland Seals.

Seals played shorthanded for more than seven minutes in the first period but the Hawks managed only 10 shots in the period. They dominated play in the second and third period but didn't get their goal until the 12th minute of the last period, after the Seals had taken a 2-0 lead.

Laughton scored at 2:10 by driving in a goalmouth pass from Bill Hicke with Chicago's Jim Pappin in the penalty box. Linemates Hicke and Brian Perry were also in on the play when Laughton broke in alone from the faceoff to beat Denis DeJordy again.

In Sunday's other game, Boston Bruins opened their season before 14,831 hometown fans by scoring two first-period power-play goals and making them stand up for a 2-1 decision over New York Rangers.

Defeat was doubly costly when it was learned after the game that Ranger winger Bob Nevin will be out of action for at least two weeks with strained knee ligaments.

NANAIMO — A Bob Hope "nose key chain" and a miniature piano from Liberace are two of the items which have been contributed by famous people for Nanaimo Mariners' Club celebrity auction Oct. 24.

The auction, which will be held in conjunction with a pirates' wine and cheese party, will take place in Nanaimo Credit Union Hall.

The club is holding the event to help meet the costs of renovating and furnishing its building which is used by Canadian and foreign merchant seamen.

The club is a division of the British Sailors' Society whose headquarters is in London. Its B.C. headquarters is in Vancouver.

Auctioneers will be Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and Mayor Frank Ney, MLA for Nanaimo.

A club spokesman said that articles for the auction were obtained by writing letters to a number of well-known people. Each article received had a covering letter, indicating authenticity.

Among the items received, in addition to those from Bob Hope and Liberace, are: a putter from Paul Runyan; perfume nips from Cathie Cosby; record and picture from Andy Williams; pen from Art Linkletter; and a "well-worn tie, not a bow-tie," from former Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

Former U.S. president Harry Truman sent a signed letter. He said that all his articles are in a Truman museum.

Also donated were: a Red River cart from the mayor of Winnipeg; a Stetson hat from the mayor of Calgary, two half-gallons of Moose Jaw wine and a desk pen from the mayor of Moose Jaw.

Arrangements Made

DUNCAN — A special meeting of Cowichan Valley Athletic Club has been held to complete plans for the B.C. cross-country championships which will be held at Bazett's Farm, Bazett Road, Duncan, Saturday.

The official opening will take place at 1 p.m. when North Cowichan Mayor Donald Morton, Duncan Mayor Jim Quaife and Pat Moore of the Op-Rec Society will attend.

Parents of club members will have a concession stand at the meeting at which about 150 athletes are expected to take part.

Town Complimented For Help in Sale

Sale swings into action as Gold River Lions Club stage recent auction. The club made about $340 from the event and Gar Westlake, one of auctioneers, complimented residents on their "terrific response" in donating articles and buying goods. Lions collected about $450 in a one-night door-to-door campaign for Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Members were expecting another $50 from pledges due to come in. Port Alberni

Boat Basin Planned For Pleasure Craft

PORT ALBERNI — Port Alberni parks and recreation commission will ask city council approval for a $283,000 marine development project for Port Alberni.

The plan calls for vast expansion of a small boat basin at the mouth of Kitsuksis Creek and building of a stone breakwater.

The marina proposal would give adequate and safe mooring for a local fleet of small boats which has been growing at the rate of 350 a year. They consist of pleasure boats used mainly for sports fishing by mill workers and their families.

The commission has also discussed the possibility of building a second launching ramp for trailer boats at China Creek, north of the city, the present site of a provincial park.

The group is studying a five-year plan to upgrade existing city parks at a cost of $268,500. City manager Jim Sawyer is to confer with the commission on this project at a special meeting Oct. 29 when financing will be reviewed.

Nixon Counter Rejected

U.S. BRACES FOR PROTEST

From UPI, AP

WASHINGTON — The U.S. braced Tuesday for today's Vietnam Moratorium Day after the Nixon administration urged its leaders to repudiate Hanoi's support for their demonstration against the war, but got a curt refusal.

Vice-President Spiro Agnew, speaking with President Nixon's blessing, described as "incredible" an open letter to the American people by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong. Argew said demonstration leaders should repudiate the letter, which expressed hope that the protest would force Nixon to withdraw from the war.

But the moratorium leaders quickly issued this statement:

"Oct. 15 is an appeal to the conscience of the American people. It is regreitable that the administration would seize this straw in an attempt to discredit the patriotism of those millions of Americans who sincerely desire peace."

Agnew called the Dong letter "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the Amerian people by an enemy power." He said Dong tried to make it appear the American people would demonstrate in support of Hanoi, and Dong showed "a gross lack of understanding" of the meaning of free expression and open dissent in a free country.

The organizers predicted Nixon would respond to the protest by stepping up U.S. withdrawals from the war zone.

But Nothing Illegal

Provinces Late In Welfare Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario and Quebec, and probably several other provinces, have failed to keep their agreement with the federal government under which more than $700,900,000 has been paid for welfare programs, informants said Tuesday.

While the provincial defaults do not appear to be illegal, the auditor-general's office has instructed field representatives in the provinces to report on how widespread they may be.

VICTORIA TOPIC

Informants said the situation was discussed at a recent meeting of federal and provincial welfare ministers, held behind closed doors in Victoria.

Several provinces were criticized in a report to the conference for dragging their feet on written undertakings given to Ottawa when they joined the Canada Assistance Plan.

They also were reported to have been attacked for enacting legislation making provincial welfare departments the judge and jury on complaints by welfare recipients about their treatment by provincial agencies.

When they signed agreements with Ottawa at various times in 1967, all provinces agreed in writing that within one year they would enact laws providing for appeals by welfare recipients and would let welfare recipients or applicants know about the step.

Quebec, which should have complied by Aug. 21, 1968, still has the necessary appeals legislation before its National Assembly. Ontario, which should have complied by March 28, 1968, did not comply until last January.

Nevertheless, Quebec collected a total of $222,156,793

Russian Blast Biggest?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union Tuesday may have set off the most powerful underground nuclear test in history.

The Stockholm Technical Institute said the explosion, in the Novaya Zemlya test area, registered 7.2 on the open Richter scale, indicating a record yield of five megatons.

But Sweden's Uppsala Seismological Institute called the five-megaton estimate "rather exaggerated" and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission here said its monitors showed a test of about one megaton.

'Can't Ignore People'

They said the people "will be saying we want out and we don't think it's possible for the president to ignore the voice of the people."

Nixon, who said Monday he would not allow the moratorium to influence his policy, made a brief statement that he was trying to end the war as soon as possible.

"The debate is about how we achieve peace," he said. "Honest men can disagree about the means but let the world understand the American people want peace."

Nixon also said Monday he will go on nationwide TV Nov. 3 to speak on the course of the war.

Mass rallies, parades and similar events are planned across the U.S. in streets and churches, on campuses and at state and federal buildings.

Other Americans are expected to fly flags in support of the U.S. Vietnam policy and may parade as well.

The organizers have urged a "moratorium on business as usual," but insist it must be non-violent. Police in Washington and other large U.S. cities expressed no great outward concern about the chance of riots.

In Congress, members of the House supporting the protest led a lively debate on Vietnam most of Tuesday but were blocked in their efforts to keep the session going all night.

After several hours of sometimes heated but never bitter discussion, the debate ended abruptly at 7:05 p.m. PDT when Rep. G. V. Montgomery (D-Miss.) noted the absence of a quorum. A roll call vote of 112 to 110 then approved adjournament.

Power Under Attack

In the Senate, two members of the foreign relations committee introduced a resolution proposing repeal of the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave the president authority to take whatever steps he deemed necessary to resist aggression in Vietnam.

New York Republican Jacob Javits and Rhode Island Democrat Claiborne Pell included in the resolution a call for withdrawal of all U.S. combat troops by the end of 1970.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Thieu attacked the idea behind the protest, saying he would like to have about 100 demonstrators in Vietnam to see the situation for themselves.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, a U.S.-wide organization, urged flag-flying as a "silent counteraction" to the protest. The Jewish War Veterans and the rightwing John Birch Society said in separate statements they will not take part in any observances.

Officials in Pittsburgh said any students demonstrating in public school buildings there will face suspension for up to three days, as will students attempting to organize on behalf of the moratorium.

Pope Listens

Liberals Attack Primacy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul listened silently Tuesday as one leading liberal cardinal described the papacy as an "absolute monarchy" and another called for the pontiff to consult more with his bishops.

BISHOPS' 'COURTIERS'

Joseph Leo Cardinal Suenens of Belgium, one of the church's leading liberal spokesmen, said the synod agenda, prepared under the Pope's direction, "extols the primacy of the Roman pontiff in such a way as to make bishops look like courtiers."

"Some insist so much on the aspect of primacy," the cardinal said, "that they end up by describing the church as absolute monarchy of the kind which

Canada's Colombo Plan Idea

Streamlining Wins Favor

By IAN STREET

The 20th meeting of the Colombo Plan consultative committee began here Tuesday with technical experts from 24 countries considering a Canadian proposal to streamline proceedings in future conferences.

The Canadian secretary-general of the conference, J. G. Hadwen, said following the opening working session that the streamlining proposals were generally well received by the 70 delegates participating in the first week.

The conference proper doesn't open until next Monday, when Premier Bennett will give the opening address. Then, after another week of meetings by senior civil servants, the ministerial section of the consultative committee will put the final stamp upon the conference decisions.

It won't be until about Oct. 31, therefore, that the decisions will be made on the changes suggested by Canada, which include cutting the length of the conference from its present three weeks to two weeks.

Meanwhile, the new look is already apparent. The formal opening statements, which are normally presented by representatives of all 24 member countries, were reduced to two, with Mr. Hadwen welcoming delegates and one response on behalf of the other member countries.

Mr. Hadwen warned that this meeting would determine whether the Colombo Plan could and would remain a relevant institution.

The Colombo Plan is a self-help organization involving 24 countries ranging from Afghanistan, Bhutan and the Maldives to Korea, Pakistan, India and Thailand. The membership includes six donor nations — Canada, Britain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the United States—which have provided a total of $22,600,000 in aid.

The secretary-general told delegates Tuesday that all Colombo Plan members shared the pride of the countries of South and Southeast Asia in their achievements since 1950, and "we all share their determination to make still further efforts to improve the lot of their people."

While much remains to be done within the broad framework of economic development, Mr. Hadwen reminded delegates that "we must use our imaginations and all our

Laughing Youngsters End Veterans' Day

CIRENCESTER, England (Reuters) — Youngsters who laugh at elderly war veterans on the march have caused the cancellation of a Remembrance Day parade.

This town's British Legion has called off the traditional parade, due to take place Nov. 9, because the inability of some of the older members to keep in step has brought laughter from the spectators.

Capt. A. V. May, British Legion country secretary, said: "It is a very great shame that younger people laugh when the old soldiers get out of step, but it happens."

Hippies Bite Hand That Helps Them

The occupation came after hippies ransacked the offices of The International Times so they could start their own anti-establishment newspaper.

Latest Russian Unmanned

Four Ships Orbit

MOSCOW (CP) — An unmanned earth satellite was put into space by the Soviet Union Tuesday while two of three manned spaceships already in orbit manoeuvred toward a rendezvous.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the unmanned satellite, named Intercosmos I, was functioning as expected. It did not say whether Intercosmos I was directly connected with the mission of the three Soyuz spaceships in which a total of seven Soviet cosmonauts were riding.

★ ★ ★

There had been speculation that the Russians would launch an unmanned satellite to serve as the basis of an orbiting space station to be put together by cosmonauts from the three Soyuz spacecraft.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the unmanned satellite contained scientific instruments from East Germany, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union—the first such internationally-equipped Soviet Sputnik.

Reuter news agency said the unmanned craft appeared to have nothing to do with the manned Soyuz craft.

It was officially reported that the instruments aboard Intercosmos I are for measuring the sun's effect on the earth's atmosphere.

Representatives from all seven Warsaw pact countries attended the launching, exact site of which was not disclosed.

The four members not represented by instruments aboard the ship are participating in the experiment by making radio-astronomic, ionospheric and optical observations from observatories on their own territories.

Tass said Intercosmos I was launched "under a cooperation program of socialist (Communist) countries."

The news agency said the craft was circling the earth once every 93.3 minutes at a maximum distance of 400 miles and a minimum of 162 miles. Its orbit angle is 48.4 degrees.

The Soyuz craft are orbiting considerably nearer the earth, all at an angle of 51.7 degrees.

Tass announced the unmanned launching shortly after reporting that the Road Outlay Lined Up By Saanich

Saanich public works committee took a look at its 1970 road budget Monday night and came up with preliminary recommendations for $698,000 worth of new construction.

This year's new construction budget was $600,000, not including McKenzie Avenue.

The committee moved that design be authorized on the following roads: Carey Road, between Seaton and Glanford and Seaton and Douglas; Gorge Road from Tillicum to Dysart; Cedar Hill Cross Road, Shelbourne to Synod; Inverness from Glasgow to Quadra; Interurban between North and Alan; Glanford between Carey and McKenzie; Quadra between Nicholson and Rogers and Gordon Head from Cedar Hill Cross Road to McKenzie with three lanes and one sidwalk.

IN STAGES

Mayor Hugh Curis said he believed completion of the proposed program was "reasonably possible" with, perhaps, construction in stages on some of the jobs.

The committee heard a letter from E. D. Robbins, 3490 Mayfair Drive, who said he felt property owners on Mt. Tolmie were without adequate water supply for fire protection. He wrote his letter Aug. 24 while a fire was being fought on the mountain.

WATER AVAILABLE

Municipal Engineer Neville Life said there were 1,220,000 gallons of water available in nearby reservoirs for fighting fires on the mountain. Water lines are not designed for sufficient pressure to fight fires and pressure was supplied by pumper trucks, he said.

The matter was referred to the fire committee for investigation.

Wharf Plan Pushed

City Hall's drive to awaken interest in the Wharf Street urban development plan will start Thursday afternoon at a meeting in the McPherson Playhouse.

Some 700 invitations have been sent out to businessmen and developers in this district and across Canada to attend a showing of what has been done in San Francisco.

It is hoped that the lesson of what the California city did with its sub-standard waterfront will stimulate interest in the Victoria plan to develop the Wharf Street area and the Inner Harbor.

RECENT CHECK

Color slides will be presented by Ald. Ian Stewart who, along with City Manager Dennis Young and City Planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh, recently made an inspection in San Francisco.

If the Thursday showing is a success, a charter flight to San Francisco may be booked to let businessmen and developers see the transformation at first hand.

Space Age Art Here

By BILL THOMAS

A large plastic cube in the middle of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria was in near frenzy Tuesday as a group of Vancouver artists hammered and drilled the Intermedia exhibition into readiness for opening tonight.

The cube, built by Greg Birdsall, emits a fantasy of colored lights whenever the box detects any exterior noise — and there was lots of noise Tuesday. The cube is just one of the exhibits that illustrates the marrying of art and the complex electronics techniques of the space age.

The column, about five feet tall, has four speakers which emit radar-like signals. If a viewer is within seven feet, the system's detector picks up the returned signal and sets strange music in motion. If the viewer gets closer, the sound intensifies and strobe lights start to flash in the multi-colored plastic upper section of the column.

Vancouver artist Dennis Vance has built a walk-in light tunnel that flashes as spectators walk over pressure-sensitive switches. He is also responsible for Wave, a touch organ whose chrome pipes emit different sounds when they are stroked by spectators.

The grand finale, to be presented opening night only, is a blazing fire sculpture by Vincent Trasov. A few feet away on the gallary patio, Phil Harrison's water sculpture will be in operation.

Gary Lee Nova is presenting 16 blocks of ice, each of one cubic foot dimension, in four rows of four. He will photograph them continually until they melt to plain water. He then speeds up the film so the blocks seem to just vanish.

Mr. Nova said the Vancouver Intermedia group stared in 1964.

"In 1966, Intermedia staged the Trip Festival in a large building on the PNE grounds. By 1967 Jack Shadbolt and a group formed a committee for Intermedia and we were able to get a $45,000 grant from the Canada Council."

Mr. Graham said, "All except one work was designed specifically for this exhibition. The alliance between technology and art is a key feature of Intermedia creations, and has become one of the dominant features of international art in the last four years."

Guidance Needed

Educational TV Stumps Board

By BILL STAVDAL

Greater Victoria school board may call on its teachers for ideas on how to use educational television when it eventually arrives.

The proposal was made Tuesday as trustees considered the dilemma of ETV: trying to plan for it in a complete absence of guidance from provincial and federal governments.

"We're at a kind of impasse. We have to move and yet we're stymied," trustee Allan McKinnon said Tuesday.

IDEAS EXPLORED

He spoke as trustees met as the school board's education committee. The group informally explores educational decisions before making recommendations to a regular school board meeting.

Mr. McKinnon suggested calling on the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association for a study and recommendations on ETV in the capital region.

Chairman Dr. Carron Jameson said he had heard of some school districts "boxed in" after buying video equipment which later proved unsuitable or inflexible.

COMPATABILITY

Denis Brown, supervisor of curriculum and special services for the school district, said compatibality of equipment is a major problem. Videotape of one system often can't be used in another system, he noted.

Trustee Peter Bunn observed: "Even if we are the second-biggest school district in B.C., we can't go into this on a 'do it yourself' basis."

He said the district would have to co-ordinate with a provincial system, and preferably a national system.

OTTAWA MEETING

(Education Minister Donald Brothers told the B.C. School Trustees' Association convention in Vancouver last week that he will meet with Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier in Ottawa Oct. 20 to discuss a federal bill dealing with creation of a national ETV network.)

Dr. John Wiens, the school district's director of education, said he could foresee the day when children would spend less time at school, watching ETV at home. He also predicted the coming of computer terminals at home to aid independent study.

He doubted that any one school district could effectively go it alone.

But Not Total

Primary Pupils Fewer

Elementary school enrolment is down in Greater Victoria despite an increasing total school population, Greater Victoria school board was told Tuesday.

The grand total as of the official September-end count was 32,532, up slightly from the 32,116 of a year ago.

MEETINGS SOON

The board, meeting as its education committee, also heard that Dr. S. R. Laycock, an authority on sex education and co-author of a new report on emotionally disturbed children, will meet teachers and principals here next week.

On Oct. 22 Dr. Laycock will meet elementary and secondary principals to discuss the learning problems of disturbed children. The day following he will confer with planners of family life education in both elementary and high schools.

Girl Injured In Horse Race

Police said Margaret Starck of 4080 Granville was racing against her girl friend when her horse refused to stop at Interurban and Conway, near her home.

New 'Chicken' Game Played by Children

Victoria children are playing a new kind of "chicken" game, according to city traffic engineer David Campbell.

He told members of city council traffic committee Tuesday that the game is played by children as young as six and seven years.

A ball is thrown out on the road from between parked cars, and the object of the game is to run out in traffic and retrieve it. Any child who refuses to do it is called "chicken."

For that reason, and to promote safety generally, a stretch of Craigflower Road in the vicinity of Banfield Park will be cut down to a 20-mile-an-hour zone, and parking will be prohibited.

Property Owners Warned:

'No' Vote Costly In Referendum

By PAT MURPHY

If the View Royal sewer referendum does not carry in December, many property owners may be forced to install their own disposal systems, the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned Tuesday.

At the same meeting it was suggested that the referendum should be enlarged to take in a large area west of View Royal—the district from Parsons Bridge to Colwood Plaza and west to St. Mary's Priory.

NEED GREAT

This area, it was indicated, was as badly in need of proper sewers as View Royal. Here too, drain fields were seeping sewage into ditches, and land in many sections was polluted. Here, too, streams were being contaminated.

A report from the staff of the board of health stated that the View Royal sewage system, if installed, would connect with the main Macaulay Point trunk line to be installed as part of the regional board's over-all sewer project.

If the western area carried a referendum and a sewer system was constructed in that district, it, too, would be hooked into the regional line.

SIZE INFLUENCED

It was indicated at the meeting that this might influence the size of the main trunk line and the outfall which will be installed at the point.

The report also dealt with the possibility that the referendum might not go through.

"It will then be necessary for us to take court action requiring householders or operators of motels and trailer courts to install satisfactory sewage disposal systems containing effluent on their own property," the report said.

HOLDING TANKS

It was explained that this would mean the installation of holding tanks which would have to be periodically drained.

This, according, to Senior Medical Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, could mean an expenditure of as much as $1,200 a year for a householder.

Raw sewage pollution in the electoral areas of View Royal, Colwood and Langford has been a concern of the health board for many years, and it was decided Tuesday that an information release would be prepared pointing out the dangers inherent in the present condition of pollution and the great expense which would be incurred over the years by householders and commercial operators if they failed to vote in favor of sewer installations.

COSTLY FOR SCHOOLS

Saanich school board chairman Rubymay Parrott said it should be stressed that holding tanks were a very expensive proposition.

The emptying and carting away of sewage for two schools in her district was going to cost $7,000 for a 10-month period. At the same time, the health board release should be tactfully worded so that it did not put voters' backs up.

If the sewer grid was installed in the View Royal area, it would cost about $120 a year for each householder. If it was installed in the western district as well the figure would be cut to about $85.

'Man of Year'

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will name the winner of the Man of the Year Award at its luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel ballroom at 12:15 p.m. Oct. 22.

Federal Employees Pass Appeal Goal

Federal government employees in Greater Victoria have exceeded their target for the United Red Cross-Red Feather Appeal by $5,000 and their canvass is not yet completed.

"We've had a real drive on for a month," says Hugh Cameron, chairman of the federal services division. "Our target was $52,000 and we've already reached $57,000 and are still climbing."

The overall campaign has reached $257,118 which is 37 per cent of its target of $694,000. Collections to date are up nine per cent over the same time last year.

'Unauthorized Promises'

Sidney Pledges Complete Probe

By NANCY BROWN

"Unauthorized promises" which have brought a developer to the brink of disaster will be the subject of an immediate investigation in Sidney.

The decision was made Monday night by Sidney Council after hearing building contractor A. S. Bains tell of road paving promises which he said had been made by Sidney building inspector W. G. Seward, and by K. L. Thomson of a paving company.

Mr. Bains asked council to go ahead with paving Bradford Avenue as had been promised.

In a letter from Mr. Bains' law firm, Straith, McIntosh and Co., council was told that road into the development on Bradford Avenue had been promised as soon as the roadbed was prepared by Mr. Bains. The road had been ready for 12 months.

Further delay could retard development of the area and the sale of properties, and winter weather could also damage the prepared gravel roadbed.

Mayor A. W. Freeman said council minutes indicated only a promise to grade the gravel.

Mr. Bains said that as the developer, he had been given all kinds of promises which he had passed on to people buying homes.

"I have been placed in an embarrassing position, and I don't want this matter to be taken so lightly," he said. "If council didn't intend to do the work, which would cost about $2,000, I should have been told and I would have gone ahead on my own."

"I'm sure council can get back the paving cost out of taxes," he said. "Because of this delay over the past year I have already suffered enough loss.

SEES DISASTER

"If you let this go on into 1970 that would be just about the finish for me. Delay could be disastrous."

Questioned about the promises which he said had been made to other people in the area as well as to himself, Mr. Bains said the building inspector and paver had both assured him that the job would be done quickly.

"It seems unauthorized promises have been made on our behalf," said Ald. Leonard Bland. "Let us look into this and determine if this is right or wrong. If promises have been made then council should carry them out."

Ald. Stanley Dear said a similar problem in the same area had been dealt with in committee, and the inquirer had been told that Bradford Avenue paving had not been budgeted for this year but would be considered in the 1970 budget.

It was decided to turn down the request for immediate action. Ald. Bland voted against the motion. It was also decided to launch an immediate investigation into the accusations of Mr. Bains.

Dedicated To Cause

Wearing traditional robes, Tsartlip chief Philip Paul dedicated himself Monday to Indian cause in two-hour name-giving ceremony performed by his father Chris and observed by white men for first time. New name, for which nearest phonetic spelling is Sitzelece, is traditional family name for leader and was last held by wrestler Chief Thunderbird.—(William Boucher)

Summer Rerun Out Via CTV

Elizabeth Sketch Angers Public

Complaints from unhappy Canadians Tuesday about an imaginary Queen Elizabeth Show on Carol Burnett's TV program the night before have made it definite the program won't be repeated by any B.C. station.

Lloyd Colthorpe, program director of the CTV network's Channel 8 in Vancouver, said he will make sure the program is not shown during next summer's reruns.

"I didn't see the program myself," he told the Colonist, "but when I walked into the office this morning, I knew something was wrong. I've been getting calls all day."

He said 15 people called the Vancouver office of Channel 8 Monday night, and another 10 people called him Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

"Not one of the callers was in favor of the sketch," he said. "All the people I spoke to said it was offensive and in bad taste."

He said he did not know whether any of the complaining calls had come from Victoria, "but we may get letters later in the week."

A total of 25 complaining calls might not sound like very much, he said, but in his experience people annoyed enough to call or write a television station represented "a great deal more adverse reaction than just their own."

On the other hand, he said, people who liked a program usually didn't bother to let the station know they approved.

The program was also broadcast over Seattle's Channel 7 and Bellingham's Channel 12.

Dave Mintz of Channel 12's Vancouver office said he had received about 10 telephone calls about the program—all against it.

"But in a metropolitan area that includes about 400,000 television sets, we don't consider 10 calls a particularly significant thing," he said.

Channel 7 has no Vancouver office. But in Seattle, station manager Philip Corvo told the Colonist he had heard no complaints about the program, although they might expect "a few letters" in the next day or so.

In the finale she appeared dressed only in a tiara and the Union Jack, cut in the shape of a miniskirt.

For Safe, Carefree Driving This Winter...

Care for Your Car

Here's how to make sure your automobile gives you the most pleasurable, trouble-free and safe performance it can deliver - especially during fall and winter.

This Driver Isn't Gassed —He Has Wanderitus Woes

Have you ever followed behind . . or ridden with . . . a driver who seemed to be jockeying his steering wheel back and forth as if he were winding his way through an obstacle course? His car may have been weaving a bit, but his steering wheel was working overtime.

That person was driving a car with Wanderitus, an ailment of the steering system. Its results are: driver fatigue, passenger car-sickness and sometimes, in severe cases, dented fenders.

Wanderitus is the product of looseness in the parts that transmit steering effort to the front wheels. You turn the steering wheel and, before the effects are felt, you must take up the slack caused by looseness in these parts.

The driver tries to counteract this darting business by winding his steering wheel in the other direction. It is like tying to control a ship with a loose rudder.

Like so many car ailments, Wanderitus creeps up on its victim, who subconsciously compensates for the worsening condition by more action at the steering wheel. Finally, he is whipping his wheel, from one side to another in only partial control of his car.

To determine for yourself whether or not your car is beginning to suffer the first sneaky stages of Wanderitus, try this simple test:

With your front wheels pointed straight ahead, and your car standing still, move the steering wheel about a quarter turn to the left, then to the right.

If the steering wheel moves more than two inches before the front wheels begin to turn, your car's steering system needs some adjustment, or possibly replacement of worn parts.

For Few Extra Bucks Used Cars Sell Easier

Are you thinking about selling your car yourself rather than trading? There are a few things you can do to help Old Faithful sell quicker and for a better price.

Your prospective customers will be much more aware of certain idiosyncrasies which you have learned to live with but which might not cost much to fix. Worn carpeting, for example, can be covered with attractive contour floor mats for a few dollars.

DON'T OVERLOOK

A noisy muffler or a missing engine, things you may have been planning to take care of, can make the big difference between sale and no sale. Especially if your prospect has been shopping good cars in your price range.

Maybe you have become accustomed to compensating for slightly loose steering or slightly grabbing brakes. Don't try to sell your car in this condition? You might lose your customer and your car . . . in a ditch. Instead, invest a few dollars to have a car you know is right when you turn over the keys.

One service found successful by reputable used car dealers is a lube job and oil change. A clean, new sticker on the door jamb gives the buyer increased confidence in the car and the person selling it. The cost is peanuts.

This is not to say you should go overboard in fixing up to sell. Some people have learned, to their dismay, that a cheap dent repair or inadequate paint job can actually work against them.

We bet 7 bucks you won't get stuck

Some people talk about traction. But when you buy two Firestone "Town & Country" winter tires, we put it in writing: "You go . . . or we pay the tow!" Up to seven bucks worth of towing to get you going again. We'd have to be pretty confident about these tires to make a guarantee like that. And we are. You can bet on it!

Tick-Tick-Tick Means Trouble

One of these mornings when you start your car you may hear a mysterious tick-tick-tick from the engine for a few seconds. Don't ignore it. The sound can be a sign of impending engine troubles.

The tick-tick-tick you hear is the sound of your car's tappets tapping, a malady that affects some engines in cold weather when the oil takes longer to get to the valve mechanism. Cold oil moves slowly because it is thicker.

If the ticking prevails for more than a few seconds, your problem may be dirty oil and a clogged oil filter. One tiny particle of dirt, carbon, a minute speck of metal or plain old dust from the air can be enough to hinder the operation of the precision hydraulic valve lifters that make modern engines so quiet.

If you should hear an ominous tick-tick-tick, the first thing to do is to take a look at the lube sticker on your door jamb to see when you last had the oil and filter changed. The last man to do the job should have noted it there. If it has been more than three months since you had this service, you may be inflicting considerable damage to your engine.

The oil you buy for your car has to lubricate to reduce friction and wear of working parts. It must protect metals from acid and rusting. Its job also includes sealing, cooling and keeping the engine clean. A regular change of oil filter helps the oil do its job.

A clean air filter helps, too. It helps keep out damaging abrasives that can work their way into the engine from the air it breathes.

Air filters should be changed or cleaned, if yours is the cleanable type) at least every six months, or twice a year.

When to change oil and oil filter? This depends more on driving conditions than on mileage. Short distance, stop and go driving, for example, is harder on engines than long, steady speeds. Winter weather, too, presents problems.

It Takes Special Touch to Be Winter Driver

Winter safety begins with S—five of them in fact. The National Safety Council lists the following as indispensable to safe winter operation:

- Set yourself by having your car ready for winter.
- See by keeping windshield, windows and lights clean.
- Start with a gentle touch, don't spin wheels.
- Steer steadily, increase following distance, watch for temperature traps.
- Stop by pumping brakes.

In preparing a car for winter, the council recommends the following: Replace worn tires since they have lost ability to grip icy or snow-covered roads. Check brakes since uneven pulling on brakes can put you into a skid. Make sure windshield wiper blades are not worn and the blade arm pressure is tight. Check wiper solution and defroster operation.

Exhaust condition is more vital in winter when car windows are usually closed. So inspect muffler and exhaust pipes for leaks. Check the battery and ignition system which get more severe tests in winter.

Since winter darkness and snow or ice put a premium on good visibility, follow this advice:

Before starting out make sure all windows are free of ice or snow. Don't forget to clean the hood and top since blowing snow from these areas can obstruct vision. Don't start off until there is enough heat in the car to prevent condensation that can fog up windows.

Use your lights at low beam at dusk, in rain or snow or in gloomy weather. Keep windows especialy clean at this time of year, washing them frequently inside and out with a mixture of water and windshield anti-freeze solution.

★ ★ ★

Start off in "drive" in automatic transmission cars and in second gear with manual transmission if traction is poor.

If you can't get sufficient traction, place sand, a metal mat or carpeting under both rear wheels. Letting air out of the tires does not do enough good to offset the extra wear they'll be getting. Using extra weight in the trunk has little benefit. Instead it can put headlights out of normal alignment by proving hazardous in a side skid.

Winter tires or chains are your best bet.

If the car should go into a skid, immediately turn the steering wheel in the direction the rear wheels are sliding. Avoid oversteering and when you feel the car coming out of the skid straighten the wheels.

Be extra cautious on bridges or in shady areas since they are more likely to be icy when other road areas are clear.

Lastly, follow other cars at twice the distance you normally do in good weather. This will enable you to stop safely if the car ahead gets into trouble.

When stopping on slippery pavement, pump the brakes until you halt. Jamming them locks the rear wheels and puts the car into a skid.

★ ★ ★

Observe these five S's and you can help conquer the four S's of winter: Snow, Sleet, Skids and Starting trouble.

WINTER HAZARDS GREATER

Roads present more hazards to tires during winter months than during warm-weather months. Foreign objects such as nails and glass are retained in the buildup of ice and snow. For this reason, check winter tires carefully and frequently for cuts or breaks. And be sure you have a spare tire in your car's trunk.

BELTS SAVE LIVES

Seat belts do save lives. Studies of actual auto crashes by investigators at Cornell University prove it. The National Safety Council estimates that at least 5,000 to 10,000 lives a year would be saved if every motorist used a seat belt every time he got into a car.

WHEN PASSING

When passing another car, remember that it is moving too. Don't cut back in front of it until you can see its headlights in your rear-view mirror.

A SWISH IN TIME with a spray gun is likely to save some expensive repairs later. By taking care of minor nicks, scratches and dents as soon as they become noticeable, a motorist can avoid premature deterioration of his car's body.

Cold Hurts Wiring

Motorists who look for the end of hard starting trouble during warm spells may be in for an unpleasant surprise. For the ravages of winter driving may hit a critical area, the wiring system.

As a result, starting may be difficult and driving performance erratic. All this may stem from salty slush sprayed on the engine compartment or extremely cold temperature that makes wiring brittle. And less driving during the winter means fewer stops at service stations where potential trouble may be spotted.

Inspection of ignition wiring along with other normal services at tune-up time is indispensable to good motoring. Spotting signs of wear may catch present performance trouble as well as preventing future trouble.

Cracks in wiring insulation or corroded terminals can affect engine performance or even cause complete breakdowns. There are several causes for the cracks and corrosion, especially in older cars.

Excessive oil, grease or atmospheric conditions can cause wiring insulation to become brittle and to crack. Water and dust can enter these cracks and partially ground the high-tension voltage. As a result, not enough current reaches the spark plugs.

To get maximum effectiveness from ignition wiring, keep it free from dirt, oil and grease. All terminals should be inspected periodically for corrosion and for proper connections.

Oil Spots Under Car Warning to Driver

Have you ever noticed the dirty looking areas on concrete highways right between the paths thousands of wheels have traveled? Part of that dirt is grease and oil from other peoples' cars.

On your driveway or garage floor, the same kind of dirty marks may be from your own car, and this can be a housekeeping problem—particularly painful if you have just invested in yards of new concrete for the driveway or if someone manages to step in the grease, then track it all over your brand clean carpeting.

Taking a positive look at this messy business, a leak or drip is a danger signal. When cars are new, they don't drip grease or oil. At least, they shouldn't. But time, wear and vibrations take their toll on seals and gaskets.

Think of all the parts that could be leaking: the engine or the differential, the power steering, a brake cylinder, even a shock absorber.

A spot of grease or oil under your parked car can mean you soon will have no lubrication on expensive gears such as in the rear axle or transmission. A drip can indicate that raw gasoline is getting on your engine (right next to 15,000 volts of electricity). This kind of thing spreads car fires.

Your car sounds a four-alarm alert, in its own quiet way, when the drips are leaking brake fluid. This usually drips onto the inner surface of a tire; so you may not see it unless you happen to climb underneath your car to look. But your service station man can spot it when he has your car on the lift for service, which is a good reason, among others, for getting the car up on the lift from time to time.

If you see greasy or oily spots on the floor of your garage, on your driveway or your wall-to-wall carpeting, check into things. Put some newspaper or large pieces of an old sheet you were going to tear up for rags anyway under your car's regular parking place. See how much grease or oil accumulates overnight and approximately where the leak seems to be coming from.

Next day, take your car and the evidence to your service man and ask him to fix things up. This can save your car, your money and even a life.

A PENNY FOR YOUR SAFETY

A tip to car owners—invest a Lincoln penny in your family's future. Why a Lincoln head penny? Insert a penny head first into the treadgrooves of each tire. If the head of "Honest Abe" can be seen, the tire has worn to a dangerous point and should be replaced.

SIGNAL YOUR INTENT

On winter's icy roads, motorists should give signals of intention to turn sooner than they would under normal driving conditions.

How to Escape Head-On Crash

Have you ever driven along a country road at a mile a minute and wondered what you would do if you suddenly encountered a road block just over the crest of a hill?

Or how would you avoid a pair of cars coming at you from the other direction around the next bend—side by side?

For virtually every situation there is an alternate route you can take . . . an escape route . . . if you have trained yourself to think about it.

In congested traffic, an escape route can be hard to find. Especially if you are on an urban expressway bordered by high concrete walls.

MAINTAIN YOUR MARGIN

In this case, it is necessary to maintain your margin of safety by avoiding clusters of cars. Don't allow yourself to become boxed into a high speed bumper-to-bumper pack from which there is no escape.

But let's get back to suburban or rural roads, the kind of terrain over which sports cars are driven in road races. The drivers have trained themselves to think constantly about escape routes. Many times per mile they reappraise the situation so they'll be ready for instant action.

Looking for escape routes is a good habit to establish. First, assume that any second you will be forced out of your lane by a stray cow.

Can you swerve into the left lane? If not, is there a wide enough shoulder so you can steer to the right? Are there any obstructions? Will you land in a ditch? What would be the least dangerous way to execute your emergency measure?

FOUR 'MUST' CHECKS

Just as important, would your car get you through such a situation, or would it make matters worse? Good shock absorbers and tires plus tight steering may pay big dividends in an emergency. With lights properly aimed, you might avoid the situation entirely.

This only an exercise, of course. You may never have to find an escape route. But wouldn't it be a good feeling to know you and your car could pull each other through such a crisis?

Crooked Wheels Hard on Tires

Proper wheel alignment will achieve that objective. When a tire, forcefully hits a chuckhole or similarly rough spot, the result can be wheel leaving its straight and proper course. This, in turn, can result not only in costly tire wear which can create a safety hazard but also can result in damage to the car's frame.

Approximately 15 to 20 per cent of tire wear on all of our nation's cars comes from improper wheel alignment. Regular inspection of tires to make certain wheels are rolling correctly not only will save motorists money but will reduce the chances of the car "creeping" toward a dangerous road shoulder or across a centre lane, when the driver might relax vigilance for a moment.

A wheel off-line can result in scuff tire damage within a mile of driving. Few drivers realize the tremendous wear on a tire that, for example, "toes-in" or "toes-out." Each 10 miles of driving, with this kind of wheel misalignment, is equal to the tire wear which would come if the car were dragged sideways for 100 feet.

Bundle Of Death

Only a handful of professional athletes ever know the terror of stopping a Bobby Hull slap shot or ducking a high inside fastball thrown by Bob Gibson. Hull can shoot the puck at about 100 miles per hour and Gibson can throw a hard one at about the same speed.

But unless the average car owner is careful, he could learn of these experiences the hard way.

Take the case of a one-pound object carelessly stored on the rear shelf of a family car. It is travelling at the same velocity of the car. Should the package become dislodged it would move in the same direction of the automobile.

The package weighs more than twice as much as a puck or baseball, so, when the car is travelling at 50 miles per hour, a dislodged package flying at a motorist's or passenger's head is a potentially lethal weapon.

This winter, more cars won't start because of worn spark plugs than old batteries. Worn spark plugs? You'd better believe it! Especially in winter.

The colder it gets, the more your battery's output drops. So there's less voltage available to start. Worn spark plugs can easily require twice the voltage of new plugs. Result—you have a combination that can be too much for even a brand-new battery.

You don't want starting trouble this winter. Get a Champion Tune-Up now. Champion spark plugs meet or exceed the warranty requirements of all vehicle and engine manufacturers. Remember—an untuned car is trouble!
